ROOSEVELT AND FARLEY DISCUSS NEW PATRONAGE

Study Battle Plans for Campaign.

BULLETIN.

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt boarded his special train here tonight at 10 p. m. for an overnight ride to the capital and left at 10:30 (eastern standard time). Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Postmaster General Farley joined Mr. Roosevelt from their New York homes and rode with him to Washington.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 25.—[Special.]—Job hungry Democrats throughout the nation centered their wistful attention today upon President Roosevelt's Dutchess county home as Postmaster General Farley, distributor of Democratic patronage, conferred with his chief and submitted a long list of recommendations for positions set up under the far reaching legislation of the recent congress.

It was a meeting between two of the shrewdest politicians in the United States and of particular significance because it was admittedly the last such discussion before the President leaves on his Hawaiian cruise next Saturday.

Pot Bubbles Furiously.

The political pot bubbled furiously as the postmaster general talked for more than four hours with the President. Not only important appointments and minor jobs were discussed but the general plan for the beginning of the congressional campaign was laid before the chief executive for his approval.

It also was reported authoritatively that the question of Farley's position as chairman of both the New York state and national Democratic committees was given serious scrutiny by the President and his chief political aid. This morning's blast by Bertrand H. Snell, Republican leader, against Farley's grip upon these positions while he remains as postmaster general was studied carefully.

Not Ready to Quit.

Farley is not ready to resign his chairmanships until after the fall elections, it was said. He plans soon to make a swing around the country in an attempt to bolster up the New Deal in those sections where it is failing in popularity.

Among the recommendations submitted to the President by the postmaster general were those for positions upon the newly created stock market regulation, communications and housing commissions. The names of those recommended were closely guarded and the President will not make public his appointments until he returns to Washington. He will arrive at the White House tomorrow morning after a vacation of six days.

New York politics entered into the talk, it was said, the President having by no means lost his interest in the affairs of the state of which he was governor. There is no secret to the fact that Farley would like to be the next governor of New York or that the President wants Gov. Herbert H. Lehman to join him at Washington as a member of the senate or the treasury. And Senator Royal S. Copeland, who has proved himself a stubborn foe to certain New Deal measures, may be slated for the skids in favor of some other Democrat when the state convention meets to nominate its candidate for the senate.

An Enjoyable Meeting.

All in all, it was a thoroughly enjoyable political get-together, the genial Farley admitted. He remarked smilingly that some deserving Democrats were mentioned for jobs.

The three members of the planning committee in charge of the "long range Roosevelt plan" lunched with the President and submitted to him a tentative report, it was announced. The members are Frederic A. Delano, Prof. Wesley Mitchell of Columbia university, and Prof. Charles Merriam of the University of Chicago.

Details of the report were not made public, but the plan embraces the expenditure of millions of dollars over a period of years. The President explained that the work of the committee was an effort to coördinate into one general survey all plans for forestry work, soil erosion, land use, flood control, and similar factors.

A final report will be made after the President returns from Hawaii and the next congress will be asked to legalize the program.

POLICE TO VIEW PODERJAY CABIN ON LINER TODAY

Act on Theory He Killed Bride.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—When the liner Olympic docks at this port tomorrow evening, experts of the New York police research bureau will make a microscopical examination of the stateroom occupied by Ivan Poderjay, who sailed for Europe Dec. 20, sixteen days after his bigamous marriage to the now missing Agnes Tufverson.

The experts hope to discover new clews and evidence. They will make measurements to determine whether or not it would have been possible for a dismembered body to have been cast from the porthole of Poderjay's cabin. Plumbing and carpets will be ripped out and studied with microscopes and magnifying cameras in a hunt for bloodstains.

Trunk Important Clew.

The police are not convinced by statements of stewards of the ship, made in London, to the effect that they were certain "Miss Tufverson was not aboard the Olympic, either as a passenger or as cargo."

One vital point in the story of the stewards remains to be cleared up. This concerns the trunk which Poderjay kept in his stateroom—86 on C deck—where he had all his meals served.

Ernest Churcher, one of the stewards, said the trunk was about 20 inches square and 3 feet 6 inches high. It was brass bound. The steward said he saw this trunk opened once by the handsome adventurer when he pulled out a necktie, and that he scanned its contents. But the steward did not say, according to the dispatches, whether this was early in the voyage, or during the last days of the trip.

The time element enters into the case. The police say it might have been possible for the contents of the trunk to have been thrown out of the porthole early in the voyage, and for Poderjay to have purposely opened the trunk later to impress the steward with the fact that it contained nothing at that time beyond clothing and wearing apparel.

Stewards Face Questioning.

The stewards, therefore, will be questioned on the exact day and time when they saw the trunk open.

Even before the Olympic docks, the police may decide to send one of two detectives to Vienna, where Poderjay is being held in jail on suspicion of murder and tentative charges of bigamy. Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan, and Assistant District Attorney James T. Neary will take part in the conference and Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia may be consulted.

The Vienna police have expressed the fear that they might have to release their prisoner unless formal charges are registered against him.

Seek Grounds for Indictment.

The New York police, lacking a corpus delecti and evidence of a crime, have asked Mr. Neary if an indictment can be secured for bigamy or for the theft of Miss Tufverson's wardrobe. Some of the missing woman lawyer's honeymoon articles have been found in the possession of Miss Susanne Ferrand, one of Poderjay's wives. The Jugo-Slavian married Miss Ferrand in London in March, 1933, nine months before he wed Miss Tufverson in New York.

While the New York police were trying to establish grounds for an indictment, the Boston police were reviving the report that Miss Tufverson had been a customer of a Boston cleaning establishment within the last month.

Capt. Stephen J. Flaherty, head of the Boston detective bureau, called Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan on the telephone and said that Mrs. Ruth Hall, who works in a Winter street cleaning and dyeing shop, had positively identified a photograph of Miss Tufverson as that of a woman who had a dress cleaned in the place only two weeks ago.

Searches For Address.

Capt. Flaherty reported that Mrs. Hall was certain that the woman who came into the store about June 10 brought a dress that was exactly like the one she had on when the photograph as taken. Mrs. Hall said the woman gave her name as "Todgerson," and an address somewhere in Dorchester street. The clerk promised to search through the store records for the address.

The customer, Mrs. Hall told the Boston police, first came to the store about May 15.

"I remembered her because of her eyes," she said. "The woman in this picture has the same piercing eyes and the same general makeup."

Miss Sally Tufverson, sister of the missing attorney, was in the office

RFC to Rush Chicago Loan for Teachers

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, made an announcement yesterday in Washington which Chicago officials interpreted as virtual assurance that Mayor Kelly's plan of meeting back school pay rolls through an RFC loan will be consummated within comparatively few days.

Mr. Jones said that Chicago and possibly a few other large cities appear to be the only ones which will be able to qualify in the matter of "adequate security." Congress imposed this requirement when it passed the amendment to the industry loans act permitting the RFC to lend 75 million dollars to pay back salaries of school employés.

He added that as soon as Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the Chicago school board, files the application for the loan, red tape will be swept aside and the RFC officers will rush the matter through after routine verification.

City Lists Guaranties.

Attorneys for the government lending corporation are now drawing up the application form and the details of the loan have already been discussed thoroughly by Mr. Jones and Mr. Folsom.

The Chicago school board will offer as security for its loan a 28 million dollar bond issue. It asks for a loan of $25,447,240 on this collateral. In addition to the general credit of the board, the bonds will be backed by a lien upon 30 million dollars' worth of real estate owned by the board and not used for school purposes, principally loop real estate.

A test case to determine the legality of the procedure has already been argued at Springfield and is awaiting early decision by the Supreme court.

Sabath Sees No Hitch.

Points at issue in this case are the power of the school board to incur bonded indebtedness, separate from that of the city, up to the limit of five per cent of assessed valuations in the city set by the constitution, and the right of the board to mortgage property not used for educational purposes.

"The board can get the loan on the security of the real estate alone," said Congressman A. J. Sabath. "The act merely specifies 'adequate security.'"

Courtney Detectives Expose Plots.

Sixteen prisoners, all said to be involved in a wholesale arson ring which has collected a percentage on more than $1,000,000 of fire insurance, were held by State's Attorney Courtney last night. More arrests are expected.

It was announced that some of the prisoners have made confessions describing twenty-five incendiary fires set to collect insurance. It was also disclosed that the gang was not content merely to take part of the insurance money as its reward for starting the fires. In at least two instances, the confessions showed, members of the ring plotted to kidnap the owners of the burned properties and extort from them the remainder of the insurance.

Expose Ring After Torture Clew.

The arrests and confessions were brought about by the detective work of Lieut. John L. Sullivan and Sergt. Thomas Kelly. Assigned ten days ago by State's Attorney Courtney to capture the man who tortured a Toledo merchant visiting in Chicago, Sullivan and Kelly followed a slender clew in this case until it led them directly into the operations of the arson ring.

At one point in the investigation Lieut. Sullivan risked death to put out a fire started by the incendiaries. This act of heroism and the capture of a woman and three men in the act of starting the fire resulted in exposure of the whole ring.

The two policemen were aided in their investigation by Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan, Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan, and Assistant State's Attorneys Marshall Kearney, John Boyle, and Gordon Nash.

Courtney Praises Detectives.

"This is one of the finest pieces of detective work of which I've ever heard," said State's Attorney Courtney. "Lieut. Sullivan and Sergt. Kelly are to be congratulated. We have information concerning many more fires and there will be several other arrests. A dangerous arson gang has been broken up."

The sixteen persons in custody, together with information about them as supplied by the state's attorney's office, are:

RUDOLPH PISANI, alias Miller, 30 years old, 2316 Washington boulevard, kidnaper, torturer, and incendiary. He has confessed.

ROMOLA PISANI, 2316 Washington boulevard, father of Rudolph.

MRS. ELSIE PISANI, mother of Rudloph, who confessed driving her husband and son to and from arson jobs. Last night she suffered a heart attack and was taken under guard to the county hospital.

VALENTINE NOTARI, 1538 West 68th street, a salesman of printing machinery. He has confessed.

JOSEPH BROWN, 4137 Drexel boulevard, recently from East Chicago, alleged to be a professional incendiary.

HARRY BROWN, 1125 Loyola avenue, an insurance adjuster for 30 years, once indicted as a member of an arson ring but not prosecuted.

HARRY A SIEGEL, 3310 Douglas boulevard, an insurance adjuster.

NICK BASURIS, owner of the Metropolitan Press at 3811 West North avenue, where Lieut. Sullivan put out a fire and where Rudolph Pisani, Mrs. Pisani, Notari, and Joseph Brown were captured.

VASELOS ALEXOPOULOS, owner of the Lakeside restaurant at 1105 Granville avenue, which was burned last January by Notari, who, according to the police, was paid $500.

$100,000 Fire in Loop.

Among the fires confessed by some of the prisoners was one large loop blaze that resulted in a $100,000 loss on Dec. 6, 1931, at 167-173 West Lake street.

The fire was started in the premises of Pappas & Alex restaurant equipment. Pappas was out of the firm, the investigators said, but they charged that D. E. Alex arranged with Notari and the elder Pisani to have the fire set, paying $5,000 for the job.

Alex has since gone to Greece. The investigators said they have reason to believe he was robbed of his insurance or paid part of it to extortioners. His former attorney, William McKinley, on being asked yesterday as to Alex's

Hopkins Says 16 Million Get Relief Service

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The problem of relief has come to a point where it must be put on a permanent basis, through the stimulation of industry and the institution of unemployment insurance on the lines of the British system, Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, said today.

Saying 16,000,000 persons are on relief rolls today, Mr. Hopkins declared:

"I'm getting the conviction that the situation has to be handled on some other than a relief basis. I can't see millions of people on direct relief. I don't think that is the American way of doing things."

Awaits President's Action.

While Mr. Hopkins would not speak of the 3 billion dollar government supervised and assisted housing program authorized by congress and now awaiting approval by the President and the appointment of an administrator, he did say he could see a plan that "would put a million men to work one way and another that would put two million to work another way."

"Fortunately, we have a man in the White House who believes in doing things," he remarked. He predicted decentralized industry, smaller production units, with workers owning a plot of productive ground and a home. "Within a few months" he foresaw people removed in large numbers from cities like New York.

Favors Low Priced Land.

"I see people living on low priced land," he added, "in decent houses, bought at a fair price so that the purchaser will not be loaded so deeply with debt that he can't get out. The land will really be used by the people to live on."

Of public works, he said, "coördinating public works and the people is one way of settling the unemployment problem." He said the housing program would stimulate industry and "a wide decentralization, along the lines of the Ford plan, might increase employment in industry and would surely help people to supplement their industrial incomes from the land." He added, "I believe business will do it itself with the help of the government."

"Obviously there should be unemployment insurance," Hopkins said. "There would be no difficulty in instituting such an insurance system now; the British system has worked very well."

EDDIE CANTOR FILM IS BANNED BY NAZIS; CALL IT "IDIOTIC"

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 25.—Another American film has joined the long list of those suppressed on the ground of being "insurpassably idiotic." The most recent victim of the German censor is "The Kid from Spain," starring Eddie Cantor. It is a United Artists production offered here by the Bavarian Film corporation.

The United Artists' film "Nana" has already been rejected on moral grounds and the propaganda ministry, after a preliminary showing of "Roman Scandals" with Cantor playing the lead, informed the Bavarians it would also be prohibited if the company cared to go to the trouble of taking it to the censor. The grounds were the same—"artistic inferiority and immoral character."

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production "Tarzan," the second of the "Tarzan" series, has also been rejected as absurd and brutalizing. The charge exercising "brutalizing influence" was also brought against "The Kid from Spain."

RICH CAFE OWNER KIDNAPED; HIS CHILDREN SEE IT

Andrew Sciacca, 50 years old, wealthy owner of the Oriental café at 5300 North avenue, was kidnaped early today by six gunmen in sight of his three children in the rear of his home at 5345 Jackson boulevard. Police believe he is being held for ransom.

The kidnaping took place shortly after 1 o'clock as Sciacca was driving his automobile into his garage. With him were his children, Anna, 20 years old; Anthony, 17, and Carlo, 22. Suddenly a large car drew alongside them. Six men were in it. Two jumped out, brandishing revolvers. They announced they were policemen.

"Put your heads down and don't look up," one of the men directed the Sciacca children. Then Sciacca was forced into the supposed police car.

The young Sciaccas ran into the house and notified Fillmore street police. Just as Sergt. William Quirk and a squad arrived the telephone bell rang and Carlo answered. A man on the other end of the wire said: "Your dad is all right. Don't notify police. Just get in touch with your uncle." Young Carlo asked, "What uncle?" and the man hung up.

Toledo, O., June 25.—[Special.]—Stricken with a heart attack on a westbound air liner, Robert E. Christie Jr., president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America and member of the banking firm of Dillon, Read & Co. of New York, died today before the pilot could make an emergency landing at Archbold, O., 40 miles from here.

The plane, a United Air Lines ship on its way to Chicago, was over Archbold at 5:20 p. m. when Christie fell ill. Miss Julia Murphy, stewardess, notified the pilot. Francis Morton, who radioed the Archbold airport that he was going to land immediately.

Dies in 5 Minutes.

Dr. E. A. Murbach of Archbold met the plane, but Christie had died five minutes after he was stricken.

R. C. Schaffner of Chicago, president of A. G. Becker & Co., investment bankers, was a fellow passenger. He said the New York banker complained of pains in the chest when he boarded the air liner at Cleveland, but spoke of feeling better when the plane took off.

With Christie, Schaffner had attended a directors' meeting of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company in Akron today.

Prime Mover for Code.

The body was taken tonight to Wauseon, county seat, for the inquest.

Christie, who was 41 years old, was secretary and treasurer of Dillon, Read & Co. He was elected president of the Investment Bankers' association in September, 1933, and was credited with being a prime mover in obtaining adherence to a code of fair practices to aid toward insuring the public interest in investment.

He was elected president of the Bond club of New York in 1928, when he was 35, and was the youngest man to serve in that capacity since the founding of the club. A graduate of Princeton, he was married and lived at 11 Oak lane, Scarsdale, N. Y.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

Robert E. Christie Jr., president of the Investment Bankers' association, who died suddenly on a United Air Lines plane bound from Cleveland to Chicago yesterday, was well known in Chicago. He was to have attended a dinner tonight planned in his honor by a group of Chicago investment bankers at the Indian Hill club.

CUBAN CABINET REVISED; FOUR ABC'S STAY OUT

HAVANA, June 25.—(AP)—The entire Cuban cabinet resigned today, but after a few hours of intensive negotiations all but four members were reappointed by President Carlos Mendieta. The absentees are members of the ABC political society, which recently has become increasingly critical of Mendieta's policies. The society charges he does not act vigorously enough to suppress terrorism.

The quartet who refused to come back are Joaquin Martinez Saenz, who was secretary of the treasury; Carlos Saladrigas, secretary of justice; Emeterio Santovenia, secretary of the presidency, and Jorje Manach, secretary of public instruction.

Three of the officials have not been replaced and their duties for a time will be performed by other cabinet members. Augustin Acosta, a Nationalist, was appointed secretary of the presidency. Cosme de la Torriente, secretary of state, said all the members of the cabinet handed in their resignations to give President Mendieta a free hand in dealing with critical political and social problems.

whereabouts, said that some months ago Alex telephoned him that men from the fire marshal's office wanted to take him into custody. Alex never told him what had happened afterwards, McKinley declared.

That Alex paid the extortioners was readily believed when the investigators heard the story concerning the fire at Esposito's grocery and meat market. In the confessions of Rudolph Pisani and Notari they said that Esposito promised to give them $1,800 when he collected the $18,000 of insurance. Harry Brown, the adjuster, has been negotiating for its payment.

When Esposito received the money Pisani and Notari were to have had him kidnaped and forced to pay all as ransom, their confessions said.

The two incendiaries admitted setting fires at the Mexico Publishing company's plant, 737 South Halsted street, and at the Oliver Printing company's plant, 1820 West 69th street. Louis Oliver, owner of one of the plants, is now in Leavenworth penitentiary, the police said, and it is planned to question him there.

Arson Methods Explained.

Notari's work as a machinery salesman brought him in contact with the owners of many printing plants. When they were in financial difficulties, Notari said, he would advise them to have a fire. In the case of Oliver, Notari said, he arranged to equip the plant so that insurance could be obtained, and then to remove the most valuable of the machinery before the fire.

That was done in most cases—removing the most valuable of the machinery or merchandise, Notari said. In dealing with owners of smaller businesses time was given for removal of stock and then the incendiaries would appear.

Their method usually was to have a pigskin bladder filled with gasoline to which a long fuse was attached. The fuse would give the incendiaries time to get out of the building before the gasoline exploded and the pigskin bladder would be blown into atoms by the blast, thus removing all trace of the fire's origin.

STORY OF THE ARRESTS

A dramatic story of the capture of the 16 prisoners was told at the state's attorney's office. It began with the kidnaping on June 14 of Harry Welch, the Toledo merchant, who had come to Chicago on business. Welch, held prisoner by his abductors in a west side saloon with a red hot hammer against his chest, was instructed to telephone his mother in Toledo and ask her to send him $2,000.

He made the call. His mother, however, became suspicious when she detected a note of pain in his voice. Through her attorney she notified the Chicago police.

Soon afterwards Welch was able to give an alarm and the one man left to guard him fled. The money was to be paid at the Diversey Arms hotel, 644 Diversey parkway. Policemen hurried there and arrested Allan Siegal and Arthur Sway, who were identified by Welch. Several others in the plot were arrested but the man who had applied the hot hammer to Welch was not found.

Sullivan and Kelly Take Trail.

"Run him down if it takes all your time for the next three years," State's Attorney Courtney told Lieut. Sullivan and Sergt. Kelly.

The two policemen learned that their quarry's name was Rudolph Pisani. Sullivan went to the home of Pisani's parents to inquire about him. He was met at the door by Notari who said he was Romola Pisani.

"Rudy is no good," said the pseudo father. "He left home many years ago and got into trouble. I don't know where he can be found."

The detectives soon learned that this statement was deception. They decided to trail Notari. A week ago yesterday the shadowing began. On that day Notari went to a drug store at Crawford and North avenues where he met Joseph Brown and Basuris. Then all three went to Basuris' printing plant where some time was spent. Finally Notari went home.

Second Visit to Drug Store.

The next day Notari went again to the drug store. He was met by Blank, the insurance adjuster, and Basuris. They rode in an automobile to Humboldt park where they stopped the car and talked.

On the succeeding day, last Wednesday, Notari went a third time to the drug store where he again met Blank and Basuris. This time Sergt. Kelly managed to get close enough to the plotters to hear a bit of their conversation.

He took off his coat and hat, went into a nearby grocery and made several purchases. When he entered the drug store with an arm full of bundles he appeared to be a resident of the neighborhood on a shopping trip, and was not suspected.

He heard Basuris say to Blank: "All right, I'll give you 10 per cent." Then he heard Blank say: "All right, we'll do the job tonight." Basuris replied: "No, not tonight. I have work to finish tonight. Tomorrow or Friday will be all right."

Put Watch on Printing Plant.

The detectives did not know what was to be done by the plotters but they had an idea it concerned the printing plant and their first guess was that burglary was intended. They put a watch on the printing plant as well as keeping Notari under surveillance.

On Friday night one set of detectives saw Basuris and his family leave the printing office and followed them to a moving picture theater where the family stayed through two shows. The policemen shadowing Notari saw him go to the plant. He was joined there by two other men.

When, a few minutes later, Notari came running out of the plant Lieut. Sullivan seized him. A few seconds later another man came out running. It was Pisani, who was seized. He was followed out by Joseph Brown, who was also captured.

Sullivan Puts Out the Fire.

Lieut. Sullivan started into the plant. He had not quite reached the door when Brown called out in fright:

"Don't go in there, lieutenant. You'll be killed."

Sullivan ignored the warning and strode inside. He was just in time. He saw a burning fuse and smelled gasoline. Instantly he comprehended.

The fuse was burning toward a bunch of matches suspended above the floor by a thread which would be severed when the first match was ignited. The flaring matches would then drop to the floor which was strewn with papers and excelsior. In the midst of this inflammable material lay a bladder filled with gasoline.

Mrs. Pisani Is Captured.

Then he returned to the police car where the prisoners were held. At this moment Mrs. Pisani drove up with an automobile in which she had been circling the block. She was seized.

Basuris was arrested after he had returned to his plant from the theater. Next the detectives went to the home of Blank. While they were searching him he managed to slip a piece of paper into one of his trouser cuffs. The investigators found it, however. They said it was a contract signed by Basuris agreeing to give Blank 10 per cent of the fire insurance money.

LAST OF KIDNAP GANG CONFESSES IN HACKETT CASE

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan announced last night that Eddie Wagner, alias Dorow, last of the "Handsome Jack" Klutas gang of kidnapers, has confessed complicity in the two abductions of James Hackett, wealthy Blue Island gambler.

The confession, Mr. Coghlan said, was made at the state's attorney's office after hours of denials on Wagner's part. Earlier Wagner had been identified by Frank Carney, an employé of Hackett, who had witnessed one of the kidnapings. Also, Augustus [Babe] Jones, member of the gang now in the county jail, was reputed to have implicated Wagner, who is held in $100,000 bond set yesterday in Blue Island.

Hackett was kidnaped in May, 1931, and in May, 1933. He paid $75,000 ransom the first time, and $1,500 the second time. In the first abduction Wagner, according to his story, helped abduct the gambler, and later collected the $75,000, and in the second he played minor roles. Frank Souder and Gale Swolley, Peoria members of the kidnap gang, are now serving life terms in Joliet for the Hackett kidnapings. Klutas, the gang leader, was slain by police in January.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR U. S. CONTROL IN LABOR WARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Plans for injecting the federal government into employer-employé relationships were today whipped into final form and laid on President Roosevelt's desk to await his approval or rejection when he returns tomorrow.

The plans, worked out under the terms of the labor disputes act, passed in the closing days of congress, call for the appointment by the President of a new labor disputes board to replace the national labor board. In addition there are to be regional or industrial boards to handle disputes in the field.

A triumvirate of White House labor advisers, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, NRA Counsel Donald Richberg, and Senator Robert Wagner, head of the national labor board, have worked out the plans in a series of secret conferences. They were instructed before the President left to have their suggestions ready upon his return.

Faces Selection of Board.

First task confronting the President and one which he may discharge immediately tomorrow, is the selection of the new national board to settle labor questions. The new law automatically eliminates the old national labor board and forces the retirement of Senator Wagner as its head.

Leading new deal labor abritrator is Dr. Leo Wolman, a member of the national labor board, and head of the special automobile labor board. He is virtually certain of a berth on the new board. Other possible members are Leon Henderson, head of NRA research and planning, and Rev. Francis J. Haas, now acting chairman of the national labor board.

Under the national board there will be a series of regional boards, such as that now functioning in Chicago, and of industrial boards, such as that set up in the automobile industry. They will function as courts of original jurisdiction and handle disputes in the field, according to the plans prepared for the President.

Will Act as Court.

The national board will act only as a court of appeals. As an agent of the President, the new board can order elections among workers to select collective bargaining representatives, police the elections, and settle all disagreements or complaints.

As a forerunner of the new government tutelage over labor and industry, the department of labor today undertook to act as intermediary between a communist labor union and the owners of the nation's steel mills.

The communists' demands, put forward by the radical Steel and Metal Workers Industrial union, were mild for a group committed openly to soviet doctrines. They made only a sidelong reference to possible communizing of the steel industry, saying that "the steel companies still have the immense advantage of the ownership and control of the industry" even though the proposed peace plan in put through.

GREEN SAYS HE HAS NO ORDERS IN FACTOR CASE

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said yesterday he did not know whether he would take part in the proceedings today before United States Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Evan A. Evans through which John Factor, wealthy speculator wanted for fraud in London, hopes to avoid being extradited to England. The notice of the intended action was served by Factor's attorneys on the state department, Prosecutor Green said, and not the department of justice, and he has not been asked to oppose the movement.

Factor's pleading for release is based on the fact he has been in custody at the Sycamore county jail for sixty days, and under the extradition treaty law a person not removed from the country within sixty days after arrest may be freed by a judge. It was explained that it is not a mandatory proceeding, the judge is allowed to use his discretion. The defense hopes are based in part on the fact that Judge Evans dissented and voted against Factor's extradition two years ago.

U. S. Income for Year Falls 155 Million Below Estimate

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Although they have passed the 3 billion dollar mark for the first time in three years, government revenue collections in the fiscal year now closing have failed to come up to President Roosevelt's estimates.

Treasury department records today revealed that federal revenues for the year ending next Saturday, June 30, will amount to about 3 billion 105 million dollars, or 155 million dollars short of President Roosevelt's estimate of 3 billion 260 million dollars.

Beside falling short of the estimates, the government income has failed by approximately 4 billion dollars to cover the New Deal's huge expenditures, leaving the treasury in the red by the record breaking sum of about 4 billions on the waning fiscal year.

Most Revenue in 3 Years.

Revenues, nevertheless, are higher than for any year in the last three. Not since the fiscal yerr 1931 has the government collected more than 3 billion dollars in taxes and fees. The increase in tax collections this year over last year was due largely to the imposition of liquor taxes and to improvement in yields from other miscellaneous sources.

Failure of the collections to come up to Mr. Roosevelt's estimates is due largely to weakness in income taxes, processing taxes, and customs duties. A table showing the actual revenue collections in millions of dollars and the amount by which they fell of White House predictions follows:

	Collections (in millions)	Short
Income taxes	800	64
Other internal revenue	1,480	*85
Processing taxes	355	48
Customs	310	89
Miscellaneous	160	39
Totals	3,105	155

*Increase.

Smaller Business Advance.

The weakness in income and processing taxes reflects a smaller increase in business activity than the administration counted on, according to experts. Shortage in the customs collections was due almost entirely to the disappointing results of repeal. Tax paid entries of foreign liquors were far below those anticipated by the treasury department.

Internal liquor taxes, on the other hand, account for almost all of the increase of "other internal revenue" over the President's estimates.

NINE CHICAGOANS NAMED ON STATE COAL CODE BOARD

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Nine Chicagoans were today named by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, as members of the Illinois regional coal code authority.

Johnson divided the state into four districts, northern, central, southern, and Belleville, selecting members from each region. The members appointed were:

Central Illinois district—G. W. Reed, vice president Peabody Coal company, Chicago; Al Wilcoxson, president Sangamon Coal company, Chicago; C. D. Cowin, president Bell & Zoller Coal company, Chicago; A. B. Steffens, president Indiana and Illinois Coal corporation, Chicago; C. J. Sandoe, vice president West Virginia Coal company, St. Louis, Mo.

Belleville district—H. E. Howard, president Binkley Coal company, Chicago; W. F. Davis, president St. Louis and O'Fallon Coal company, St. Louis, Mo.

of the missing persons bureau when the report came from Boston. She seemed inclined to place little faith in it, anxious though she is for more word of her sister's whereabouts.

"This Mrs. Hall, I understand, says the dress she cleaned for the woman was a 40 or 42," she said. "Well, Agnes usually wore a 36. There's a big difference."

Capt. John Ayres, head of the missing persons bureau, reported that there had been no important developments over the week-end, except the Boston report. Nevertheless, another fragment was added to the circumstantial case built up since the investigation started a month ago by a story told by Joseph Friedman, owner of the Gramercy stationery store, where Miss Tufverson was a customer.

Sent for Wrapping Paper.

Friedman recalled that a few days before Christmas, some one in the apartment house where Miss Tufverson lived sent a boy to the store for a large amount of oversize sheets of wrapping paper. He ventured a guess that the messenger may have been sent by Poderjay.

Capt. Ayres was asked whether he had ever considered that Miss Tufverson might have ended her life through humiliation over her experience with Poderpay. She had told her family and friends that she was sailing with him for England, to settle there permanently. He left the country without her.

"No," said Capt. Ayres, "I never held that theory. Remember that Miss Tufverson had a mature mind; that she was an accomplished, practical and hard headed professional woman. One thing she did lack, I think, was experience with the opposite sex. She didn't have time to go in for that."

Gets Scotland Yard Report.

Meanwhile, Assistant Chief Inspector Sullivan received a letter from Scotland Yard in answer to queries regarding Poderjay's movements in Great Britain. The British police records show that Poderjay arrived in England for the first time on Feb. 26, 1931, and left for the last time on Jan. 9, 1934 for Australia.

On last April 25, according to the Scotland Yard report, John McKenna reported to the police that he and some friends had been defrauded out of £1,270 ($6,350 at par) by Poderjay in a currency exchange deal. McKenna said that he will not prosecute.

Scotland Yard also ascertained that Miss Tufverson arrived at the Croydon airport, London, on June 23, 1933, and sailed from Plymouth on June 27, 1933, aboard the Ile de France for New York. This last information tallies with what is already known about Miss Tufverson's movements during the vacation on which she met Poderjay.

CRUISER HOUSTON READY FOR TRIP OF ROOSEVELT

CALLS ALL-BRAN NATIONAL NATURAL LAXATIVE

Delicious Cereal Checked His Constipation

"For many years I have been habitually constipated, and have used all sorts of laxatives. So, in fairness to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I heartily claim it to be a most wonderful remedy for constipation.

"Need I tell you that I have long since ceased using laxatives? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the National Natural Laxative. If it were used by every family in the United States for breakfast, we would have a much healthier race of people."—Mr. John Daniels, 1090 Third St., North Bergen, N. J.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this food much pleasanter than risking pills and drugs? Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

LAWYERS DIVIDE ON CANDIDATES FOR JUDGESHIPS

Prefer Heller and Kinne in County and Probate.

Members of the Chicago Bar association gave their preference to Republican candidates in both the County and Probate courts, and divided their endorsements of 12 candidates for Municipal court judgeships between Republicans and Democrats. A canvass last night of 2,059 ballots cast by the lawyers disclosed their judgements upon the fitness of the men who will seek office in the November election.

In the balloting for County judge, Edmund K. Jarecki, the incumbent, a Democrat, received the endorsement of the association but was defeated for the preference of the association by Municipal Judge Samuel Heller, who holds the Republican nomination for the office. The vote on the two men follows: Heller, 1,157; Jarecki, 839.

Probate Preference to Kinne.

A similar situation was revealed in the poll of votes for Probate judge. Harry C. Kinne, the Republican nominee, received the preference with a vote of 1,083. Probate Judge John F. O'Connell who was chosen to fill Gov. Horner's unexpired term, also received the endorsement of the bar association but his total vote amounted to 929.

Under the rules of the association a candidate receives the bar endorsement if he receives one-third of the votes cast in such a balloting. In this instance, one-third of the total vote amounted to 686 votes.

Among the 12 candidates for associate judgeships of the Municipal court who received the bar endorsement were eight of the 11 sitting judges who hold nominations. The three sitting judges who failed to receive endorsement were Francis Borelli, Gibson E. Gorman, and Alfred O. Erickson.

Names of Those Endorsed.

Following is a table containing the names of the candidates who received the endorsement of the association, the number of votes each received and their political affiliations:

John F. Haas, Republican	1,865
Howard Hayes, Republican	1,779
Theodore F. Ehler, Republican	1,760
Frank M. Padden, Democrat	1,681
William E. Helander, Republican	1,481
Harold P. O'Connell, Democrat	1,474
*George B. Weiss, Democrat	1,196
*Emmet Byrne, Republican	1,148
*J. M. Braude, Democrat	948
Frederick W. Elliott	937
*Le Roy Hackett, Democrat	906
Matthew D. Hartigan, Democrat	903

The asterisk indicates those candidates who are not now sitting judges.

Helmer C. Patterson, Republican	598
*Gibson E. Gorman, Democrat	585
*Alfred O. Erickson, Republican	554
Joseph J. Drucker, Democrat	548
Archie I. Bernstein, Republican	535
L. H. Gladstone, Republican	462
*Francis Borelli, Democrat	431
Joseph B. Hermes, Democrat	369
Stephen Adamowski, Democrat	339
Eugene L. McGarry, Democrat	314
William H. Haynes, Republican	279
Horace M. Sharpe, Republican	111

The bar association in its returns indicates only two classifications for candidates—those who received endorsements and those who did not. The vote, however, proclaims the preference of the attorneys.

Ballot Under Bar Rule.

The balloting was conducted under a resolution of the association in which it was stated "it is deemed the duty of the association to express to the voters of Cook county and the city of Chicago its best judgment as to the relative qualifications of the several candidates." The vote, according to the bar officials, is conducted strictly on nonpartisan lines.

Ballots were dispatched to 4,250 members on June 19, and the polls closed at 4 p. m. yesterday afternoon. A total of 2,084 ballots were received but 25 were discarded because of incorrect voting.

M'GUGIN CHIDES DEMOCRACY ON CUMMINGS' JOB

Before returning home to Kansas after a week-end at A Century of Progress, Congressman Harold McGugin, leading battler against some phases of the New Deal, paid his compliments to Walter J. Cummings here in the latter's home town.

"Mr. Cummings," he said, "left the treasury department to take over the Continental bank here, virtually as an agent of the United States treasury and of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Immediately after he took over the bank he was made treasurer of the Democratic national committee. I will believe in treasury department sincerity when Cummings resigns one job or the other.

"Until he does, every national bank in the country is on the spot for contributions to Democratic campaign funds. Tammany never did anything as raw as that."

Representative McGugin also predicted that President Roosevelt would be a "one termer."

GETTLE, KIDNAP VICTIM, GETS TWO EXTORT THREATS

Los Angeles, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Two extortion notes, threatening to destroy his Beverly Hills home by dynamite unless he paid $6,000, have been received by William F. Gettle, millionaire oil promoter who recently was kidnaped and held for $60,000 ransom, authorities disclosed tonight.

The notes warned Gettle unless the sum was paid "at once" his home would be destroyed and his wife, Fleta, and their four children seriously harmed.

The $6,000 demanded in the notes was to be paid by Gettle to "atone" for the millionaire's appearance in federal court where he testified against two women of the kidnap gang, both of whom were convicted in the conspiracy to misuse the mails and were sent to a government reformatory.

The notes directed that the money, in small denominations, be left under a designated object in Westlake park. Both notes severely criticized Gettle for testifying against the women and stated the payment of $6,000 "would help make it right."

The women were Loretta Woody and Mona Gallighen, arrested in a roundup of the kidnaping gang that took Gettle from his Arcadia ranch home last May 9 and held him captive five days. Three men, Jimmie Kirk, Ray Williams, and Larry Kerrigan, were sent to San Quentin for life as a result of the plot to hold Gettle for $60,000 ransom which never was paid.

Hungarians Burn Effigy of French Foreign Chief

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 25.—(AP)—In protest over a speech at Bucharest last week by Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France in which he pledged France's aid in case Rumania was attacked, students gathered at Calvin square tonight and burned an effigy of the statesman. When the crowd moved in the direction of the French legation, 200 police arrived and arrested numerous students.

GIRL TELLS STORY AT SEDUCTION TRIAL OF PREMIER

Describes Relations with 50 Year Old Executive.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 25.—(AP)—Vivian MacMillan, pretty 22 year old stenographer, today began telling a jury in Supreme court the story of her relations with Alberta's premier, J. E. Brownlee, whom she accuses of wrecking her life.

The face of the tall, slender girl was extremely pale as she faced the man whom she and her father, Allan MacMillan, are suing for unstated damages on a charge of seduction.

She first met the premier, Miss MacMillan said, when she was 16 years old and he visited in their home at Edson.

Attended Picnic and Dance.

Two years later, in the summer of 1930, she said, he attended a picnic and a dance with the MacMillan family at Edson, told her she had grown to be a "very beautiful woman," and suggested that she come to Edmonton, where there was more opportunity than in her native village.

In response to his promise of a government job she came here and went to live at the Y. W. C. A. and there both Mr. and Mrs. Brownlee visited her and took her to their home for tea.

She accepted their invitation to visit their home at any time, Miss MacMillan said.

The girl told the court she made repeated efforts to break the "unhappy relation" with the 50 year old premier, which she claims lasted over a period of two and one-half years.

"But he pleaded with me, or went into a terrible rage which left me speechless," she said.

Says He Confessed Love.

Many times, she testified, the premier confessed his love for her, saying his home life was unhappy.

In January, 1933, John Caldwell, a medical student, asked her to marry him, she testified.

"I broke down and told him I could not marry him," she related. "After I told him about Mr. Brownlee he said he would help me find myself again."

She said she decided to give the premier "another chance," but that their old relations were resumed.

Finally in July, 1933, she returned to her home at Edson and confided in her mother. Mrs. MacMillan immediately told the girl's father.

MacMillan brought his daughter to Edmonton and after consulting attorneys, brought the damage action, the girl continued.

Denies Demanding Money.

Brownlee, in a counterclaim for $10,000, charged Miss MacMillan and Caldwell conspired against him.

"Have you ever made demands on the premier for money?" she was asked.

"No," was the quick reply. She denied also she had made demands in behalf of Caldwell.

In outlining the girl's charges before the jury of six men, Attorney MacLean said the evidence would show that the premier took the girl on automobile drives and had intimate relations with her at his home, his office, and during the motor trips.

The jury was told Brownlee admitted under examination that he had kissed Miss MacMillan.

Find Well Dressed Youth Dead in North Side Alley

A fairly well dressed young man, about 25 years old, was found dead last night in the alley in the rear of 4 East Erie street. There were no marks of violence on his body. In the man's pockets police found letters addressed to James Davis at 414 1st avenue, Peoria, Ill., and to the city jail, Peoria.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

MRS. ISABEL HOUGH.

Mrs. Isabel Lamon Hough, show girl wife of Will M. Hough, writer of the song, "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," has sued her husband for divorce, it was revealed yesterday when she obtained an injunction tying up $60,000 of his funds.

The injunction restrains Thomas Hough, a brother of Will and vice president of the Halsey Stuart & Co., and two attorneys, from disturbing that amount of money belonging to Will Hough, and which is on deposit in the company for investment purposes.

The injunction was granted by Judge Rudolph Desort. Mrs. Hough, who is known to the stage as Isabel Boring, filed a suit for divorce two years ago, and claims that since that time her husband has managed to stay outside the jurisdiction of the court.

She claims that she has received no money from Hough since the filing of the bill, and has had to draw $10 a week from an actors' benefit fund for the support of herself and her daughter, Carol, 5 years old.

BORAH TO TAKE STUMP AGAINST THE 'NEW DEAL'

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—In response to a number of invitations, Senator Borah [Rep., Ida.] plans to deliver several speeches this summer attacking features of the "New Deal."

These include what he regards as monopolistic tendencies of the NRA, compulsory crop reduction programs, and monetary policies.

Borah has been planning for months to take the stump during the summer. Definite arrangements, however, have not been made.

He told reporters he had received invitations to speak in many southern and western cities.

He said he had no funds for such a campaign and would merely go through his invitations and select those he could accept conveniently.

5 Die as Plane Crashes Into Crowd at Jugo-Slav Meet

CHICAGO ENJOYS SOAKING RAIN AS MIDWEST BAKES

Drouth and Bugs Continue Crop Destruction.

While Chicago enjoyed a soaking rain which brought comfortably cool weather yesterday, the southern portions of Illinois and the midwest were sweltering in temperatures that soared in some cases above 100 degrees.

In the city the rain fell during most of the daylight hours. It halted abruptly the mercury, which at 9 a. m. had risen to 77 degrees, and forced it back to approximately 69 degrees, where it floated all afternoon. By 6 p. m. the steady showers had amounted to .30 of an inch at the federal building.

Down state there continued a now almost hopeless struggle against the chinch bugs and the drouth. Cattle and draft animals were dying from the heat and lack of water in Shelby county.

Farmers near Galena were granted permission by the war department to graze their cattle on the Savanna military reservation of 3,000 acres.

St. Louis Heat Wave Persists.

St. Louis, for the sixth consecutive day reporting temperatures higher than ninety, sweltered in 100 degrees. Minneapolis, Minn., usually cool, reported 98 degrees; Topeka, Kas., had a reading of 100 degrees, and a blazing sun brought 97 degrees to Kansas City in the afternoon.

Chicago's showers, which were the city's almost exclusive property, were not impressive in diminishing the nine inch rainfall deficit left by the spring drouth.

While the day's rain was the most prolonged of the year, it was not the heaviest. The official figures of .30 of an inch downtown and .34 of an inch at the municipal airport were small beside last Friday's precipitation of .88 of an inch.

Sights Body in Lake.

The government's crop survey for the 24 hours ending yesterday indicated that inconsequential showers had fallen over most of North Dakota, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Indiana, and in parts of South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, and Kentucky. They did little, however, to offset generally high temperature.

W. P. Day, government forecaster, predicted Chicago herself would be warmer today, with clouds which might readily give the city a thundershower. He expected tomorrow, however, to be fair and cooler.

An aftermath of the week-end's storm which destroyed valuable property and cost five lives in the area was a report from sailors on a freighter that they had sighted a body floating in the lake about six miles off 68th street.

It was believed the body might be that of either Allen F. Thomas, 24 years old, 4827 Kenwood avenue, or Joseph Kuhns, 22, of 6933 Paxton avenue, who were drowned early Sunday.

3 DROWNED AS BOAT SINKS AT HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR CLASS PICNIC

Watertown, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—Three members of the graduating class of Watertown high school were drowned in Lake Ontario this afternoon during the annual picnic of the senior class. Those drowned were Raymond C. Butterfield, 17, Robert Case, 17, and Cecelia Kamalski, 19. Eight others were saved after an overloaded 14 foot dinghy sank with 11 persons on board. Its capacity was five persons.

The boat which is the property of the 13th fleet division, New York naval reserves, was in the custody of Bruce Allen and Butterfield, both members of the local naval reserves. It had been taken without permission, Lieut. Homer M. Rice, commanding officer of the reserves, said.

The tragedy occurred about 600 feet off shore in about 10 feet of water. Witnesses said the boat submerged bow first but did not sink completely. Members of the senior class and soldiers from Madison barracks participated in the rescues. Three who clung to the boat were among those saved. Butterfield is reported to have lost his life when he tried to save the Kamalski girl.

NRA PUBLISHING ITS OWN WEEKLY NEWSPAPER NOW

Sent Free by Mail to 42,000 and Growing.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Eclipsing all the propaganda campaigns of the new dealers in the past, the NRA is now publishing its own weekly newspaper.

The paper, called "The Blue Eagle," exudes with glowing appraisals of all the activities of the NRA written by NRA propagandists. It presents cartoons glorifying the administration and publishes charts, diagrams, and cleverly handled statistics, all aimed at proving that the NRA has cleaned up on the depression.

Even advertisments are published, but they are not paid for. Those in the maiden issues of the paper are reproductions of advertisments carried in some daily newspapers by various firms which have sung the praises of NRA and its Blue Eagle.

Sent Free Through Mails.

The NRA organ is sent without charge, under the NRA's free use of government mails, to every person or organization connected directly with the NRA; to all trade associations, and to any others who express a desire for regular copies.

Its present circulation is 42,000 per week, and according to its editor, William V. Lawson, chief NRA propagandist, the circulation is growing at the rate of between 4,000 and 5,000 weekly.

Thousands of letters are received every week, Mr. Lawson declared, from individuals who ask to be put on the mailing list.

For months the NRA and its administrator, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson have smarted under a rain of criticism falling from all over American business and industry, and reflected in newspapers all over the country.

He'll Stop "News Distortion."

Gen. Johnson has assailed the newspapers bitterly in some of his speeches, claiming distortion of NRA news. "The Blue Eagle" is his solution to this troublesome problem. It is accomplished entirely at government expense, incurred first in the preparation of the material for the paper, then in its printing by the government printing office, then in addressing copies to the thousands it goes to, and, finally—the greatest cost—in its delivery by postoffice carriers in every state in the land.

Never in the memory of those who have followed the evolution of the Washington burocracy has any agency of the federal government issued a newspaper of any kind, and certainly it has never been done on such a broad scale.

Some observers see in "The Blue Eagle" the first move of the new dealers toward an official government newspaper, to be known as the mouthpiece of the government, and to contain all news and propaganda relating to the New Deal.

Compared with "Isvestia."

These observers compare the NRA effort with "Isvestia," the official organ of Moscow, but perhaps the present analogy would be more accurate if "The Blue Eagle" were compared with other soviet newspapers which are published by the government at Moscow for the various activities of the government, one for agriculture, one for each of various branches of industry, and the like.

Copies of the first issue, dated June 11, were sent to all code authorities, to compliance boards, administrative members on code authorities and among NRA employés in the 48 states. Fifty copies each were sent to the state directors of NRA, for distribution as the directors saw fit.

In addition, copies went out to every trade association in the country, and to thousands of others sought to be reached with the "message" the NRA desired to get across. No copies were sent to daily newspapers, nor to the trade association papers and magazines.

Expected to Protest.

These latter are expected to protest against this unexpected invasion by the federal government of this private field of business. Business men in the different lines who have been obtaining their news of NRA through trade publications may now expect to get it through "The Blue Eagle," although it soon will become apparent, it is thought, that if the business man wants unbiased and truly critical appraisals of the NRA he will have to rely upon newspapers and independent trade papers.

In the first issue of the Blue Eagle, which was done in atractive modern newspaper style, a four page paper of tabloid size, the front page carries a cartoon originally published in the Scripps-Howard papers, ardent advocates of the New Deal. It portrays a great fast automobile, labeled "Recovery," rushing onward, while two bedraggled and tiny hounds, labeled "Chiselers" and "Obstructionists," yap ineffectually at the front tire. The title is "In the Path of Progress."

Beside this is an italicized excerpt from a statement issued by the President when he created the NRA. Elsewhere on the front page is an article concerning the requirements for setting up budgets by code authorities; another asserting broad legal rights for NRA, and a third describing the distribution of the NRA emblem. A box headed: "The Purpose of This Paper" states that it is intended to bring information concerning NRA to those interested.

Admits Propaganda Object.

"The Blue Eagle" is launched, it is here stated, "for the purpose of maintaining contact" with all NRA officials and agencies, "and other individuals and bodies interested in rulings and policies of NRA." To this statement is added a sentence disclosing the NRA motive of reaching the general public with its propaganda.

"Others who may wish to follow NRA activities," the paper states, "may also find interest in the Blue Eagle and here turn for authentic viewpoints and policies."

On the second page is another Scripps-Howard cartoon, showing the Blue Eagle perched proudly over a brood of four eaglets, labelled "Employment," "Wage Increases," "Business Revival," and "Improved Working Conditions."

Then is shown an advertisment of Jelleff's, a Washington department store, headed "Here's to the New NRA Code Eagle!" In the body of the ad it is stated:

"Truly Washington and All the Country Should Be Thankful for the Blue Eagle."

The propaganda department glows with modesty over its resolution not to use the name of Hugh S. Johnson. This is intended to take the curse of propaganda from the paper. But under a heading, "The Administrator Has Said," is given a long list of the epigrammatic pearls dropped by Johnson over recent months. The reader is burdened to remember that "the administrator" is Hugh S. Johnson.

CALLS BRAIN TRUST CHIEFS ONLY LITTLE BETTER THAN REDS

Brain trusters were declared to be but little better than Socialists and communists by H. A. Jung, honorary general manager of the American Vigilante Intelligence federation. He spoke at noon yesterday before the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Great Northern hotel.

"The brain trusters are fooling the American people," Mr. Jung said. "There is a slight shade of difference between the ultimate objective of brain trusters and the program of Socialists, now that they have gone revolutionary at their Detroit convention, and the force of violence program of the communists.

"The brain trusters would have the American people believe their program is leaving inherent liberties undisturbed. In reality, they are attempting to set up the theory the constitution is so elastic that their program can be put over without awakening the American people to the fact that their liberties are slowly being taken from them."

YOUTH HELD AS GIRL'S ANNOYER.

HARRIMAN MILL CLOSES; BLAMES NRA FOR PLIGHT

653 Are Out of Work at Hosiery Plant.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—Harriman Hosiery mills today climaxed its long argument with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's NRA administration and closed its doors, throwing 653 employés out of work.

The mill thus made good its threat of last week to shut down unless the Blue Eagle, removed by Johnson April 20, was returned today.

Doors of the plant were closed at 3:30 this afternoon, but the company plans to continue shipments on orders already received until the stock is exhausted.

The NRA was taken to task in no uncertain terms by a letter forwarded Gen. Johnson by T. Asbury Wright, attorney for the mill, tonight.

Convinced of Injustice.

"For several months we have pleaded and reasoned with the various departments handling our case," Wright's letter said. "We are now convinced that facts and justice play no part whatever in the consideration of a matter of this kind.

"We feel that through boycotting, and every other means at your disposal, you have set out to wreck this concern. No small firm can withstand all the agencies of the government when they are employed for this purpose. We are therefore, closing this plant today.

"We would like to know if the blue eagle is the property of the law abiding citizens of the United States, or if it is a plaything to be held over the heads of honorable and decent employers as a cudgel to browbeat and bulldoze them into surrendering their constitutional rights for the benefit of outside agitators whose only purpose is to exploit labor for their own personal gain."

The accusation that the NRA had planned to wreck the business resulted from the cancelation by the state of Pennsylvania of an order for 30,000 dozen pairs of hose. The explanation was that the hose were being purchased partly with federal funds, and that since the company had lost its Blue Eagle, the buyer no longer could accept its products.

City in a Turmoil.

In the meantime, Harriman, a little city of 4,000 inhabitants was completely in a turmoil tonight.

Harriman Hosiery Mills provide the principal industry of the city. When the eagle was removed in April, 69 leading business firms and professional men removed their eagle as a gesture of sympathy. Some of these were later restored.

Mayor J. D. D'Armand, NRA's stanchest supporter in Harriman, said tonight he was sorry to learn that the mill had suspended operations.

"I guess the government will just have to add 653 mouths to its relief list," he said. "The government has been feeding the strikers for some time anyhow."

CHINESE CONSULATE ELEVATED.

NANKING, June 25.—(AP)—The ministry of foreign affairs today elevated the Chinese consulate in Honolulu to the status of consulate-general.

DR. A. G. SILVERMAN, NRA AID, SUSPENDED IN SECOND FLARE-UP

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—A second flare-up in the recovery administration's own labor troubles today resulted in the suspension of Dr. A. G. Silverman, head of the NRA labor advisory board's statistical division.

Silverman is a member of the lodge committee of the NRA union of the American Federation of Government Employés, which protested the dismissal of John Donovan, president of the union, from his duties with the labor advisory board.

Silverman was suspended by Dr. Gustav Peck, acting board chairman, after the former had been quoted in newspapers as saying he had been charged with inefficiency because he disagreed with the views of Sidney Hillman, a member of the board and president of the Amalgamated Clothing workers.

Silverman asserted Hillman wanted to ignore evidence of noncompliance in the cotton textile industry in order to emphasize the desirability of reducing hours prescribed by the industry's code.

BLAST WRECKS AUTO; MAN AND WIFE ARE KILLED

Zanesville, O., June 25.—(AP)—A man and his wife were blown up in an explosion of their automobile 10 miles northeast of here tonight and authorities were attempting to determine if it were a double murder or a murder and suicide. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. William L. Gardner, both about 50, of Zanesville. A "hot shot" battery, with terminals connected, was found in the wreckage, a clew to the possibility a time bomb might have been wired in the auto.

U. S. WAR OFFICE MAY LOWER BAR ON LOBBYISTS

Investigators Find All Competition Destroyed.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—There were indications tonight the war department might rescind its order that bidders attest that they had not employed lobbyists in seeking government contracts.

Soon after congressional investigators had decided the order was too stringent, Assistant Secretary Woodring told newspaper men that if the committee decided it would be in the government's interest he would not hesitate to change the order.

The order was put into effect after the recent District of Columbia grand jury inquiry into war department purchases. The house military subcommittee was told today it had resulted in eliminating the Chrysler company from bidding for war department business.

The committee found that a Chrysler subsidiary employs a legal representative in Washington under contract. Since Woodring's order was issued, that subsidiary has informed the committee that it was attempting unsuccessfully to break its contract with the Washington representative.

As a result, Chrysler cannot sign the anti-lobbyist affidavit and therefore cannot bid for war department business.

Representative Goss [Rep., Conn.] told reporters he expected to discuss the situation with Woodring and ask that the bar be lifted long enough for the war department to purchase several hundred trucks with a PWA allocation.

"The requirement," he said, "is wholesome, but the way it has worked out it has been restrictive. With Henry Ford barred because he won't sign the NRA compliance certificate and Chrysler ruled out because of this new requirement, the government can't buy light trucks from anybody but Chevrolet. I think we ought to lift the lobbying thing temporarily."

YOUTH ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL AT TARGET GALLERY

Gordon E. Tiffany, 26 years old, 402 South State street, shot and killed himself with a target pistol yesterday in a shooting gallery at 432 South State street.

A note found in the dead man's pocket directed police to J. W. Ballantine, manager of the E. C. Skuse company at 316 Sherman street, who identified the body. Ballantine said Tiffany had done odd jobs for him.

The note asked that the body be cremated and that the funeral cost be restricted to $70. The remainder of the money from an insurance policy held by his mother, Mrs. Matilda Tiffany of Vermillion, S. D., should be given to her for a "much needed rest," he wrote. Another note, to the mother, was not opened.

CAR KILLS WOMAN, 63.

Anna, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Sims, 63, was killed today when struck by a car driven by Kinley Cobb of Evansville, Ind., as she was crossing a highway.

PROF. TUGWELL VISITS FAIR IN RETICENT MOOD

Starts New Deal Lecture Series Tomorrow.

Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, chief of the Washington brain trust, visited Chicago yesterday on his way to Des Moines, where tomorrow night he will deliver before the Iowa State Bankers' association the first of a series of lectures on the New Deal.

Prof. Tugwell and several assistants who are accompanying him on a two weeks' tour of the agricultural west spent most of the day between trains here visiting the World's Fair. Before they boarded a train for the west last night they had time to see a loop movie.

The Tugwell party expressed some annoyance at the presence of newspaper men who plied them with questions about the agricultural policies of the administration. The undersecretary had sent word ahead to Fair officials informing them of his visit and asking that it be not broadcast, as he wished to "see the Fair in his own manner." He refused to pose for pictures or to be interviewed.

Avoids Newspaper Persons.

He tried to dodge photographers and newspaper men all the way from the Grand Central station, where he arrived, to the Fair grounds and back to the loop. While he was having lunch in the Century club at the Fair a photographer walked up to his table and asked if he would pose.

"Isn't there any place where I can be alone?" Prof. Tugwell asked, and reached for his hat to leave the place. He remained, however, when the manager of the club ordered the photographer out.

"This is nice agricultural weather, Dr. Tugwell," one reporter suggested as the undersecretary brushed the rain from his felt hat in the Federal building at the Fair.

"Yes, but it's too late," he replied. "It won't bring the relief required by farmers, whose small grains have been destroyed by the drouth. The corn and forage crops will be benefited by this rain."

Greeted by Federal Officials.

In the Federal building he was greeted by United States Commissioner Edward F. Dunne, Maj. Chester L. Fordney, and Col. W. E. Causey.

Prof. Tugwell spent quite a bit of time visiting the exhibits of the department of agriculture in the building and expressed his disappointment that congress did not appropriate more in order that the exhibits could be more detailed. Congress before it adjourned appropriated $175,000 for the government exhibits.

After visiting the Federal building the Tugwell party drove around the grounds in an automobile supplied by the officials of A Century of Progress. They stopped for a time in the Hall of Science and then the undersecretary was invited to have lunch in the Administration building.

He replied that he would be more interested in a "hot dog." He and his party then went to the Century club.

When asked what he thought of the Fair Prof. Tugwell replied: "You know the Fair is wonderful. What do you want me to say? Write your own ticket."

WINS WOMEN'S AIR DERBY WITH REBUILT CRAFT

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Miss Edna M. Gardner, flying nurse from the United States Naval hospital at Washington, D. C., was $500 richer today. In a plane she purchased from her savings and then rebuilt by herself, she won over a dozen other entrants in the all-woman air race yesterday at Roosevelt field.

The wing fabric was in bad condition so Miss Gardner, who also is a licensed mechanic, recovered the wings. The money she used to buy the plane took about all her savings and the purchase of fabric and material for the wings took the rest, so she had to do the work herself.

Furniture Show Opens in Chicago

Open Midsummer Show; Expect 7,000 Buyers.

Two mid-summer furniture markets opened yesterday with early registrations indicating that by the end of the three weeks' national event, 7,000 buyers will have seen the miles of exhibits and purchased close to $100,000,000 worth of home furnishings. This was the approximate total of purchases last year, when 6,200 store representatives combined their buying with visits to the World's Fair.

At the Merchandise Mart five floors of the "largest building in the world" are given over to the furniture market, the national Chicago lamp show, and the stove and refrigerator exhibit. At the American Furniture Mart at 666 Lake Shore drive a furniture market and national floor covering show are lined up behind three miles of plate glass display windows.

Expect Better Business.

There will be more "real" business done this year than last, acording to J. A. Gary, editor of the Furniture Age. He said that in 1933 many purchases were far in advance of selling needs, in fear of increased costs under NRA. This year there will not be as many cancellations as then, he said.

W. A. Tomlinson, of the Tomlinson of High Point company, in North Carolina, said buying had already been brisk and all indications were for better selling than last year. A good sign is the steady trend away from low-price grades of furniture to the medium-price grades, he said. Samuel Karpen II, of S. Karpen and Brothers, also remarked on the public's growing preference for better quality in the past year or so.

A 30 per cent increase in furniture sales for the first six months of 1934 over the similar period of 1933 was predicted by Harold E. Bennett of Los Angeles, president of the National Retail Furniture association.

A new stunt was introduced at the Merchandise Mart where smartly uniformed Northwestern university coeds served as guides for the buyers visiting the maze of exhibits.

Modern Styles More Popular.

Modern furniture, with modifications of details which once shocked conservative home-furnishers, is increasing its domination of the exhibits. The principal school of the modified modern is the modern classic, which many of the furniture men agreed was better suited to the average American home.

There are again novelties, which may or may not take the public fancy. These include a radio-equipped bed—so that one can have setting-up exercises without getting up, it was said—a stream-lined baby carriage with 'no-draft" ventilators, and a boy's desk with pigeon-holes that sink out of sight at the touch of a secret lever.

PARALYSIS CASES ON DECREASE IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—A decline in the spread of infantile paralysis in southern California was seen today. The Los Angeles general hospital, where 325 patients are being treated for that malady and 155 more are under observation, reported that only twenty patients were received yesterday, while thirty-two were discharged.

Drastic steps were taken in three towns in Alameda county to curtail the spread of the infection. All schools in Richmond were ordered closed, swimming in Oakland was ordered stopped, and plans were abandoned for a July 4 celebration in Berkeley.

An investigation is being made of the quality of several serums distributed in the affected area following the death of Jackie Baldwin, 2 years old, son of Dr. Byron Baldwin of Healdsburg, after an injection. His brother, Robert, 7 years old, is at a hospital and said to be in a serious condition.

TUGWELL NOTE RENEWS FIGHT FOR DRUG BILL

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell before going to Chicago expressed his disappointment over congress' failure to enact his pet food and drug law, known familiarly as the Copeland-Tugwell bill.

The undersecretary of agriculture wrote to his subordinates in the federal food and drug administration promising a new and even more intensive drive to get the bill enacted at the next session.

"The efforts of the administration to secure a satisfactory law have not yet ended," Dr. Tugwell wrote. "They have only begun."

"It is a source of great regret to me," he added, "that we have up to now failed to secure from the congress legislation redefining the duties of the food and drug administration. It had been my earnest hope that this might be done in the session which has just closed. It was made impossible both by the pressure of other business and through the opposition of the interests which would have been controled by the legislation.

"I wish to assure all of you, however, that the efforts of the administration to secure a satisfactory law have not yet ended. They have only begun. You will have to work for a while longer with the antiquated and awkward law now in force.

"You will do it, I know, with the same energy and patience you have used in the past. But sooner or later we shall have an adequate law under which to work in our efforts to protect the consumer. I shall work for it and so, I am sure, you will, as far as is consistent with your obligations. This is, therefore, a message of regret, but also one of hope."

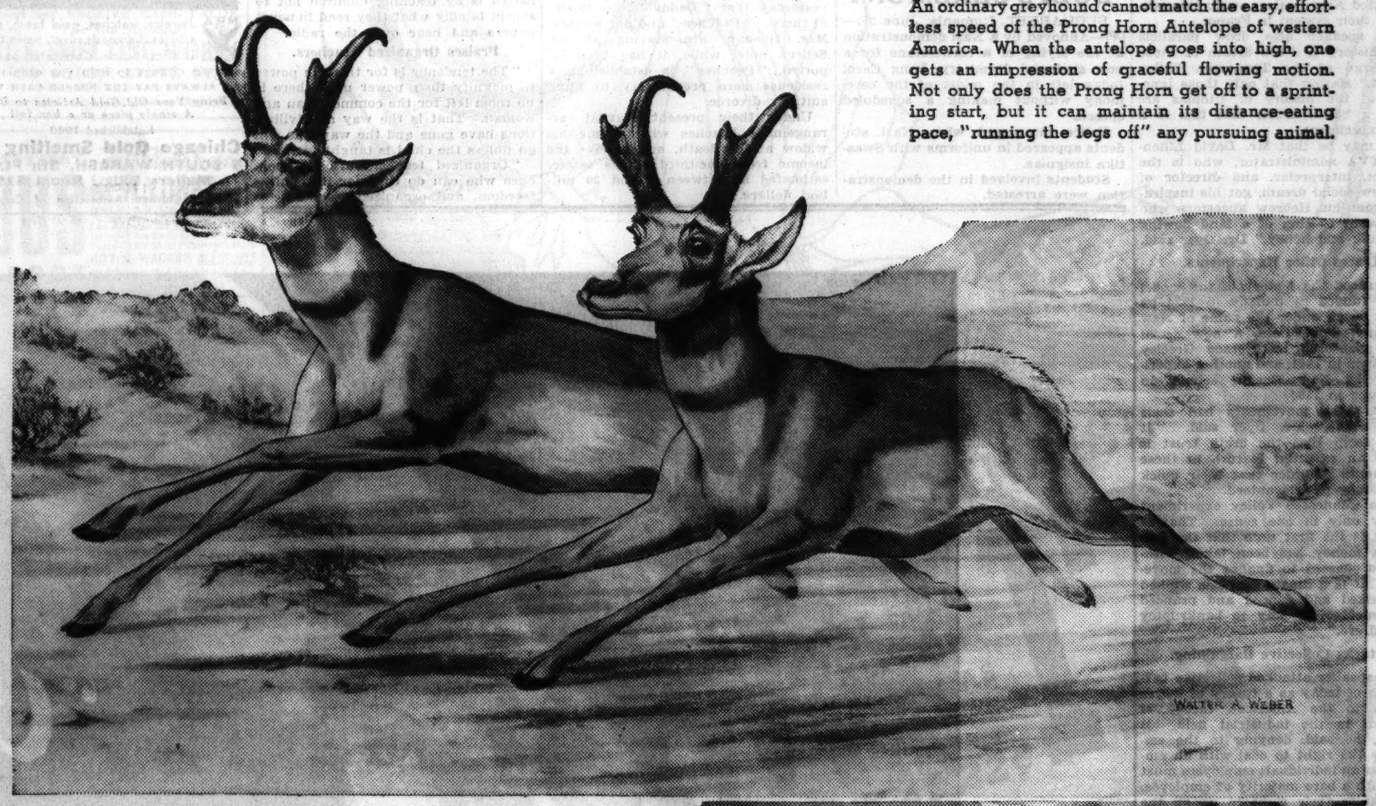
Here's smooth, rhythmic LIVE POWER in animal kingdom

THE PRONG HORN ANTELOPE
—fastest of North American Animals!

An ordinary greyhound cannot match the easy, effortless speed of the Prong Horn Antelope of western America. When the antelope goes into high, one gets an impression of graceful flowing motion. Not only does the Prong Horn get off to a sprinting start, but it can maintain its distance-eating pace, "running the legs off" any pursuing animal.



—and here's the smoothest Live Power in motordom!

—more of it per gallon

The rhythmic grace of these prong horn antelopes is jerky compared with the even, velvety flow of Live Power which Standard Red Crown Superfuel gives a motor.

For more responsive driving energy is released in this already great gasoline—the slower, heavier parts are converted into keener, faster fractions. This big improvement is made possible by engineering and refining facilities without equal in the middle west.

We can only do this: We can urge you to give this improved motor fuel a trial in your own car. Thereafter, it is squarely up to the gasoline—and Superfuel will make good. It has the quality—the extra Live Power to give your engine the full, keen response the maker built into it. That we know.

DO YOU LIKE . . . Hair-trigger engine response? . . . Zooming power for stiff hills? . . . Distance-eating speed? . . . Extra miles per qallon? . . . then take on More LIVE POWER per gallon and enjoy yourself!

STANDARD RED CROWN SUPERFUEL — more live power per gallon

Expert Gives Views to Council of Industry.

From the pages of history Dr. Gus W. Dyer, professor of economics at Vanderbilt university and editor of the Southern Agriculturist, yesterday drew the prediction that the New Deal is doomed to failure. He spoke at the opening of the two day convention of the Council of American Industry, formerly the American Plan Open Shop Conference, at the Palmer house.

DR. G. W. DYER.

The policy of governmental restraint and direction of business, as exemplified in the New Deal, is a very old policy, Dr. Dyer said. He traced trials of the system in France and Germany in the 17th and 18th centuries and in England in the 19th century to their collapse.

Cites Example In France.

Under the experiment in France many of the principles of the New Deal were established, Dr. Dyer said. He pointed to holding gold, keeping grain prices up by law, stimulation of agriculture, establishment of banks to help business, establishment of land banks, increase in money supply, and the adoption of a policy to sell as much as possible abroad and buy as little as possible.

"The independent laborers suffered through unfair competition of labor taken care of by the government," Dr. Dyer stated. "The state exercised over manufacturers and industry the most unlimited and arbitrary jurisdiction. It was decided who should be allowed to work and what they could make."

Brought Debt Increase.

The forefather of the New Deal in France resulted in an increase in debts, taxes became heavy and burdensome, land values fell, the state was forced to borrow heavily, and the state treasury was exhausted. Dr. Dyer suggested New Dealers study this failure of their system in France.

The speaker also drew parallels from history to "the dream of those in charge of the Tennessee Valley project," stating that only those ignorant of the history of Utopias are under a hallucination that this is a new experiment.

"It may be that Mr. David Lilienthal, TVA administrator, who is the prophet, interpreter, and director of this new social dream, got his inspiration from his Hebrew ancestors who were wont to sing of a land flowing with milk and honey," Dr. Dyer said.

Traces Other Experiments.

He traced the history of the model colony funded in Indiana in 1824 by Robert Owen under the name of New Harmony; Fourierism, a new social order sponsored by Horace Greeley and others in 1841, and another experiment, the New Ruskin school, in Tennessee in 1894.

"All these movements had their brain trusts," Dr. Dyer said. "It would seem that the brain trust is almost an essential feature in these movements in order that their quick failure may be guaranteed.

"The Tennessee Valley experiment is new only in one sense. That is that it is the first time that the taxpayer's money has been taken without his consent to finance the movement. It is a dream that has walked and talked and danced and pranced in a spectacular way to bankruptcy and failure."

Attacks Collective Bargaining.

The speaker attacked collective bargaining of today as a theory of wages hostile to the American theory of freedom in the industrial field. It means, he said, denying to the employers the right to deal with an employé as an individual; employers must deal with a bare majority of employés, and denies their right to go on the market and make contracts with workers for their services at a market price.

"This was attempted in England early in the 19th century," the speaker said. "The direct intervention of the state with a view to raising the normal rate of wages was found to be worse than useless."

A. C. Rees of Salt Lake City is chairman of the conference.

U. of C. Will Give Adults a New Deal in Education

The University of Chicago announced yesterday that its doors are now open to all comers of adequate mental equipment and experience without regard to formal high school credit requirements.

Such entrants are to be known as "students-at-large" and they will not be eligible to degrees but they can attend lecture courses, use the library and take seminar or laboratory courses on recommendation of a dean and the instructor in charge. Any one may enroll who can demonstrate ability to do college or university work.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins announced that this plan had been approved by the university senate. It is said to be the first action of its kind by any major American university to extend the advantages of higher education to men and women heretofore barred by lack of formal credits.

Two Classes Admitted.

"In opening the institution to students-at-large," read the official announcement, "the university authorities were planning particularly for two types of students. The first are high school students of unusual ability who want freedom to plan and follow their special educational interests untrammeled by degree restrictions.

"The second large group will be those of an older age than the high school level who want to continue their education whether acquired in or out of college. Both college graduates and those who have been barred from college because they have lacked the formal prerequisites, although they may have had more than equivalent training and experience, will be in this group.

"The growing need of adult education, which has been sharply brought to the attention of educators by the depression, was a large factor in the university's decision to broaden its efforts. The movement toward shorter working hours and the fact that with even a large measure of economic recovery industry will be unable to absorb workers at as early an age as in the past, thus creating problems of use of leisure time, has given adult education tremendous impetus.

New Development Expected.

"Many educators believe that adult education will become so significant that the future will see its influence producing an entirely new alignment of the educational units from the elementary schools through the universities, with a resulting change in approach to all education.

"Admission at large is also in line with the criticism frequently voiced by President Hutchins of the American exaltation of academic degrees, rather than insistence on true education."

VOTES TO DECIDE SENATE RACE IN FLORIDA TODAY

Jacksonville, Fla., June 25.—(AP)—After Florida's bitterest senatorial campaign in many years Democrats prepared to decide in a second primary tomorrow whether to return Park Trammell to the United States senate or send Claude Pepper, 34 year old Tallahassee attorney, as nomination is equivalent to election.

Both men have waged intensive campaigns, going into nearly every county since the first primary on June 5 threw them into the runoff. Tonight both claimed victory by wide margins.

Undefeated for public office since he entered politics in 1900, Trammell has campaigned on his record of three continuous terms. Pepper has assailed that record, saying Trammell has not sponsored constructive legislation.

In the June 5 primary, Trammell led the five candidates in the field by nearly 2,000 votes.

NAZI STUDENTS ANNOY CAROL; BOLTS CEREMONY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 25.—(AP)—Annoyed by a Nazi demonstration at the laying of a cornerstone for a new students' dormitory, King Carol today left in the midst of the ceremony without making a scheduled speech.

Students involved in the demonstration were arrested.

'DADDY' BROWNING HAS STROKE, BUT IS REPORTED RECOVERING

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Edward West Browning, millionaire real estate operator, who won the nickname of "Daddy" because of his passion for adopting girls, was pronounced "out of danger" this afternoon by attachés of the Hospital for Joint Diseases, where he was taken early today suffering from cerebral hemorrhage.

His condition was said to be rapidly improving, although physicians earlier in the day held out little hope for his recovery. His left side is paralyzed.

He was stricken in his rooms in the Hotel Westover some time early Friday and was found lying unconscious on the floor by his chauffeur.

YOUNG WIFE IN CHICAGO.

Mrs. Frances [Peaches] Heenan Browning, young wife of the elderly millionaire, Edward West [Daddy] Browning of New York, did not desire to discuss reports from New York yesterday that "Daddy" is critically ill there. "Peaches" and her mother, Mrs. Heenan, are staying at the Seneca hotel while, it has been reported, "Peaches" is establishing a residence here preparatory to filing suit for divorce.

Under their present marital arrangement Peaches will become his widow at his death, and receive the income from one-third of his estate, estimated at between 7 and 30 million dollars.

JUDGE ASSAILS PRESS BEFORE TEACHER UNION

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday told 150 teachers, delegates to the 18th annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers that "there is only one way that the reactionary press and radio can be combatted, and that is through the public schools."

JUDGE HOLLY.

Judge Holly addressed a luncheon meeting in the Morrison hotel, where the week long convention opened yesterday. His subject was: "What Is It the Organized Teachers Must Do?"

Whether "this civilization" can be preserved is up to the organized teachers of America, declared the judge, who formerly was an attorney for the federation.

"The first thing the teachers must do is to get their pay," he said.

Sees Civilization in Danger.

"The question is not whether this civilization is worth saving," he went on. "I know all its defects, but I'm still inclined to think that there is a substratum worth preserving. It won't preserve itself. History has shown us that many civilizations have perished.

"I don't know whether this one will perish, but if it is saved it will have to be by the teachers of this country. This present generation will not serve. We have never been taught to think. The generation which will think will have to be taught by the teachers in the grade schools, from kindergarten up, not by university professors.

"With few exceptions, the press, the magazines and the radio of the country are reactionary to the extreme. President Roosevelt in his undertaking is under attack from nearly every portion of it. The only way the press and radio can be combatted is by teaching children not to accept blindly what they read in newspapers and hear over the radio.

Praises Organized Teachers.

"The tendency is for those in power to magnify their power until there is no room left for the common man and woman. That is the way all civilizations have gone and the way this will go unless the child is taught to think.

"Organized teachers are the only ones who can do this, for it requires freedom, and organized teachers are the only ones who have freedom. With the others, their tenure of office depends on their reflecting the ideas of the ruling class—to keep wealth where it is and to keep in power those who are in power.

Discussions on 70 resolutions submitted to the resolutions committee of the federation will begin today. Among them are resolutions asking for revision of the tax structure, proposing "active measures" for the elimination of war and attacking "suicidal" economy in the schools. Other proposed resolutions would declare "war on tax exempt securities and the sales tax," spokesmen said.

The American Federation of Teachers is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and has 12,821 school teacher members in 133 locals. Teachers in public schools throughout the country total 900,000, according to speakers.

Marie Dressler Reported in Unchanged Condition

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—The condition of Marie Dressler, stage and screen actress, was reported unchanged today by physicians at the C. K. G. "When you come up, you'll find Old Golds!"
says Mae West

"It seems to me that the occasional smoker is a better judge of a cigarette than the constant smoker. At least, your occasional smoker is apt to be more critical.

"Off the screen I never smoke. On the screen, I smoke when the part demands it. And I want a cigarette that is non-irritating, mild and easy on the throat. After trying many brands I settled upon Old Gold as my 'picture smoke.' It's delightfully smooth—and free of bite—and doesn't give the least discomfort to the throat.

"If I ever decide to take up smoking in earnest, you may be sure Old Gold will be my brand."

ENVOY OF JAPAN TO BE VISITOR AT FAIR TOMORROW

Norwegian Minister Sees Exhibition Informally.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador to the United States, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning to visit A Century of Progress Exposition. The military and diplomatic honors for the Japanese diplomat will signalize the third visit to the Fair in four days of official representatives of foreign governments.

HIROSI SAITO.

This afternoon Charalambos Simopoulos, Greek minister to the United States, who officiated at the dedication of the Greek pavilion Sunday, will be given a diplomatic reception and a salute of fifteen guns in front of the General Exhibits building.

Luncheon for Morgenstierne.

Wilhelm Morgenstierne, newly appointed Norwegian minister to the United States, was a guest of the Fair yesterday. His visit was informal, his party spending most of the day visiting the various exhibits throughout the grounds.

The members of the Norwegian envoy's party were guests of the Fair at a luncheon.

The Japanese ambassador and his party will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock aboard the Liberty Limited. In the group will be Mme. Saito, two daughters, and an attaché, Eiji Wajima. They will be met by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, and Kenji Nakauchi, acting consul general in Chicago, and Mme. Nakauchi.

Good Day for Serious Exhibits.

Upon arrival in the Fair grounds the ambassador will be greeted with a military reception and a salute of nineteen guns in the Court of Honor at the 14th street gate. After passing the day at the Fair the party will depart for the west coast to sail for Japan.

Despite the almost steady rain of yesterday 32,258 persons filed in before midnight. They found it an ideal day to study educational exhibits.

The smallest day's attendance in 1933 was 20,171 on Nov. 9.

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—Constance Talmadge [Mrs. Townsend Netcher] today was the legal recipient of nearly $100,000 worth of real estate and other valuable property in a partial distribution of the $125,000 estate left by her late mother, Mrs. Peg Talmadge, to Constance as practically sole heiress.

Century of Progress Notes

TONY, the convalescent goat at the Swiss village, was taken to the top of the west Sky Ride tower yesterday on the suggestion of a nurse in Dr. Baylor's World's Fair hospital that a more Alpine altitude might speed his recovery. The goat was kicked by a horse several weeks ago on his way to Chicago.

The National A. A. U. outdoor swimming championship tournament will be staged July 6, 7, and 8 in the World's Fair lagoons. Corporal Edward Alvarez of the United States coast artillery, Honolulu, who holds the diving championship of the Hawaiian Islands, has arrived and joined the practicers.

More than 300 of the most important works of Italian artists of the 18th and 19th centuries were placed formally on free display yesterday in the Italian pavilion at the Fair by Commander Luigi Ranieri, vice commissioner to the Fair.

Four hundred Ford Motor company dealers from the Buffalo, N. Y., district are to arrive in Chicago at 1 P. M. today on a special train over the Wabash railroad to view A Century of Progress. W. L. Yule, manager of the Buffalo branch, a former Chicagoan, heads the delegation. It is comprised of dealers from all over New York state, with the exception of the metropolitan district, and from a part of northern Pennsylvania.

Henrietta Swedenberg, selected as Miss South Bend, will participate in dedication ceremonies at 2 o'clock today in the Studebaker exhibit in the Travel and Transport building. She will break a bottle of champagne over the motor of the lead-off car.

The exhibit of the Porcelain Enamel institute in the General Exhibits building will present every June bride this week with an ash tray made in the exhibit.

Uniformed cadets of the Morgan Park Military academy will gather at the Hall of Religion Thursday for the dedication of the murals painted by Howard Church and depicting the lives of Sir Galahad and St. Francis.

Imprisonment of Abortion Murder Doctor Is Ordered

A mittimus for the imprisonment of Dr. Morris Reich, 46 years old, who was found guilty by a jury on June 2 of the murder by abortion of Miss Clara Rowe, 17 years old, a cabaret entertainer, was issued yesterday by Judge James F. Fardy in the Criminal court. His term is 14 years.

HARRY IS TAKEN FOR A RIDE, OR SO HE TELLS IVA

The Hyde Park police last night were somewhat dubiously searching for Harry Oliver, 36 years old, a gasoline station attendant living at 4927 Lake Park avenue, who wrote a farewell note to his wife while he was being taken for a gang ride, or so the note said.

The note was received by the wife, Mrs. Iva Oliver, in Grand Beach, Mich. She gave it to her father, Deputy Sheriff Albert Clark of Berrien county, who brought it to Chicago. It read:

"Iva, Dear: I don't know if you will get this, but maybe some one will send it. I'm being taken for a ride . . . my last . . . and I'm lying on the bottom of the car. I love you."

Police were wondering how Oliver happened to be permitted to write the letter, and how he was able to throw it right into a mail box in the Hyde Park district. The envelope and the paper were unsoiled. A search of Oliver's rooms disclosed that he had removed all his belongings before going on the "ride."

NUDES BANNED IN OPEN AIR SHOW; ARTISTS OBJECT

The south park board yesterday notified the Chicago Artists' Equity that no nudes will be permitted to be displayed or sold at the open air art fair, which is to run for twelve days beginning June 30 on the Congress street plaza in Grant park.

This afternoon the restriction will be discussed at a luncheon of the artists' equity committee in the Gold room of Mandel Brothers' store. Members of the park board, presidents of art organizations, and sponsors of the art fair have been invited to attend. Among the sponsors are Mrs. Frank G. Logan, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, and Dr. Max Thorek.

Many of the 200 artists who have registered to take part in the fair are protesting against the anti-nude edict because they have painted, sketched or sculped nudes for the exhibition. The open air show has become an annual affair, springing from the depression which hit the city's art colony on the near north side.

SOUTHERN ROADS FILLED BY CARS BOUND FOR FAIR

Indicates Attendance Gain at 1934 Show.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—"You all from Chicago?" asked the country boy pumping gasoline into THE TRIBUNE roadster in the village of Clanton, Ala. "I just got back from the Fair."

In the soft drawl of the cotton fields, he told of his excursion in a light farm truck. He and another lad made the 1,500 mile round trip drive in three days and spent two days at A Century of Progress with a total budget of $25 each.

His Friends Coming.

He said he liked the Exposition and that many of his friends were going to Chicago next month. The episode is typical of experiences on a tour through the southland by THE TRIBUNE roadster as an official World's Fair car assigned to stimulate travel to A Century of Progress.

On the highways are baggage laden automobiles en route to the Exposition and the best available sources of information predict that this trafic will be heavier this year than last.

Distributes Information.

George Barton of the Chicago Motor club, as representative of the Fair administration, distributed information and literature about A Century of Progress to chambers of commerce and at Mobile clubs and newspapers along the route.

In Mobile, C. D. Davenport of the Chamber of Commerce told of inquiries about the exposition that he is receiving from the plantations of his territory. Clarence H. Hawkins, city passenger agent for the Mobile and Ohio railroad, said June travel to Chicago will exceed last year's figures.

At Chattanooga, Georgia and Florida license plates are numerous on cars en route to the Fair.

RAWLEIGH WINS DISMISSAL OF $75,000 ACTION

Judge Herbert Anderson of Charleston sitting in Superior court here sustained a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty yesterday in behalf of W. T. Rawleigh, millionaire patent medicine manufacturer of Freeport, in the $75,000 damage suit brought by three young men against Rawleigh and the Burns Detective agency. The trial continued with the detective agency as the sole defendant.

The three men charged they were falsely arrested as suspects in an extortion plot against Rawleigh and were beaten by Burns detectives. They are Miles Lapp and Charles Blazer, both 24 years old, and LeRoy Meters, 25 years old, all of Freeport.

Rawleigh retained the Burns agency after he had received two threatening letters in February, 1931, demanding $5,000. The detectives caused the arrest of the three, who were held in jail until the subsequent arrest and confession of another young man, William Lahre. In his ruling, Judge Anderson held that the detectives were liable for their acts and not Rawleigh.

LEVIATHAN IS LOSER BY $184,000 IN FIRST OF 5 CONTRACT TRIPS

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The United States liner Leviathan finished today, at a loss of $184,000, the first of five round trip voyages to Europe required by government contract for this year. The loss was the Leviathan's largest under private ownership, exceeding by $54,000 the amount the owners guaranteed to set aside toward a new and more economical ship for each voyage the Leviathan might be spared.

Faced with the necessity of going through with the remaining four voyages, the Roosevelt Steamship line was unable to receive assurances from the postoffice department that a larger share of foreign mail would be diverted to the Leviathan when she starts her second trip on Saturday. The French liner Paris leaves on the same date and the postoffice department indicated it could not change the policy under which it permitted the Paris to carry 500 sacks of mail.

DISPLAY SHOWS PROGRESS MADE BY MACHINE ART

Art critics, business and professional men, social leaders and housewives attended last night at the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park a preview of industry's first display in Chicago of machine art.

The exhibition is intended to prove that "machine age" products, even though created primarily for utility, rival the finest works of the individual craftsmen.

Among the guests were Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, widow of the founder of the museum; Thomas Goodkind, grandson of Mr. Rosenwald; Miss Caroline Kreusser, daughter of O. T. Kreusser, director of the museum; Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director of the Chicago Art Institute, and Sewell Avery and Leo Wormser, directors of the museum.

The show will be open to the public until Sept. 15.

MELLOWED BY AGE
Enriched by Tradition

Fine beer can't be made over night. Behind fine beer must be age—and tradition. BUDWEISER is richly endowed with both. Anheuser-Busch began brewing in 1859. BUDWEISER was created in 1876. Its unforgettable quality was so outstanding that in the International Exposition in Paris in '78 it won first honors from all the brews of the world. It was awarded the gold medal at the World's Fair in Philadelphia in 1876, at Amsterdam in 1883, at New Orleans in 1885 and Chicago in 1893. BUDWEISER's greatest distinction never has been matched by any other brew anywhere—the biggest selling bottled beer in history.

SOCIAL ACTION BOARD TO GUIDE POLICY OF CHURCH

Congregationalist Session Adopts Holt Plan.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oberlin, O., June 25.—[Special.]—By almost unanimous vote here today the general council of the Congregational Christian churches turned their main emphasis and work permanently toward sociological problems. The action was interpreted by leaders to be the most radical in the history of Protestantism.

PROF. A. E. HOLT.

It was further explained by Prof. Arthur E. Holt of the Chicago Theological seminary, originator of the new program, that today's action will turn historic attention of churches from pioneer work in geographical expansion to pioneer work in social reconstruction.

The social action plan was adopted without the sharp opposition that was predicted.

Purpose of Social Action.

The purpose of the council of social action, as stated in the Holt resolution, follows:

"To help churches to make the Christian Gospel more effective in society, national and world-wide, through research, education, and action, in cooperation with the home and foreign boards, conferences and associations, and local churches. It is proposed that the council shall increasingly cooperate with the Federal Council of Churches in the creation of a program which shall be genuinely interdenominational.

"In its research the council of social action will aim to be impartial, its only bias being that of the Christian view of life, its educational efforts will be directed primarily toward the local churches, but will also envisage the cultivation of public opinion; its action, the council may, on occasion, intercede directly in specific situations."

Affects Labor Disputes.

Later in the resolution the council was described as the launching of "a new kind of churchmanship"; types of action the council may directly take were disclosed to include arbitration of labor disputes, expert testimony based on research to be rendered in hearings of various sorts, dissemination of scientific interpretations of questions of economic, public, or governmental policy, and representation of "moral conscience" at such trials as the Scottsboro, Sacco-Vanzetti, and Tom Mooney cases.

In the discussion of the plan, Dr. Fletcher Parker of Hartford, Conn., said churches had been losing the interest of the younger people by failing to share in the experimental view of science.

To Dominate Church Work.

The newly set up council of social action, although an independent board, will be so integrated into existing boards of foreign and home missions and education as to dominate completely the entire coöperative work of the 7,000 Congregational churches of the country.

Membership of the new council of social action, according to Dr. Hugh Elmer Brown, of Evanston, Ill., will be drawn from members of the most noted social, economic and political groups of the country and almost without regard for denominational lines. The council will coöperate with like groups of other denominations.

When it was suggested that the council of social action have the nature of a church Brain Trust, such description was quickly denied by leaders.

"Our committee on nominations for the new council, which will report tomorrow morning, is going to strike high," said Dr. Brown. "Our tentative lists already include some of the most trusted and best known men in America. The nature of the work to be undertaken, I believe, will attract such men into enthusiastic membership of the council."

Holt Talks for Council.

Prof. Holt, speaking in favor of the council, declared that the new board will restore the influence the church once had, "bring back the voice we once possessed—the moral right to be a public minded denomination. The entire program is an attempt to implement an idea which has as its purpose a pioneering, fact finding agency in social relations. It points to reorganization of Protestantism to reach into 100 new frontiers. A life and death grapple is coming. Battles for ideals of a free church and a free society will have to be fought all over again."

Prof. Holt then explained how the new board will make practical use of research departments of seminaries and universities instead of depending hereafter on "phraseological solutions of problems" or expecting resolutions by church boards or federations to cure evils.

BERLIN WELCOMES NAZI STORM TROOPERS OF AUSTRIA WITH CHEERS

BERLIN, June 25.—(AP)—The word "anschluss"—union of Germany and Austria—was not mentioned, but there were numerous hearty pledges of everlasting Austro-German brotherhood when 152 Austrian Nazi storm troopers came to Berlin today for a demonstration at the Sportpalast tomorrow. Women and children showered the Austrian visitors with flowers.

Storm Troop Leader Faller of Austria, expressing appreciation for the cordial receptions, said that for decades Austrians had striven in vain for a union with Germany. Today Hitlerism would triumpth in Austria if there were an opportunity for the people to pass on the issue, he asserted.

"We shall fight shoulder to shoulder with our German brethren until we are one people and one reich," Faller said.

The exiled Austrian Nazi leader, Alfred Frauenfeld, will be chairman of the Nazi meeting at the Sportpalast tomorrow.

ROBBERS TAKE $5,000 CLOTHING; FIRE ON POLICE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Ruby Jackson, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in Dwight prison; Tim Route, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Willie Robinson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Johnnie Downs, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Clara Smith, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Dwight prison by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Lonie Thornton, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

Four shotgun bandits stole $5,000 worth of clothing from the Palace dress shop, 3610 West 26th street, yesterday and escaped after fighting a gun battle with police.

Max Schy, owner of the shop, and his wife, Olga, had just opened when the four robbers entered. Mrs. Schy was locked in a back room by a bandit. Another stood guard over Schy, while two more started carrying out apparel.

By chance, one of them stepped on a burglar alarm button. Policemen Raymond Grace and Fred Lopahs arrived in a squad car from Lawndale station just as the bandits were driving away. The police opened fire, which was answered by shotgun blasts. Near Central Park avenue and 22d street the bandit car eluded the pursuers.

NAZI CHIEFTAIN CALLS HITLER AN AGENT OF GOD

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 25.—"Our leader, Adolf Hitler, is the agent of the Almighty—consciously or unwittingly he always does what must be done. We are convinced he obeys a supernal calling to shape the destiny of Germany."

In these words Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the Nazis, described Chancellor Hitler in an address over the government controled radio system today.

The Nazi official outlined the stand of Hitler and the government "against monarchy and conservative and reckless revolutionaries." His address was designed to bolster up the faith of Hitler's followers in the chancellor.

Hess first told how he fought for Hitler in the first propaganda battle of the Nazis in 1920, how he stood at his leader's side in the ill fated Munich putsch and how he shared prison days with him.

Warning to Agitators.

"The Nazis are a huge family which may have a few undesirable members," he said. "Complaints must be filed with organs of the party—not shouted in the streets and coffee houses. No German will suffer for complaints he lodges with the correct authorities.

"Woe unto those who sabotage the work of reconstruction. Conservatives, monarchists, and communists are being watched. We also warn our countrymen against agents provocateur. They are seeking to create differences among the Germans and are pretending to agitate for a second revolution.

"Some day Chancellor Hitler may think it necessary to use revolutionary means to insure progress. Only his orders will count. We are ready to obey them. Puny are those who believe that they can help the leader carry on the revolution by agitating the masses. Hitler was, and remains, a great revolutionary. He needs no crutches."

Open Parley on Concordat.

BERLIN, June 25.—(AP)—Catholic bishops found themselves confronted with two outspoken representatives of the "heathen" wing of the Nazi party today as conferences began on interpretation of the concordat between the church and the German government.

Robert Ley, leader of the Nazi labor organization, and Baldur von Schirach, head of the Hitler Youth, were among the delegates sent by the state to meet with Reichsbishop Konrad Groeber, Bishop Nikolas Bares, and Bishop Wilhelm Berning.

Both Ley and Schirach have been particularly outspoken in their fight on the Catholic clergy.

As the conference started, Nazi representatives appeared to be pushing for a quick settlement of the differences which have arisen as a result of alleged violations of the concordat with the Vatican, particularly the suppression of Catholic Youth organizations.

OFFICIAL SPYING ON U. S. CORRESPONDENTS IN AUSTRIA REVEALED

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, June 25.—Evidence of the wide extent to which British and American correspondents here are subjected to espionage is given in a document that has fallen into their hands. It purports to be a copy of a confidential report by the Vienna secret police to Chancellor Dollfuss' press department on these correspondents.

"The Anglo-American journalists in Vienna are superficial in their judgments and amazingly ill informed. They have no other object than to try to find sensational feature stories. They are third rate persons, drawn from the ranks of the half educated."

The quoting in the report of private expressions of opinion on the precarious position of the Dollfuss government, which are supposed to have been uttered by certain journalists accused in it of having Nazi sympathies, indicates that these correspondents are constantly surrounded by a network of government spies.

Here is a quotation from a paragraph headed "General Remarks":

"Summarizing, it may be said that we can easily win over the English and American press representatives in Vienna. Their remarkable naïveté, their ignorance, and their laziness are being exploited by certain persons whom we must bring under observation. It should be quite easy so to deal with correspondents that they change their attitude. They offer a fruitful field for systematic manipulation provided they are suitably approached."

HOLD ANNUAL CONFERENCE ON YOUTH TONIGHT

Representatives of educational, health, recreation, and social agencies will assemble tonight in the Chicago Woman's club for the annual youth conference. The purpose of the conference, it was stated by Edward L. Burchard, secretary of the Chicago Youth federation, is to establish active community organizations to carry on programs in the interest of youth throughout the year in all parts of Chicago.

BOY SCOUT BAND SAVES GANDHI FROM BOMB BLAST

Plays Too Soon; Assassin Hits Wrong Car.

POONA, India, June 25.—(AP)—The mistake of a Boy Scout band today saved Mahatma Gandhi from death or injury in a bomb explosion which injured five persons.

MAHATMI GANDHI.

The bomb was tossed into an automobile in which many persons, including the band leader, erroneously believed the Mahatma to be riding. The band struck up an anthem to welcome Gandhi to a hall at which he was scheduled to speak.

The bomber pushed his way through the crowd, tossed the infernal machine and escaped. Gandhi was not in the automobile. Its five passengers, all wounded, were taken to a hospital.

A few minutes later the Mahatma arrived on foot.

"This outrage will not injure my cause, but make it stronger," he said. "If they think my body is so sinful they should have singled me out of the crowd and not injured innocent persons."

Authorities attributed the attack to agents of orthodox hindus, who have opposed Gandhi's anti-untouchability campaign and who made extraordinary efforts to prevent his making an address at Poona.

Police announced they had arrested five men and that their inquiry is continuing.

On his tour of India Gandhi has been stoned several times as he rode in automobiles. After one attack he announced he would continue his speaking tour on foot whenever feasible.

GRANDPA SHUNTS FATHER ASIDE IN WHIST WARFARE

Contests for Champions of U. S. Begin.

The Old Guard of the card tables rallied yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel to play, under the auspices of the American Whist league, for the national championships in that game, the granddaddy of auction and contract bridge.

The young men who will compete later in the week in the various contract championship events kept off the center of the stage yesterday. Age had its day at the whist tables.

There were only a few youngsters of 30 or 40 years competing yesterday for the Minneapolis and Hamilton trophies for men pairs, and they, it was whispered, had been brought to the party by their fathers.

In Later Middle Age.

Among the members of the Women's Whist league, playing for the Cannon trophies, a pair of slender silver vases, was Mrs. John C. Mott. At 82 she had come from New York to take part in the tournament.

In comparison, the male players could offer only Henry Simons of Chicago, a veteran of around 70, but they were expecting Charles E. Coffin, Indianapolis banker and newspaper executive, who is 77, and Eberhard Faber of New York, the pencil manufacturer, who is 75.

While the whist tournament has not drawn an enrolment at the congress equal to that of the contract and auction experts, devotees of the game were quick to resent implications that it is a dying pastime. They play whist for whist, and not for money, they explained, and as a result the game has escaped the commercialization of its descendants.

Technique Differs Decidedly.

For the benefit of the younger generation of card players, Andrew J. Mouat of Wilmette, secretary of the league, explained that whist is played without bidding. The dealer turns the last card of his hand to set the trump, and the player to his right has the first lead.

Because the players lack the information, which results from the bidding in auction and contract, and that resulting from the spread of a dummy hand by the declarer in those games, whist experts have developed a score of conventions by which they give their partners information through the cards which they lead.

Rival Camps Defy Foes.

To the sniffs of the contract experts, some of whom hinted yesterday that they refrained from entering the whist tourney for fear of offending the old timers by winning their trophies, the whist players snorted angrily that the youngsters were more interested in the kick of gambling than in scientific card play, and that they would have had their wings trimmed had they sought to compete with their elders.

PLANS NATIONAL BODY TO INSURE DECENT MOVIES

Church Council Will Launch Program.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Plans for a permanent national organization to enforce high moral standards in motion pictures were announced today on behalf of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which voted last week to coöperate in the campaign started by the Catholic Legion of Decency.

The Rev. Dr. Worth Tippy, head of the council's department of church and social service, made known that funds would be raised to pay the first expenses of the project. The plans, as he outlined them, call for immediate dissemination of information among Protestants, through the church press and by other channels, on how they can coöperate in the drive to insure decency on the screen.

Plan Local Councils.

In addition, the Protestant churches and national religious organizations will be asked to help establish local councils in each town where there is a motion picture theater.

These councils will carry on the movement for withholding patronage from objectionable screen offerings and will work with local exhibitors of films to encourage the showing of good presentations.

The councils, Dr. Tippy pointed out, will not be an experiment, since they already have been established in some communities, among them Forest Hills and Mount Vernon.

Review Board Planned.

To aid in the task of appraising individual pictures, he said, the Federal Council of Churches, or some agency designated by it, will establish a board to review new films, from the moral as well as the artistic viewpoint. This board will make its findings known to the local councils, which are to function as independent bodies.

The federal council, meanwhile, will prepare material giving the facts on the motion picture situation, and expressing the opinion of the council on the action that should be taken, for use in promoting the present drive that is being carried out in coöperation with Catholic and Jewish groups.

The Catholic campaign assumed national scope last Thursday, when bishops of the church met at Cincinnati and announced plans to expand the Legion of Decency to every city in the United States, and to pledge motion picture audiences to boycott improper screen plays. Jewish coöperation was assured in a resolution adopted on June 18 at Wernersville, Pa., by the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Quintuplets 4 Weeks Old; Total Weight Near 13 Lbs.

CORBEIL, Ont., June 25.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets were four weeks old today and celebrated by putting on three ounces in weight, making their gain since Saturday 8½ ounces. The five now weigh 12 pounds 12¼ ounces. Dr. A. R. Dafoe reported them all in satisfactory condition. He also said Mrs. Ovila Dionne, mother of the five girls, showed marked improvement and may be allowed to leave her bed some time this week.

HAROLD STROTZ, WEALTHY BROKER, SUED FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Maxine Stresenreuter Strotz yesterday filed a bill for divorce against Harold C. Strotz, wealthy sportsman and LaSalle street broker, in the Superior court. She charged that her husband was cruel and asked for the custody of her son, Harold Jr., 1 year old, and both alimony and support money.

According to Robert Cantwell Jr., counsel for Mrs. Strotz, the suit will not be contested. Mrs. Strotz and her husband yesterday met in a loop office, where he signed stipulations which allow the case to be tried at default. He also signed an agreement to a property settlement which Mrs. Strotz has accepted. The divorce is scheduled for a hearing before Superior Judge Rudolph Desart late today.

Second Divorce for Both.

Mrs. Strotz is the daughter of Frank M. Stresenreuter of 1335 West Garfield boulevard. She now is living at 900 North Michigan avenue and is employed as a style consultant in a North Michigan avenue shop. The divorce will be her second, the first being from Gene Gordon Culver, grandson of the founder of the famous military academy, in St. Louis in 1926. She married Mr. Strotz in Chicago in February, 1929.

Mr. Strotz is the son of the late Charles N. Strotz, vice president of the American Tobacco company, and is one of two heirs to his father's fortune. At one time the defendant husband was a member of the board of the Chicago Stadium and formerly was a member of the Onwentsia club polo team. The divorce is his second also. In 1928 he was divorced by his first wife, Mrs. Eugenia Vandeveer Strotz.

Specifies Acts of Cruelty.

In the divorce bill filed yesterday Mrs. Strotz says her husband's first act of cruelty occurred the night of the opening of the 1933 A Century of Progress Exposition when after attending a party at the Streets of Paris she was forced to return home alone.

On last Sept. 7, Mrs. Strotz avers, her husband struck her with his fist, and last Jan. 15, while playing cards at the home of a friend "he lost his temper and flung the cards in her face."

After asking for the custody of her son, Mrs. Strotz asked leave to retain the name of Mrs. Harold Strotz after the divorce. Attorneys pointed out that such a request is seldom made, inasmuch as there would be a second Mrs. Harold Strotz should Mr. Strotz remarry.

STUDIO CONSIGNS 'IT AIN'T NO SIN' BACK TO CAMERA

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—Paramount studio, which says it has $500,000 invested in Mae West's "It Ain't No Sin," is sending that back before the camera for two weeks of scene changes.

The story will be changed in title and in several sequences during the two weeks, because of rejection by the New York board of regents for exhibition in that state.

POPE SUPPORTS DRIVE AGAINST IMMORAL FILMS

VATICAN CITY, June 25.—(AP)—Pope Pius views with sympathetic understanding agitation against immoral motion pictures by American bishops, but the pontiff has not issued any order for creation of leagues of decency to combat such undesirable pictures, a vatican official said today.

Commenting on a report that the pope had ordered establishment of the so-called leagues, the official said such a step would be entirely unnecessary because the whole ecclesiastical structure of the church seeks to combat all immorality.

The vatican spokesman said the movement to oppose immoral pictures would receive the maximum encouragement from the pontiff, but that the holy father has not considered it necessary to lift his voice in the matter.

ENGINEER HURT IN EXPLOSION.

William MacDuff, 63 years old, 2704 Miramora avenue, assistant engineer of the Blum building, 824 South Michigan avenue, was knocked unconscious and severely injured by a flying valve yesterday when an ice machine in the basement of the building exploded.

MOVIE MAKERS GIVEN WARNING BY NEW YORKER

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—The motion picture industry was told today that the New York City school system "is determined that the character of its children shall not be undermined by inferior motion pictures."

Indirectly suggesting a boycott by school children of inferior movies, Dr. Harold G. Campbell, superintendent of schools, authorized an investigation to determine how the public schools may help to bring about the production of better motion pictures.

That authorization was contained in a long communication to Dr. John S. Roberts, associate superintendent in charge of visual instruction. It was made public today.

"There is little doubt in my mind," Dr. Campbell wrote, "that much of the good the schools are doing, especially in the field of character training and the development of right social attitudes, is being undermined and even thwarted by sub-standard motion pictures."

New extra quality

at no extra cost —

THE American Medical Association's official Journal recently said, editorially, that too many children still have rickets (faulty bone development) and would continue to have until some cheap, generally available, agreeable source of vitamin D is provided, suggesting that vitamin D milk offered promising possibilities of meeting those requirements.

To help meet that need, Pet Milk is now enriched with vitamin D by irradiation with ultra-violet rays—nature's method of creating this precious vitamin.

By using irradiated Pet Milk, you can now give your children—all your family—an extra supply of vitamin D—at no extra cost. The price of Pet Milk has not been increased because of the extra vitamin D.

Let your children have sunshine. It's good for them. Give them such other sources of vitamin D as your doctor may prescribe. Give them irradiated Pet Milk, too. All three sources may be needed to give them the vitamin D they need. All three together can't possibly do harm.

Many investigations have shown more than fifty per cent of young children suffering from rickets. Many cases exist that can be detected only by expert examination, but which cause faulty bones and bad teeth in later life.

You can't afford not to give your children the extra protection which irradiated Pet Milk provides.

It is probable that this extra supply of vitamin D may be beneficial to adults as well as to children. Irradiated Pet Milk used for all milk and cream purposes will give your whole family an extra supply of this precious vitamin.

These valuable free books tell about this new extra quality in Pet Milk:

"More Nearly Perfect—When Baby Needs Milk from a Bottle"—gives complete information on the value of Pet Milk for babies, and twenty-five recipes especially designed for small children.

"New Summertime Recipes for the New Pet Milk"—beautifully illustrated—fifty-three tested and approved recipes for seasonal dishes appropriate for the whole family.

DEATHS ON THE HIGHWAYS.

The Chicago Motor club, moved by the ghastly increase in motor accidents in 1934, has created a committee composed of twenty officials concerned with regulation or enforcement of laws relating to highway use. This committee is well chosen and its recommendations will be practical and important.

As President Hayes of the motor club says and as THE TRIBUNE has been trying to impress upon the authorities and the public, we need law enforcement and education of motorists. Existing conditions are intolerable, resembling war rather than peace. They are imposing a toll in terms of human suffering and economic loss no civilized community should permit, yet year by year it is imposed without effective revolt. Hardly a day goes by in which we do not read of lives wiped out through inexcusable carelessness. These tragedies punish the innocent as well as the guilty. Often the guilty escape. The careful driver is in constant danger from the incompetent and worse still the reckless driver. There is no shadow of excuse, for example, for what is called side-swiping, and yet such accidents are frequent.

A fundamental solution requires two main approaches. Certainly bad habits of driving are a devastating factor and these must be corrected by more effectual enforcement of laws and a vigorous campaign of education. The latter is a slow process, but essential. Better enforcement by police and courts is a part of the educational process, but instruction and exhortation by the press, by the civic agencies, and by the agents of the motor trade are also useful and should be better organized.

The second approach is the physical. Superhighways will eliminate many hazards, if properly designed and trafic on them properly supervised. Railroad and other crossings should be safeguarded. Grade crossings should be reduced in number and where they remain should be equipped with reliable automatic gates. Physical improvements take time and money, but they should be energetically and persistently pressed, and at the same time the campaign of enforcement of regulations and education should be carried on. The reckless driver must be far more certain of discipline than he is. He should be punished and removed from the highways. There should be more signs to warn and instruct the uninformed motorist who obstructs or endangers others through inadvertence or ignorance of the rules. Highway police on the main thoroughfares should do more supervising.

POLICE ESCORTS.

A familiar incident of city life has been and in some cities still is the police motorcycle escort. At first the escort was restricted to very high officials. Hardly any one lower in rank than the President was granted this honor. Visiting potentates were admitted. But the standard was rapidly lowered until the escort became a public nuisance. Under the Thompson régime any politician might hope for the escort, and almost every day the trafic was interrupted and the ears of the public deafened by the roar and screech of the police escort attending some visitor of whom the irritated citizen had never heard and never would hear of again.

Happily the nuisance roused enough complaint to be politically formidable, and in Chicago it was greatly reduced, at least, if not abolished. Not so in other cities, notably New York, where it still flourishes as a form of political favor. At the Baer-Carnera fight it was at its worst. Citizens had to give way time and again to some politician whose progress to the prize fight was cleared as if he were a sultan on the way to prayers.

It is a strange phenomenon in a supposedly democratic country. The American citizen, when he elects another citizen to office, assumes that he is electing a public servant, not an Afghan princeling. The police escort should wake him up. The police are paid to keep the peace, not to surround the servants of the people or any one else with the privileges of royalty. The police escort is proof that a public office is a private snap, but for that reason a self-respecting community will not tolerate it.

THE SOFT SIDE OF MR. BAER.

Mr. Baer, having put Mr. Carnera in the hospital, visits him there, a courtesy in which press agent and politeness might have equal parts. The new champion's methods are slightly mortuary. Few fighters were ever the same after they had met Mr. Dempsey in his prime, but he was not the blight Mr. Baer proves to be. If Mr. Dempsey's opponents never again fought as well, they still could eat as well and it was mainly their profession and not their persons which permanently suffered.

Mr. Dempsey as adviser to Mr. Baer advises him to fight often, say three times a year. Then he may keep the championship, Dempsey thinks, as long as he cares to, or at least until old age strikes him down at 52. If Mr. Baer takes this advice and also continues as a hospital visitor he'll need to develop a bedside manner. At Carnera's side he was at first at a loss for words—no misfortune to him in most cases—but he might learn an art of expressing sympathy without words. If he could express everything without words it might be even better.

Mr. Baer early developed a speculative interest in himself, selling shares of him for what was offered. If bits of him are still to be had his next opponent might well bid for his right hand and claim it before the fight. Otherwise Mr. Baer must guide his career by the rule of the fraternal orders: "Visit the sick, comfort the dying, bury the dead."

NATIONAL CONSCIOUSNESS.

Illustrations and news accounts in the English press day after day disclose a persistent and effective campaign for the stimulation of English patriotism. It is an outstanding feature of English public life. Views of the fleet and of army ceremonies and activities keep the English people thinking of their national defenses. Views of historic scenes and scenes immortalized in British literature remind them of the achievements of the national genius and constantly keep before them the beauty and romance of the homeland and its proud story.

This it is to be a nation, something far more than a place and a population. No doubt it is natural that this expression of conscious nationality should spring from a thousand years of common experience, but it is more than a spontaneous expression. It is too well organized not to reveal deliberate policy, and in fact it is a masterpiece of policy.

Americans devoted to the development of an American nation must admire and envy this perpetual glorification of England by all the agencies which influence English thought and feeling. Unquestionably it is an important factor in the maintenance of English morale, the most durable probably of any nation's. Its significance ought especially to impress Americans, who take their nationality as a matter of course, although it is only in the making. We have a long way to go before all Americans are American in the sense that all Englishmen are English and it would be even more beneficial to the American nation than to the English to stimulate deliberately and persistently the spirit of national pride. It is gratifying to hear applause in a movie theater when a news reel shows the fleet, but such incidents are mostly trivial. They only give a faint hint of what should be done for the strengthening of national consciousness. The English example ought to be followed. It could hardly be bettered.

RAILWAYS IN THE 73D CONGRESS.

While other industries are still taking stock of the possible effects on their operations of the legislation passed by the "New Deal" congress, the railways have probably fully recovered from the shock. They can breathe a sigh of relief on observing that they have not been badly damaged and that no congressional committee is preparing further grief for them. Of course congress did not neglect them entirely—there were the railway labor and the pension bills. Cherished hopes of relief from the provisions of the fourth section and some regulation for their competitors were dashed to earth, but no resolution involving a quack nostrum was passed.

Perhaps railway baiting is not as popular as formerly. It is just possible that the constituents of the dyed-in-the-wool enemies of rail transportation have commenced to observe that the net result of all of this hullabaloo over rail tyranny has been an increase in the cost of shipping a merchandise package from New York to Chicago from seventy-five cents to one dollar and fifty-two cents, with similar advances in rail transportation costs all over the country. The public may be commencing to realize that this method of gaining political popularity inevitably bounces back on the users of transportation—which incidentally means all of us—in the shape of a couple of cents on a pair of shoes, a nickel on a barrel of flour, and a dime on a dozen golf balls.

Editorial of the Day

[Sunday Oregonian.]

We praise her doughnuts and her pies,
Her biscuit and her cake,
But where's the man who sighs for pants
Like mother used to make?

—Reprinted in Jacksonville Miner.

As to that, of course, he might be hard to find, if the poet intends the question to be taken literally. But there is an abundance of citizens who sigh for the days when mother "used to take a pair of pa's," and "cut them off about the knees," and fashion for the son and heir a garment both commodious and serviceable. For in those days this condition we now allude to as a depression, and strive so despairingly against, was the commonplace lot of commonplace, thrifty people, who thought nothing of it, and who managed somehow to nurture and clothe their children, and give them educations, and set them on the way of self-reliant living. The utilization of father's castoff trousers for Willie's knee pants was merely incidental to the purpose that sustained the American home without complaint or bitterness. A decent poverty was nowhere held to be the occasion for tears or entreaty.

Let it be conceded without argument that nobody desires to return to the economic makeshifts of the times so feelingly touched upon in the quoted quatrain, for that would be retrogression. We may reasonably expect of the world, our contributions considered, the benefits which science and civilization have since prepared for us, including new pants. Otherwise these benefits, being withheld, are the mockery of themselves and the puzzled race that, having produced them, cannot enter into full possession. They are more tantalizing than the frounded mirage on the desert. But there was a quality of self-reliance in an earlier period, of stout resolve to make the best of things, that might well have been carried forward with the cultural and mechanical advance. If it had been carried forward, in anything like the degree the grandparents would have approved, there would be little want and less complaining in America while we wait the turn of the economic tide. For certain of our fundamental problems of the home would have been simply solved by parents of the times the quatrain sings—indeed, they were solved then.

When one contrasts the homely, respectable, self-helpful annals of an earlier period with the current news from Vancouver, Wash., which tells of unemployed men who insist upon state relief without work, though work is offered at a fair wage, the spiritual advantage is all with the simpler past.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

AND THIS IS WHY.

IMOGENIA—"Oh, that sounds wonderful. Make me one, too!"

BARTENDER—"Sorry, ladies, never heard of it. But I'll make 'em for you if you tell me what goes in 'em."

GLADYS—"Why, I had 'em the other day out at the Country club. They've got gin in 'em . . . and, well, maybe some cointreau, and, er . . . Italian vermouth and French vermouth, er, er, er—and gin and, oh, I said gin and——"

SUZELLE—"Oh, Gladys, you're all mixed up. You're thinking of a Humming Bird's Wing. Bartender, make us all Humming Bird's Wing cocktails."

BARTENDER—"Sorry, ladies, never heard of that one, neither."

SUZELLE—Oh, how disgusting! Why Captain Buttons invented them himself and they're certainly swell. Oh, you certainly ought to be able to make a Humming Bird's Wing."

BARTENDER—"Well, tell me what to put in 'em and I'll do my best."

SUZELLE—"Well, you put gin in and brandy and Jamaica rum and absinthe and the white of one egg and a jigger of cream and maple sirup and——"

GLADYS—"It sounds to me more like a prescription to remove freckles. And it ought to be good for dyspepsia and whooping cough."

DELINDA—"It's a recipe for frozen pudding. If this bartender can't make any of the cocktails you've named, then let me try. Bartender, make us each a Whangdoodle."

BARTENDER—"Come again, lady?"

DELINDA—"I said make us a Whangdoodle cocktail. W-h-a-n-g-d-o-o-d-l-e."

BARTENDER—"Sorry, lady, that's a new one on me."

GLADYS—"Well, for Heaven's sake! Say, bartender, is there any kind of cocktail you do know how to make?"

BARTENDER—"Yessum, I know about a hundred cocktails, but you keep naming ones that I don't know about."

SUZELLE (frigidly)—"Bartender, will you be so kind as to name some sort of cocktail that you can make."

BARTENDER—"Martini, Bronx, Manhattan, Side Car, Palm Beach, Orange Blossom, Clover Leaf, Charley Chaplin, September Morn——"

SUZELLE—"Oh, you're so mid-Victorian! Those are all old fashioned cocktails. This is a new day, buddy; snap into it. Come on now, make us girls a Sugar Daddy Doo."

BARTENDER—"Lady, you're a drivin' me nertz. I'm a trying to do my part all right back here behind the bar, but I can't make cocktails I never heard of."

GLADYS (icily)—"You say you know how to make a Martini—a common, old fashioned, garden variety Martini? Okay. Now hop to it!"

SUZELLE—"And lots of raspberry sirup in mine; I just love raspberry sirup!"

BARTENDER—"Listen, ladies, chartreuse and raspberry sirup don't go into no Martini that I ever heard of."

GLADYS (very coldly)—"Will you please ask the bartender to step this way?"

BARTENDER—"I'm the bartender."

GLADYS—"Oh, I thought you were the plumber or the man who washes the windows. But oh, here comes Claroo. Welcome, Claroo; tell us of some swell new cocktail."

CLAROO—"Cat's Whiskerino."

(Bartender faints and the girls decide to go to some bar where the barkeep knows how to throw some fancy cocktails.)

(Curtain.)

"CUBA PUTS Down Navy Rebellion."—Headline. There must be some mistake about that. The Cuban telegram says the navy rebellion was put down last Saturday. But Saturday is the day when the army rises up in Cuba. Navy rebellions have in the past always been put down on Mondays and Thursdays. Of course there is a possibility that Cuba has adopted a new schedule or it may be that the regular putting down of the navy rebellion which should have taken place Thursday was postponed to Saturday on account of rain.

SUNLIGHT AND HEALTH.

PHYSICIANS have known for a long time that persons who live for a greater part of their lives without exposure to the sun do not develop normally and are more susceptible to disease. Recently great claims have been made relative to the curative power of the ultra-violet rays known to exist in sunlight. Observations made by competent physicians are now sufficiently specific in character to warant the statement that sunlight is of definite value in the treatment of skin tuberculosis [lupus], and, when administered with skill, is a well-nigh indispensable healing measure in tuberculosis of the lymph glands, intestines, peritoneum, and bones and joints.

However, exposure to sunlight has in some quarters become a fad. The person who does not acquire a heavy coat of tan over most of the body during the summer months is looked upon as one who has wasted a great opportunity. Unfortunately, in acquiring this beautiful tan, the individual may have impaired some important body function. Excessive exposure of the entire body may in certain cases cause serious illness or even death. The claim that exposure to ultra-violet rays increases or improves the tone of the tissues or of the body as a whole, stimulates metabolism, or tends to prevent colds has not been conclusively substantiated.

Sunlight does act as a stimulant to circulation. Furthermore, it has an effect upon calcium metabolism and vitamin production. It has been definitly shown that ultra-violet rays have a prophylactic and curative effect in rickets. The proper use of ultra-violet by the mother before the birth of the child and during the nursing period will help to prevent rickets.

Experts in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis, however, have found that sunlight is a definite retarding factor to recovery in the exudative [active or spreading] type of the disease. In fact, there is considerable evidence that the use of sunlight may prove a real danger in this condition. This has been particularly emphasized by Dr. S. H. Watson. Remedial measures of any sort must be used with intelligence and skill. Sir Henry Gauvain warns definitly against the excessive use of light treatment. He holds that the sun's rays may tax the recuperative powers beyond the ability of the patient to respond, and says, "As with other tonics, continuous administration is not associated with progressive response, even when the dose is increased, and excessive or prolonged exposure to light is not only not beneficial but sometimes definitly harmful and may be dangerous."

In the process of tanning the blood deposits pigment within the skin that serves as a filter, stopping many of the ultra-violet rays. If sun exposure is continued beyond the point where it proves stimulating to the system dryness of the skin develops, dilated capillaries may be noted, and skin atrophy occurs, with the possible development of a horny, thick layer that is said by some observers to predispose to skin cancer.

Sun baths to be of real value must be taken at first for short periods of time, gradually increasing the exposure without burning and with the development of a slowly increasing tan. Because of the known danger that attends overexposure it is rarely wise to undertake a course of sunlight baths except under the direction of a physician familiar with the systemic effects of light.

BE SURE ABOUT T. B.

Betty writes: After an X-ray examination has ruled out the possibility of tuberculosis, what other causes can there be for a rise in temperature to 100 in the afternoon? Would it be dangerous to ignore the condition?

REPLY.

Make certain that you have ruled out tuberculosis. Any afternoon temperature of 100 must not be ignored. The tonsils, teeth, and heart should be carefully examined.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

E. M. P. writes:

1. Does too much protein cause high blood pressure?
2. Is this statement partially or completely true?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. In order to avoid development of high blood pressure one should use a balanced ration. In certain types of kidney disease a considerable amount of protein must be used.

ANNUITIES.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the Insured.]—What is the difference between annuities and life insurance? Would it be considered as good as an ordinary life insurance policy?

I. O. E.

In character the annuity is the opposite of life insurance; for, while a life policy insures the policy holder against dying too soon, an annuity, it can be said, provides insurance against living too long. Technically, however, the two forms of policies are closely related, since the cost of both is computed on similar data and principles. An annuity may be defined as a contract which, for a cash consideration, provides for annual, semi-annual, quarterly, or monthly payments during the lifetime of the insured, its purpose being to protect against the outliving of one's income, which is just the opposite of the person who needs life insurance as protection against loss through premature death. It is impossible to make a general comparison of annuities and life insurance, due to the vastly different purposes to be accomplished under each contract. Where there are dependents life insurance would be preferable unless there was a large income from other sources. Annuities are designed for and are more adaptable to elderly people or those without dependents whose chief concern is in assuring themselves of a competence for life. Just as life insurance may be offered under various types of contracts, so annuities may assume a variety of forms to cover the needs of different persons.

NECESSITIES AND LUXURIES.

"Three-quarters of a century ago 80 per cent of all labor was required to produce the necessities of life. Now 33 per cent of labor is sufficient to produce all the necessities."

Three-quarters of a century ago was 1859 [a year, by the way, in which the United States was in an industrial depression from which, it was strongly averred, it could never emerge by natural means].

It is not true that in 1859 80 per cent of all labor was required to produce necessities. Even the poor, in 1859, had the most garish luxuries—or what would have been considered so 200 years previously. Even the poor had such things as cloth shirts, leather shoes, stoves, window glass and plenty of salt! These had come to be considered necessities merely because custom and burocracy had, about a hundred years before, been forced to give a measure of freedom to industry and transportation and, consequently, wages had gone up and the price of these things had gone down.

It is not true that at present 33 per cent of labor can produce all necessities. If the deadening hand of custom and burocracy which is closing upon industry can be stayed, such things as automobiles, modern homes, air cooling systems, liberal educations and airplane facilities will come to be "necessities."

If Americans continue to be 120,000,000 white rats or if they come to be 120,000,000 paupers fed at the stall of paternalistic but poverty stricken government, then their "necessities" will naturally be very simple and 33 per cent of the working population will be able to provide them.

LLOYD M. CROSGRAVE.

ASKING FOR IT.

Chicago, June 20.—I am wondering whether the writer of the editorial referring to E. M. Delafield's "Provincial Lady in America" realized that this is the third volume of the Provincial Lady's diary, the other two being much nastier and more devastating at the expense of her own country and herself. Also, that the American publishing house which sponsored Miss Delafield's trip and book were well aware of the pungency of her comments, and, as it were, "asked for it." Now it seems that some of us "can't take it."

The author has applied exactly the same technique to her American volume as to others, except out of courtesy restraining the sharpness of her wit to such an extent that one critic, Mr. Woolcott, laments that the book lacks her customary zest. It abounds in expressions of sincere admiration for American life, customs and individuals. The only human who comes in for a real rapping is the insufferable Minnie who, living in Toronto, should more properly be classed as one of his majesty's subjects.

Exception might be taken to one incident—her secret realization that she was better looking than her millionaire hostess. Any one who has read this diarist's innumerable deprecations of her own appearance, mind and possessions can only hurrah to learn that for once she experienced the thrilling glow of superiority. Why begrudge her it?

And why be petty and touchy, Mr. Editor? Mention of a book written as harmlessly and blithesomely as was this is not a matter for international comment, but rightly belongs in a review by your splendid literary editor.

BLUE ISLAND CARS.

Chicago, June 20.—Chicago's citizens, together with the rest of the inhabitants of Cook county, should rise up in righteous protest of indignation against the Chicago Surface Lines for the very inadequate and discriminatory service over the Blue Island avenue lines.

With the hundreds, nay, thousands, of people who travel daily over this line in order to reach the Criminal court and other county and state institutions, especially during the morning hours, the cars are jammed to the very doors just because the service is not frequent enough; one has to wait from fifteen to twenty-five minutes for a car that covers the route from the loop to Kenton avenue.

JOSEPH KOBRINSKI

PRAYER FOR DELIVERANCE.

Peoria, Ill., June 21.—When I pick up the daily papers and read about the latest new dealings I feel prompted to suggest a day of mourning and of prayer for deliverance as a nation from the spirit of bondage and of fear.

O recovery! What a multitude of tyrannies and oppressions are committed against freemen in thy name.

RAY L. NISSEN.

PANHANDLING.

Chicago, June 20.—Without reservation, I agree with your editorial statement, "Panhandling is, of course, only a symptom of a general moral collapse." Perhaps Chicago's panhandling Washington for funds with which to pay her teachers proves your point. Now, whose face is red? Or have you forgotten how to blush?

FIREMEN'S EXAMINATION.

Chicago, June 22.—[Friend of the People.]—I am interested in securing employment with the city fire department. Will you please advise me as to where I can secure an application and when and where the next examination will be held?

E. J. L.

I wish to inform you that, as an examination was just recently held for firemen, another will not be held for some time. We have, however, placed the name of your correspondent on our mailing list for notification of same when called. When the examination is officially called application may then be filed.

Gaining ALL ALONG THE LINE

SOURCE: MEDIA RECORDS

The Philadelphia Inquirer during the month of May led all Philadelphia newspapers in total paid advertising and gained nearly a quarter of a million lines over the corresponding month of 1933.

These gains, as shown by the charts above, did not come from one group of advertisers, but from retailers, manufacturers, financial houses and classified advertisers offering every kind and character of merchandise and service.

The Inquirer is committed to a definite policy of constantly improving its news, feature and editorial excellence. How well this policy is succeeding is best proved by the fact that since April 16th, 1934, The Inquirer has taken over practically 80% of the circulation of the Public Ledger and is now publishing by far the largest Morning and Sunday newspaper in Pennsylvania.

LEON HORNSTEIN DIES; 29 YEARS LAWYER TO CITY

In Corporation Counsel's Office and at Capital.

Leon Hornstein, first assistant corporation counsel and authority on corporation law, died yesterday in his home at 5610 Blackstone avenue after an illness of two weeks. He was 71 years old.

LEON HORNSTEIN.

Connected with the corporation counsel's office for 29 years, with the exception of an absence for slightly more than a year, Mr. Hornstein's chief service to the city was as its representative for 15 years during sessions of the legislature in Springfield.

Not only had he, since he first became connected with the office during the term of Carter Harrison in 1905, protected the city in Springfield, but he had been instrumental in framing many of the most important city ordinances.

Works Despite Affliction.

He is credited with having framed the city zoning ordinance and with having compiled the present municipal code.

Five years ago, on May 6 while he was on his way to a session of the legislature down state, Mr. Hornstein suffered a stroke of apoplexy on the Springfield train. After this he was partially paralyzed, although his brain remained perfectly clear. It was a familiar sight to see him come to work at the city hall on his wife's arm and leave in the evening with her. She never failed to go with him to work after the attack.

In Print Shop as Boy.

Mr. Hornstein was born in 1863 at West Bend, Wis. His family came to Chicago when he was 9 years old, and he was educated in the city's schools. He entered a printing shop when he was 15 and in 1897 he was admitted to the bar. In 1911 he married Miss Esther Younker. He was made a first assistant in the corporation counsel's office in 1924.

Survivors, in addition to the widow, are two daughters, Charlotte and Annette. Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow morning.

PUBLIC HEARINGS TO INQUIRE INTO PLANE CRASHES

Serious aircraft accidents involving all except military ships are to be investigated in public hearings by inspectors of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce and the department's findings will be made public through the secretary of commerce.

Through this new procedure announced in Washington yesterday by Eugene L. Vidal, director of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, the mystery, hitherto maintained around the circumstances and causes of airplane accidents, particularly those of scheduled transport operators, is to be dispelled.

Authority under which the department is now allowed to make the public examinations into the reasons for crashes which have been inexplicable in many cases, was granted late last week when President Roosevelt signed a measure amending the Air Commerce act of 1926.

The new amendment directs department inspectors to summon and examine witnesses, to administer oaths, and to require the preservation of evidence.

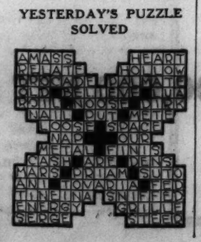
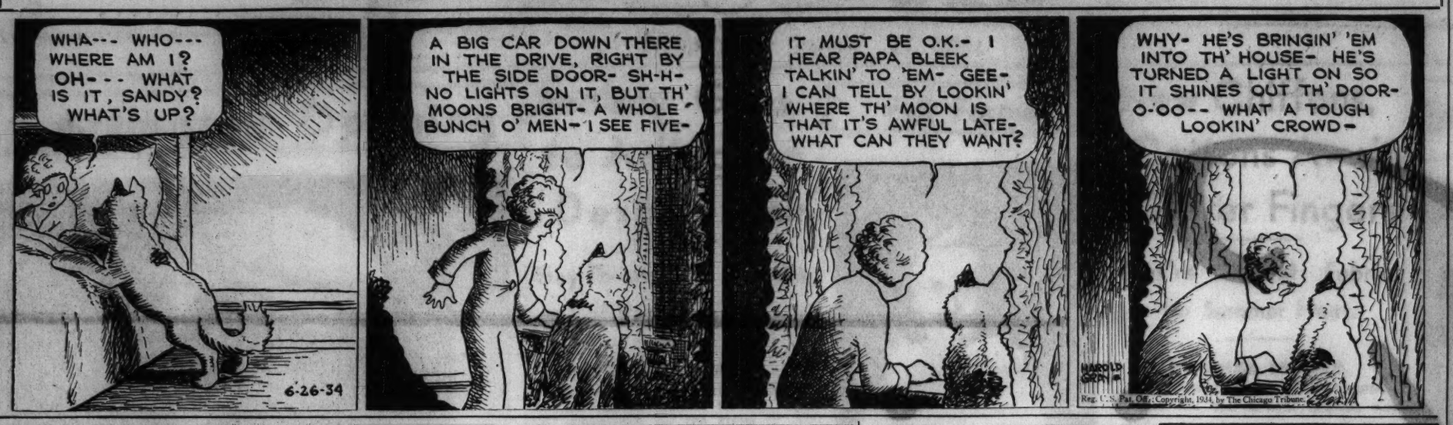
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: While Honest Men Sleep



MOTORIST HELD FOR WIFE'S DEATH IN AUTO CRASH

Witnesses Testify Car Was Speeding.

Charles J. Gay, 23 years old, 1014 North Marshfield avenue, whose wife, Mary, an expectant mother, was killed Sunday night when the car he was driving crashed into an electric light pole in the 7800 block on Irving Park boulevard, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury yesterday.

Gay gave his name to authorities after the crash as Charles Misz. He explained at the inquest that Misz was the name under which he had purchased his automobile four months ago.

Testify to Wild Driving.

Witnesses testified, according to Deputy Coroner Rasmussen, that Gay had been driving wildly prior to the crash. One of these was Barney Parys, 3320 North Menard avenue, who said Gay had called him names after a trafic brush. Gay denied he had been drinking and said he was driving only 35 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Gay's body was rushed to the Chicago State hospital, where a postmortem operation, in an effort to save her unborn child, was unsuccessful. Others injured were Florian, 4 years old, her son; John Skutz, 23, of the same address; Alex Moranda, 37, 745 North Lincoln avenue, Brookfield, and Mrs. Helen Seipp, 45, 3708 Branchon avenue, Brookfield, all of whom were passengers in the same car. Authorities said that Gay, who was unemployed, had been on relief rolls.

Woman Is Killed.

Mrs. Tekla Carlson, 64 years old, of Moline, Ill., mother of Lieut. Gunnar Carlson of the army, who is stationed at Fort Sheridan, was killed by an automobile in Moline Sunday night when she stepped from a street car. Police held Russell Miller, also of Moline, the driver, pending an inquest.

Traugott Zibell, 69 years old, 4038 North Kilpatrick avenue, a clothing cutter, died in the Belmont hospital early yesterday of injuries he suffered June 16, when he was struck by a hit and run driver in front of 4714 Cuyler avenue.

The Cook county automobile death toll since Jan. 1 yesterday was 577.

Mrs. Anna Liska, 58 years old, 2647 South Kildare avenue, was in a serious condition in the county hospital yesterday after she had been struck by a hit and run motorist while crossing the 4200 block on 26th street.

FIGHT ON AUTO DEATHS JOINED BY ROOSEVELT

Letter to Convention Praises Drive.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today took up the fight against the mounting death rate caused by motor vehicle accidents. In a letter read to delegates at the American Automobile association convention here he deplored the increasing toll.

His letter in part is as follows:

"We cannot longer afford to temporize with this problem. Those who use the highways must realize the responsibility they assume when they take the wheel.

"Safer conditions for travel undoubtedly would contribute to a greater use for the highways, now that shorter working hours and more leisure time are assured by the national recovery act.

"It is to such organizations as the American Automobile association that we look for leadership in the continuing effort to work out a solution of the accident problem. You are to be congratulated on what you have accomplished in the past and on the broad gauged program you are formulating for the future."

Assails Funds' "Misuse."

Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, Mich., president of the association, declared in his address, which opened the convention today, that misappropriation of highway funds, operation of roadside courts, and lack of unity in national and community planning to check highway accidents were hampering the development of highway transportation.

He said that his investigations reveal that approximately $200,000,000 set aside for road improvements throughout the country each year is being diverted for other purposes.

"This huge sum, which is to all intents and purposes used for political jackpots, would build 10,000 miles of hard surfaced roads," he said.

Deplores "Letdown" of Interest.

Deploring the serious "letdown" of interest in the national safety problem, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club and a first vice president of the association, appealed to leaders to take the initiative in a crusade for better motoring conditions.

He pictured school safety patrols as one of the greatest contributions yet made to child safety and urged the association to continue its leadership in extending the patrol movement.

MOTHER OF TWO KILLS HUSBAND IN 10 YEAR ROW

In a quarrel with her husband, Anthony, 40 years old, Mrs. Sadie Gregory, also 40, shot and killed him yesterday in their home at 4400 South La Salle street. Their children, Theresa, 10, and June, 4, playing in the back yard at the time, heard the fatal shot.

"We've been married 14 years and during 10 years of that time my husband has been drinking and beating me," Mrs. Gregory told stockyards police.

The quarrel started, Mrs. Gregory said, when Gregory accused her of "running a kindergarten" because three neighbor children were playing in the house with the Gregory youngsters. Then, she said, he accused her of going out with other men. Gregory, she charged, later threatened her with a shotgun, and then with a revolver. Finally in a struggle for the revolver Mrs. Gregory seized it and fired one shot, hitting her husband in the chest.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Helen Jepson, the Junoesque lyric soprano of Paul Whiteman's Music Hall program, has been engaged by the Metropolitan Opera company to star in the next opera season beginning Dec. 24. Director Gatti-Casazza declared that the young Pennsylvania soprano is the first feminine star to gain a place with the Metropolitan through radio singing. A year ago Nino Martini, CBS tenor, made the Met through his radio performances.

Miss Jepson will play Nedda in "Pagliacci," the rôle in which she made her debut on the stage when she was a 15 year old high school girl in Akron, O. She will also take the rôles of Violetta in "Traviata," Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet" and Melisande in "Pelleas and Melisande."

Paul Whiteman is establishing a $30,000 fund to provide scholarships for budding musicians. The prizes will be awarded for leadership in musical study, instrumental virtuosity and promise in composition. Whiteman has already done much to create new musical trends as exemplified by the works of George Gershwin, Ferde Grofe, Dana Suesse and others. A committee of outstanding directors will judge the applicants.

If The Dells opens next Friday evening under new management, as is planned, Carlos Molina's rhumba orchestra will provide the music and NBC will outlet it for listeners. Molina was to have followed Charlie Agnew into the Stevens but was released, according to Music corporation officials, for the roadhouse assignment. Art Kassel may follow Agnew at the Boulevard room. . . . The World's Fair Casino, where Ben Bernie, Guy Lombardo and Buddy Rogers held forth last year, will open Wednesday night with Tom Gentry's orchestra playing. Radio outlet is yet to be determined.

"The Romance of Helen Trent," on W-G-N and CBS, and "Just Plain Bill" on W-G-N will fold on July 13. Both shows will be back in the fall. . . . Joe Penner will put his duck in storage for the summer after next Sunday's show. . . . Wendell Hall has turned producer while he is vacationing from his singing program at NBC. He has the Elliott Brothers on the Michigan network in a rural sketch.

Willy Reichert, known as the "Eddie Cantor of Germany," will make his American radio debut over WIND on the Germania hour at 6 o'clock tonight. Reichert is heard twice a month on an hour's program from a Stuttgart station.

Cause of W-G-N's leaving the air Saturday evening at 10:45 was the severe storm which tore loose the aerial, strung between the two 250 towers near Elgin. Station engineers climbed the towers during the electrical storm and replaced the wires. This took several hours so the station was unable to get back on the air with the remainder of its broadcast schedule for that evening.

DIES IN CHAIR FOR KILLING BARBER OVER 50 CENTS

Southern Illinois State Penitentiary, Menard, Ill., June 26 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Warren Little, 25, paid with his life in the electric chair for the slaying last Sept. 13 of Denver Carlton, McLeansboro, Ill., barber, early today.

Before he was seated in the death chair he spoke briefly to the spectators and prison officials present. "I'm sorry that I did this," he said. "Tell them all I'm sorry. Tell them in the name of Jesus."

The body will be sent to McLeansboro for burial.

Carlton was fatally shot the night of Sept. 13 after he had picked up Warren Little and his brother, Karl, 20, near McLeansboro. In a subsequent confession Little was said to have admitted shooting Carlton as the climax to an argument over 50 cents he owed the barber for a haircut.

After shooting Carlton the brothers said they robbed him of about $8 and drove to Alton, Ill., where they were arrested. Karl Little is serving a 25 year sentence.

JAILED ON BURGLARY CHARGE.

Anthony Halm, 23 years old, 1509 Roscoe street, an ex-convict, was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell for attempted burglary yesterday by Judge Howard W. Hayes.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Harbor Point Claims Usual Chicago Group

Trips to Vacation Points Starting Late.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AFTER an unusually strenuous spring and early summer season society is beginning to slip away to favorite summer haunts. That cool, informal spot, Harbor Point, in northern Michigan, is reclaiming most of its habitués, although a few of the old guard are remaining in town. Most of the summer residents, however, are going up later than usual.

The Wheeler, Waller, and O'Brien homes, with their triumvirate of popular young women, one to each house, contribute a great deal to the gayety of the Harbor Point season. Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler has gone up to be at her home over the Fourth of July, but her daughter, Miss Winifred Wheeler, whose engagement to Henry L. McIntyre of St. Louis was announced recently, is not going north for a few weeks. Her cousins, Miss Virginia Waller and Miss Jean O'Brien, will go up over the Fourth and will remain for most of the summer, although Miss O'Brien may go west the middle of July. Her parents are the Howard V. O'Briens of Winnetka.

Miss Waller is out west now, in Colorado, with her brother, William Waller III. Her mother, Mrs. William Waller Jr., and the younger children left for the Point yesterday, where Miss Waller and William and Mr. Waller will join them by the Fourth.

The three lively daughters of the Frank M. Gordons and the Robert W. Hymans' pretty daughter, Jean, always are welcome additions to the Harbor Point colony. The Gordons and their two younger daughters, Miss Marion Gordon and Evelyn, are driving up Friday accompanied by Miss Barbara Eldridge, who will visit them for a fortnight. Miss Eldridge's parents, the Harold Eldridges, are not opening their home at the Point this summer. Miss Isabel Gordon will join the family later on.

Hymans Will Stay Until Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman and Miss Hyman are going up the first to stay until after Labor day. Mrs. Le Roy Kramer is already settled in the Kramer house with her sons, Henry and Le Roy Jr., and her daughter, Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, will go up for a fortnight some time next month.

Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes and her daughter, Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, are driving up today. The Sudlers have taken a cottage near the Barneses' place and will be there until after Labor day. Nelson Barnes Jr. will be there for the entire summer, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Barnes, will probably pay at least one visit to the Point.

Additions to the colony this summer will be the junior Edmund J. Doering family and Miss Frances Whedon and her niece, Miss Frances Jeffery. The Doerings will be settled in the house they have taken, which is situated midway between Roaring Brook and Harbor Point, around July 1. The R. Martin Stevensons [Virginia Doering] are there now, but Miss Nancy Doering, who, like her cousin, Miss Jeffery, will be a debutante in the fall, and her brother, Edmund Doering III., will go up with their parents.

Miss Whedon and her niece will stay at the Harbor Point club until August when they will return to take a house in one of the suburbs for the remainder of the summer. Miss Jeffery will have a ball at the Blackstone on Dec. 26 and a tea in the fall.

George P. Earlings at Oconomowoc.

The former Edna Doering and her husband, George Peck Earling, are settled for the summer with his mother, Mrs. George P. Earling, at her lovely home at Oconomowoc. Mrs. Earling is arriving in town today to spend two days with her family.

Mrs. Frank Pierce is going to the Point Friday. Her son, Frank Jr., will spend the summer with her, and they will have as their house guest over the Fourth an attractive young lady, Miss Mary Jean Curtis, who lives in Grand Rapids. Mrs. Edward L. Hersey and the children are in her home at the Point, and Mr. Hersey is with them over week-ends. It is possible that the whole family will go east for a fortnight in July to visit Mr. Hersey's mother at her home on Cape Cod.

Edward P. Russell and his daughter, Mrs. Russell Christie, will go up to their Harbor Point home by train at the end of this week. His other daughter and her husband, the Robert M. Curtises, will follow them by motor.

Joseph H. Kings Will Go to Charlevoix.

The Joseph H. Kings are leaving tomorrow to spend the rest of the summer at Charlevoix, where for the next ten weeks Mr. King will enjoy his favorite sport of sailing. Mrs. King is going to New York on July 7 to meet their son, John L. King, who lands from Europe on that day. He has been studying famous cathedrals and buildings abroad since last September on a scholarship won while studying architecture at Yale.

The Charles Y. Freemans are settled in their beautiful summer home at Biddeford Pool, Me. Their youngest son, David, will spend the summer with them, but Dodge, who was just graduated from Princeton, is abroad. Charles Jr. and his fiancée, Miss Helen Marie Castle, returned Saturday from a visit there. Miss Castle and her mother and stepfather, the Frederick D. McNallys, will spend the summer here, but Mr. McNally's brother, Andrew McNally, and his family will be at the Thousand Islands as usual.

Mrs. McNally already has gone north with the younger boys, George and Fred. Miss Eleanor McNally will go up on the first and Mr. McNally

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

REXFORD GUY TUGWELL of President Roosevelt's brain trust indicated that he had a sense of humor during luncheon at the Century club yesterday. A news paper cameraman wanted to take his picture and he sent back word that he preferred not to pose. Unabashed by this refusal, the cameraman went upstairs to the luncheon room where Mr. Tugwell was eating with Ulysses Grant Smith and several others.

Apology—

"Where do I have to go to eat to get privacy?" Mr. Tugwell growled when the photog appeared on the scene.

"You see, Mr. Tugwell, we're operating under NRA and this is the day a lot of the help are off," he said. "We're not operating quite as well as we would under normal conditions. That's how the photographer happened to get upstairs to your table."

Mr. Tugwell grinned appreciatively.

TALL, dark, abrupt mannered Leonid M. Tolokonski, consul general to the United States from soviet Russia, spent a couple of days in Chicago last week seeing the Fair, calling on an important Chicagoan or two, and accepting one invitation to dinner. That was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson in Winnetka and was a very small dinner party, with political talk during dinner and afterward. Mr. Tolokonski had a ready answer for the questions put to him and left a highly agreeable impression. His district takes in twenty-two states west of the Atlantic seaboard, and his visit to Chicago a three-fold one, of visiting one of the large cities in his district, seeing the Fair and certain individuals with whom he wished to talk.

THE portrait the Russian artist, Savely Sorine, just completed of Mrs. William H. Mitchell, is exciting considerable admiration. The superb modeling and the distinguished treatment of a beautiful subject combine to make the portrait of great interest. Mrs. Mitchell is wearing a white tennis dress in the picture, and an apple green scarf adds a note of color. The skin tones, the brown hair and brilliant brown eyes, and the cool white make it decidedly interesting as decoration as well as portrait. Framed in a wide silver frame, hanging on a white wall, above a fireplace flanked by pots of white geraniums, the green of their leaves repeating the green of the scarf, it has a perfect setting in the Mitchell home in Lake Forest.

A BOOK to be found these days in the homes of the riding gentry is the book on equitation by Capt. Piero Santini, the distinguished Italian cavalry reserve officer who is in Lake Forest this summer teaching his method of riding. Capt. Santini's book, which is called "Riding Reflections," contains the only description of the Italian forward seat ever written, as heretofore the world famous method of riding has been passed on by word of mouth. At least so we are informed.

Capt. Santini wrote the book while he was recovering from an injury which left him with a slight limp. He does his instructing from the ground. At the horse show at Onwentsia last week it was interesting to note how many of the riders used the forward seat. Capt. Santini says that the proportion of people who still ride cross country and over jumps sitting back and "with the straight leg of the nineties" is daily diminishing and that the much discussed forward seat has come to stay.

* *

HORSE show patrons at Onwentsia had the pleasure of seeing Alexis Wilson, famous American amateur jocky, ride in the ring Saturday. Wilson rode Sea Soldier, the only American horse to cross the Atlantic in 1932 for the Grand National, and even if Sea Soldier, which had just been purchased by a syndicate, three of whose members watched him run at Aintree—Col. Noble Brandon Judah, Wolcott Blair, and the late Donald M. Ryerson—did not win, the experts said he was beautifully handled. Mr. Wilson, who is a personable and engaging young fellow, rides horses for fun, but he sells motor cars for an income. He has an automobile agency near Toronto.

Ruth Owen Meeker, Bryan Granddaughter, Weds Lehman, Banker

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—The minister to Denmark, Ruth Bryan Owen, today announced by cablegram from Copenhagen the Washington marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Owen Meeker, to Robert Lehman of New York, a cousin of Gov. Herbert Lehman.

The couple came to the capital from New York to be married by her friend, Dr. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the house of representatives.

Only immediate relatives of the bridal couple were present. Lehman is a member of the banking firm of Lehman Brothers, New York, and is a director of several corporations. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lehman of New York. An earlier marriage to Mrs. Ruth Rumsey Lehman resulted in divorce.

Mrs. Lehman and William P. Meeker of Baltimore were divorced last November. The bride is a granddaughter of the late William Jennings Bryan.

Society Goes to Arlington Despite Rain

BY GLADYS PERROW.

Cheerfully defying the weather, Chicago society carried its top coats and binoculars up the steps of the Post and Paddock club yesterday for the opening of the gala 30 days' season at Arlington Park. The gay greetings exchanged in the cool foyer of the exclusive club were in sharp contrast to the dull patter of rain and the bark of the amplifier out of doors.

Navy blue ensembles reigned as the favorite garb for the feminine race fans, although a number of the younger fans made up for the somber day by appearing in charming whites and pastels.

Following the many luncheon parties guests and hosts adjourned to the spacious club porch for a better view of the luxuriant green park and —the brown sea of mud their favorites were to traverse. Great was the amusement when "Watersplash" was announced the winner of the first race. Miss Narcissa Swift, wearing a bright green suit, and a cocky little brown hat over her brown curls, was heard to remark that "It's bad luck to win the first race."

Shortly thereafter she gathered her luncheon guests, Mr. and Mrs. Montefiore Stein and Vittorio Liebman at a table on the porch where they fastened their gaze upon scoreboard and horses, eager for subsequent good luck.

Mrs. Walter Peacock and Mrs. James Condon were among the other luncheon hostesses. Their guests included Mrs. Vernon Foster, Mrs. Walter Frost, Mrs. George Mueller, Mrs. George Mathews, Mrs. Rush Butler, Mrs. Paul Gerhardt, Mrs. Cady Jordan, and Mrs. John Campbell.

Leonard Florsheim, the Warren Wrights and Mrs. Roy Carruthers were luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz. Mrs. Hertz was wearing a smart black print with a black silk coat.

Arriving just in time to dodge one of the frequent showers were the two Bradleys, Col. Edward R. Bradley and John Bradley; the Robert Mandels, Mrs. Mandel, looking fresh and charming in a navy and white polka dot redingote; the Otto Lehmanns, Mrs. Lehmann wearing a brown ensemble; Mrs. Austin Niblack in pale blue and navy; Mrs. Clifford Rodman in a striking black and chartreuse print; Simpson Jr. and his wife who wore a cool navy and white crêpe suit; Mrs. Henry Rawley in a stunning light blue and shell pink tweed dress; and Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Simmons.

Young Mrs. John Wentworth and Mrs. William H. Mitchell were seen hurrying here and there about the main stands and the club porch. Mrs. Wentworth chose an entire black ensemble for the day in contrast to Mrs. Mitchell's gay brown, white, and red print. Mrs. Hart Johnson, whose blue eyes would certainly have matched the blue sky if there could have been some, was wearing a mustard Angora sports dress with brown accessories.

A smooth tan, visible on so many prominent Chicagoans yesterday, was extremely becoming to Mrs. Dexter Cummings.

She wore a simple sports suit combination of red, white, and blue. A particularly smart looking young matron was Mrs. Robert J. Graf Jr., in a deep navy blue dress, shoes, and hat contrasted with a soft chartreuse cossack coat.

The Benjamin L. Behr family enjoyed the porch as a point of vantage soon after the first races. Miss Edith Behr was looking charming as usual in a navy blue ensemble. One of the sprightly summer costumes was that worn by young Mrs. John Barnes. A colorful turquoise, white, and black print was covered by a bright turquoise flannel coat, with a matching ribbon on her wide brimmed white hat.

Among Mrs. Thomas Howell's guests for a late luncheon were her daughter, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Carl Leigh, Mrs. Frank Lagorio and her lovely daughter, Carlotta, young Thomas Howell and Mrs. Charles J. Correll. A trimly dressed foursome enjoying the races from the club were Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, wearing a brown print and cream coat, Mrs. George F. McLaughlin, in black and silver foxes, Mrs. John Payne Kellogg in white and green and black plaid, and Mrs. Merrill Hubbard in tan.

New Chiffons, Cottons Await Clever Fingers

They're Perfect Fabrics for Summer Heat.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Ambitious make-your-own shoppers should see the newest cottons and chiffons that have just arrived. Even though these two materials are used for vastly different purposes, they have arrived just in time for any record breaking heat waves that may come.

New cottons feature terry cloth, in some of the most decorative colors and color combines of the year. Rusty brown for beach robes and pajamas, a lovely shade of raspberry red, and an old blue, run right along with dizzy striped effects for popular favor. The stuff is quite wide so the minimum yardage is required.

Look for the red, black, and gray combine, or the stunning three shades of green and yellow, if you want a thrill. Then there is a flat, Italian looking pink that will prove interesting for bronzed brunettes, and scads of clear chalk white, as well as some green tints that will keep you unbelievably cool under the hottest of sun rays.

Jumping from lounging on the beaches to languishing on a summer country club veranda under shimmering moonlight, the new chiffons and filmy sheers will do double duty—as "coolers" and as decorative dance dresses.

Pale moonstone gray, flattering tints of tea rose pink, bonbon yellow, green mauve, white and black, in thin, thin chiffon is striped with inch wide sleek satin. Imagine what dreamy dance dresses these colored stripes will make. Alluring tea and hostess gowns of the same material could easily be fashioned by knowing fingers.

Don't forget all the trick new organzas that are squared, dotted, and striped with velvet. They are the newest of new summer materials, and they do make most distracting summer dress parade creations for the most hard-to-please shopper.

Museum to Hold Preview of Haseltine Sculpture

A special preview of an exhibit of sculpture of British champion domestic animals by Herbert Haseltine will be held for members at the Field museum today. The exhibit, which will have a permanent place in a special hall at the museum, was donated by Marshall Field, a trustee. It will be opened to the public on Thursday.

Open Fall Textile Exhibit Today; Clothes by Chicago Designers

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Kleig lights, microphones, and still and motion picture cameras were focused yesterday afternoon on a bevy of mannequins at headquarters of the Chicago Wholesale Market Council at 371 West Adams street, where rehersal was in progress for the first fashion showing featuring the work of Chicago dress design artists. More than 300 reservations have been received from fabric buyers of the midwest for the three day event, opening tonight with a dinner at the Fred Harvey restaurant at the Union station.

Two showings of the garments entered will be held, one tonight and another on Thursday night. Although this preseasonal display is intended primarily to reveal the textile trends for autumn, and is staged concurrently with similar showings in New York, it incorporates many style tendencies in line and color as well. Materials included represent the new offerings of many of the greatest textile concerns of the country, having either headquarters or branches in Chicago.

"We consider this event most significant of the movement toward unifying the wholesale district of Chicago, and anticipate that it will have a definitly stimulating effect on the market here," Glenn G. Hayes, secretary of the Council and director of the show, said. "It's surprising how many garments and materials usually bought in New York are obtainable here at a great saving in time and transportation."

Presidents of four of the large State street stores will be speakers tomorrow at a merchandising clinic to be held as a major part of the three day program.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Add hair helps; a rich oil that can be used as a dressing or for oil treatments that recondition dry hair to the point where it is soft, flexible, and lustrous. It's sold in Chicago.

Along about fall much weeping and wailing and hurling of hair brushes will usher in the annual desperate attempts to recondition the hair after a couple of months of sun. One of the things sun isn't good for is dry hair, and too much of it is harmful to all types.

We stumbled on something not so long ago that we think is miraculously effective for dry hair. This preparation—a rich blend of oils—is used in a Chicago salon as a reconditioner for hair that has been abused by strong chemicals, peroxide, ammonia, or dyes or hair that has become horribly dried out by too many and perhaps inexpert permanents. In this salon the heavy oil is applied to the full length of the hair structure before permanent waving as a protector and softener.

We found that this professional hair preparation shouldn't be kept a professional secret. If you've dry and brittle hair there are few more useful products to be used by yourself. We've found it almost miraculous in restoring softness and sheen.

Keep it in the ice box in summer so that it's solid and use it as a dressing, putting a bit on your brush or directly to the hair with your fingers. Use it sparingly. The night before your shampoo try this for your oil treatment and see how splendid it is.

It's really what its name implies—a hair reconditioner. If you've had a fuzzy permanent, if you're not up to par physically and your hair reveals it or if you're just one of the thousands of women whose hair is dry, brittle and lacking in luster, this is your dish.

You can buy a bottle in the beauty salon which uses it in its services, and it's worth buying. Use it through the summer and you won't have your usual fall battle to get your hair back in shape. ELEANOR NANGLE.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young singer. She stakes him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for an opportunity of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara sells her car for expense money and gives hair to Jerry. He follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry as Mulligan. He are Jerry are antagonistic. After three days Jerry is fed up with camp life.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

WASTED HOURS.

Jerry got up and shuffled about a bit, made the bunk creak, put his lamp out. His wrist watch gave him midnight. Very late to be awake here. No one but himself would be awake. All the windows of the cabins looked into the front clearing, or on either side. He looked north, Cara looked south, the hunter, Mulligan, had a slip of a room off the main cabin, looking west. At the back, eastward, were the corral, and the Indians' quarters. It was all set out geometrically to a simple design. He squeezed his supple body from his small window and dropped without noise to the mossy ground.

To go round to Cara's window, if he were not to cross the front of the place, and also to avoid the quarters of the light sleeping Indians, and not to arouse the dogs who slept with them mostly when not kenneled, he would have to circle the whole corral. He slipped round it noiselessly and swiftly, keeping to such shadows as cast themselves in his way. And deviously aiming for it, he was at Cara's open window.

Mosquito gauze on a light frame covered it, like all the windows, but the frame was easily pushed open. Now he could see in. He could see her outlined on her narrow bed. He whispered: "Cara."

It was the sort of whisper combined with the sort of circumstances that might rouse a woman from her deepest sleep. Cara roused. He saw her start up on an elbow, and immediately her eyes focused on the window. He said quickly, under his breath: "It's Jerry." And: "Cara, I must speak to you. Can I come in? I promise only for a minute."

She did not answer at once, so he entered.
"Don't be afraid," he said protectingly.

She did not answer at once, so he entered lithely, as easily as he had pushed through his own window, and closed the mosquito shutter. "Don't be afraid," he said protectively, and sat down on her bed. "You're not too sleepy to talk, dear one?" he murmured. He was natural and sweet and gentle, taking her hand and holding it tenderly.

Still she said nothing. She was too surprised. Her mind was already occupied with a flurry of thoughts loud and swift as the beating of birds' wings. "I'm not going to disturb you long," he said, "because I want you to be up before dawn, before the Indians. Will you, Cara? I want our lovely day tomorrow."

"Tomorrow?"

"Please, Cara. Well, tomorrow is today now." Suddenly, he knelt down and laid his head against her breast and felt her heart racing . . . for him. He was her young lover, boyish, ardent, every tone and gesture chivalrous and lovely. "Cara, you've been forgetting me. You've made me so unhappy."

"I never forget you, dear." Her quickened breath was on his cheek.

"How divinely you said that, darling. Cara, you still love me?" "You know I do." "Then—this day by ourselves. We can leave a note saying we'll be back by night. That raw minded brute Mulligan will never let us get away unless we do it like this. He'll hold back the horses—everything."

Strangely enough, she was thinking, very clearly, the same thing.

"Aren't we forgetting, we came away for a honeymoon, Cara? Like this, you break my heart."

She gave a soft cry. It was little to give him—one lovely day.

"Listen," she whispered, taking his face between her hands, "I'll come. Jerry. What time? Three o'clock?"

"Three o'clock, Cara. I'll be out at the back of the corral with Jessie and Buck." He could hardly believe this easy victory over the unknown difficulties he had surmised in her, and he felt crazy for joy.

"Your sleep, Jerry?"

"I don't want sleep. If I can't have it here I won't have it anywhere tonight," he dared, and kissed her.

It was a long kiss, precious and exhausting, and when it was finished and he rose from his knees and left her, closing the mosquito shutter carefully behind him. She lay back on her pillow, all the ecstasies returned.

Tomorrow—no, as he said, it was today. Midnight had passed—they were going off alone to talk, to plan, to love. It was a kind of sacred and splended good-by to all that mattered between them. He was right, justified, for three days they had been here in Mulligan's hands and time beyond price, hours too beautiful to imagine—they must be lived before a woman knew them—were slipping away unfulfilled! Should the whole of this heavenly month slide away in frustration, unsatisfied, hungry, giving no great memories for the hard future?

She thought: "I don't know! I don't know how! But somehow we ought to be, at the time, together. It will never come again."

Two hours went by on wings. The minutes of them were like butterflies, flying now into the shade of fear, now into the sun of joy, never still, restless and seeking and happy.

She couldn't rest any more. She rose and dressed, and slipped as lithely as Jerry out of her window, ran over dew drenched grass over to the far side of the corral where a group of pines made black shade. Under them stood Jerry, with Jessie and Buck. Both horses this time had come to him easily for sugar, and he had slipped their snaffles on without any resistance on their part. Dawn was beginning, and growing, light sky and twilit earth. They kissed each other, heard a dog bay from the Indian huts, mounted quickly, and rode away. Looking back she saw that the pines hid them at once from Mulligan's.

She said: "But which trail are we taking, dear?"

He answered: "My sweet, at last you're leaving that to me."

Cara said to him as they rode and the dawn brightened:

"You've a big saddle pack, Jerry."

"Not too big," he said knowingly.

"We needn't go too far ——"

"Only too far to be found."

"We just want to be happy."

"That's all."

"I'm glad you made me come, Jerry."

"You will be glad."

When the southwest trail had gone as far as she knew it, branching off into two trails, one into the reservation lands and one almost directly south, she asked another question: "Which are we taking?"

"This one," he decided at once, and they turned south.

It was gay out there in the dawn, the horses fresh, jingling their bits, pricking their ears at the morning call of birds, and the rustlings of the forest on either side. They halted for breakfast, and he did everything for her. "I'll show you it's a simple enough thing to be a woodsman," he said. "These fellows like Mulligan and his Indians make the hell of a show. How would they get their money otherwise? But it's just a bluff. I've had my eyes open for the last three days, and I don't think so much of 'em after all." Indeed, he kindled a fire in the most approved fashion in the shortest possible time, laying his wood cleverly, and collecting only flammable stuff. Then he brewed their tea, and set out beef and biscuits and jam. "I'd have done better if it hadn't all had to be so damn silly and secret. The way that fellow treats us isn't as funny as he thinks it is."

Velez Leads Film Pack in Stage Ability

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Lupe Velez, pretty and playful cinema soubrette from south of the Rio Grande, is the chief personality on the current vaudeville program at the Palace theater, appearing in conjunction with a photoplay in which she is featured. She is a gay and attractive young person with a gift for performance before the footlights that is well in advance of the average picture star's "in person" accomplishments.

Señorita Velez sings a song or two, dances a few measures without indulging in Spanish-American hip-shaking, and then dips into her main bag of tricks—impersonation, frankly satirical, of her famous Hollywood sisters. Her subjects are Gloria Swanson, Marlene Dietrich [pure wormwood, this], Dolores Del Rio and Katharine Hepburn. She has an excellent sense of caricature in mimicry, and communicates her stuff without the aid of the microphone that serves most Hollywood stars for a voice.

Lew Hearn, expert Jewish comedian, contributes a comedy sketch that recalls the vanished era of first-class vaudeville when skill and a keen theater sense were normal attributes of variety performers. He appears as the comic victim of a pair of "pull 'em in" ghetto clothing merchants, with Ken Murray, master of ceremonies on the program, as his leading persecutor. Wilbur Hall, a clever trickster with musical instruments, is also an amusing figure in the show.

Margaret Anglin, eminent star of the drama's better days, will come to the Blackstone theater July 9 in the first American staging of Ivor Novello's comedy, "Fresh Fields." This play ran for fourteen months in London season before last, and is still in performance in the English "provinces." The production will be made under the auspices of Leslie Casey and James Liddle, who are now rehersing their company in New York.

The cast will contain Alexandra Carlisle, Josephine Hull, Elaine Temple, Lenore Chippendale, Robert Middlemass, Derek Fairman and Gilbert Douglas. A special performance of a classic Greek drama at the World's Fair is a possibility of Miss Anglin's stay in Chicago.

Halevy's "The Jewess" Will Be Presented in Concert Form

Halevy's "The Jewess" will be presented in concert form at the Standard club following a luncheon at 1 o'clock tomorrow. John Pane-Gasser, tenor of the Chicago Grand Opera company, will be the guest artist. The event is under the auspices of the women's committee of the Ort for Jewish Community day at A Century of Progress on July 29. Mrs. Robert Nathan is in charge of the musical program.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

AN ACTUAL HAND FROM TOURNAMENT PLAY.

The following hand led to varying results and provoked much discussion in a team of four event. North was dealer, neither side vulnerable.

N.
Sp. J 4 2
Ht. 7
Di. K J 9 8
Cl. A K Q 9 2

Cl. 7 6

S.
Sp. None
Ht. 10 9 8 6 3
Di. 5 3 2
Cl. J 10 5 4 3

At some tables North opened the bidding with a club, East overcalled with a spade, and South either passed or helped the clubs. West made a forcing overcall of three hearts, North bid four clubs and East bid four hearts. South naturally bid five clubs, knowing that the contract would not stay in hearts, and West bid five spades. North should pass this, for fear of driving them into a slam; South will have the opportunity to make another move. Whether North passed or bid six clubs, East should, I think, go six spades. His partner overcalled five clubs instead of doubling, and must feel sure that 5-odd can be made, although he does not know that East has the ace of diamonds—his spade overcall may well be based on Sp. Q x x x x, ace of hearts, king-queen or king-jack to four diamonds.

Having both aces and deducing from his partner's force that he must have very strong spades as well as the rest of the high hearts, East should bid the slam. Now South has good reason to go seven clubs and take the penalty of 600, since the clubs cannot possibly go round twice, and every finesse against North will be successful.

One South put in a brilliant "barricade psychic" by bidding three no trumps over East's spade overcall. When this was doubled, he went to five [not four] clubs, hoping to be doubled.

However, West could read the message sufficiently to bid five spades. North thought it would be cheaper to let them play this contract, if they would be content with it, than to drive them to a slam which his partner might have to overcall. Now East passed. The barricade psychic had worked. I think East was extremely unimaginative to pass. Plainly South was in deadly fear of a slam, and West had expressed his opinion that five spades could be made, although he did not know that East controlled the first lead of both red suits.

Another Way of Bidding the Hand.

I think that East should pass North's bid, to await developments. Now South should bid a heart, West a spade, North two clubs and East three diamonds. South probably four clubs, which allows West to bid four hearts, realizing that East's force in diamonds indicates also very strong spade support. East can bid five hearts to show the ace and confirm the slam try, and West cannot miss bidding six spades. Actually the bid is successful only because the diamond finesse works; but in bidding it would appear that East's three losing diamonds would be discarded on West's long hearts, rendering the finesse unnecessary. Actually only two diamonds can be discarded and the finesse must be taken. A good double chance to take, anyway.

The Bidding Under My System.

NORTH	SOUTH
Pass	Pass
Double	2 hearts
3 clubs	5 clubs
Pass x	Pass [?]
Pass	WEST
Pass	Double
Redouble	5 hearts
3 diamonds	Pass
6 spades

It is close whether South should pass, fearing the penalty might be 1,000, or bid seven clubs, not being vulnerable. North, not knowing his partner cannot possibly take any trick, must pass the six spades and hope to set the contract by virtue of his diamond holding, and the chance that declarer, having to draw three rounds of trumps, might not be able to ruff out his heart suit to the bitter end. This hand can be bid in so many ways. Try it on your friends and see how they handle it.

As the "Imperial T," or "T Block," this popular block was evolved from the old and effective nine patch known as "Shoo Fly." Made in two brilliant colors, and combined with white, the completed spread will add cheerfulness and gayety to any bedroom. The blocks measure twelve inches square when completed, and twenty-four pieced and eighteen plain blocks comprise the entire quilt.

Baths Vital to Baby's Health on Torrid Days

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In caring for the baby in summer the first big point is proper feeding. This we covered yesterday.

The second measure for the baby's summer health and happiness is cleanliness.

The chief reason for this is germs. Everything that goes into or on or near your baby must be clean.

The baby's daily bath is a veritable rite—the cleansing soap and water bath once a day every mother knows is an essential. But in addition, the baby's bodily temperature is kept even in hot weather by additional sponges in tepid water, with light dry clothing put on afterwards.

In warm weather creases, big and little, of the baby's body have to be watched to prevent chafing and prickly heat. Careful drying and powdering help. Since a baby's skin is so delicate, patting with soft towels is better than rubbing. And do recognize the danger of powder—first do not let it ever be within the baby's reach, for inhaled powder may be dangerous, even fatal. And second, be careful as you use it not to let it get into his nose, eyes, or mouth.

The next point in cleanliness is in regard to diapers or napkins.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

—Presenting Miss Bette Davis as a WILD WOMAN . . . !

A psychological case, really, is the heroine of this story. She's a thrill hunter who stops at nothing. Her father, a respected and wealthy broker, is in despair over her. Her lovely, level headed half-sister tries to save her from herself—but all to no avail. The urge that drives her on is in her blood.

Not at all innocently she becomes involved with a gang of crooks engaged in huge security stealing operations. This connection results in tragedy for Arlene, newspaper scandal and the kidnaping of Val—who is romantically interested in a young newspaper reporter—and a myriad of melodramatic and mysterious episodes that are depicted with gusto, though in no manner to make vice attractive.

The action is speedy, acting and direction able, and sets, scenery and atmosphere calculated to wring the most from the hectic yarn.

"ALONG CAME SALLY."
Produced by Gaumont British.
Directed by Tim Whelan.
Presented at the World Playhouse.

THE CAST.

Also Leslie Holmes and the Gainsborough chorus.

KIND: English farce comedy with music.

QUALITY: Fair.

ACTING: Passes muster. Cicely Courtneidge, eccentric British comedienne, is a stressful performer whose acting is largely acrobatic. But she has a way with her, knows how to get a song across, and you like her. Players in support are smooth. Her leading man, you'll note, is our own Sam Hardy.

STORY: Bewhiskered plot idea of a revue [night club] in the making. King Kelly, manager of the club, is an ex-American night club owner who has crossed the pond to escape racketeers. They follow him over, try to muscle in, kidnap his star, etc. . . .

DIRECTION: Not bad.

DIALOG: A bit dull, but well enough delivered. Takes some dirty digs at America.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND, MUSIC, ETC.: So so.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Some. Serves to pass an hour you don't know what else to do with.

See you tomorrow.

Sally's Guests Will See Cubs Play Pirates

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Did you write that letter yet?

Which letter? . . . . . for goodness sake, don't tell me you don't know!

We're starting our weekly summer parties, boys and girls, and you're all invited to try to win invitations. Our very first party is going to be swell!

On Thursday, July 5, I'm going to take 50 boys and 50 girls out to Wrigley field to see the game between the Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates, and as they're both in the first division of the National league, and fighting hard to advance their respective positions, it should be a pretty thrilling show.

Pittsburgh has a new manager, you know [he's got such a funny nickname—it's "Pie."]. His last name is Traynor, and he is said to be awfully well liked and a smart baseball man.

If you want to actually see all your baseball heroes on the home team at work, just write me a letter and tell me about it. Tell me why you want to come, and if I think from your letter that you will really enjoy the party, maybe your name will be listed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE as one of my guests.

In order to be eligible you must have your name, address, and age on your note, and you must write your own letter—no fair having your mother or father do it for you! You don't have to worry especially about having the lines just straight and the commas stuck in at the right places. I don't care about that. I just want to know why you want to come.

All letters will be read and the selection of them made on Thursday—that's day after tomorrow—so'd you just better get out your pen or pencil or crayon or whatever you like best to write with, and tell me all about your baseball ideas.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—Greta Garbo, from all indications, will appear in a stage play. . . . And it will be on a stage in Sweden. . . . Here are all the indications: Garbo always had a desire to be in a play. . . . When abroad last she discussed this with Mrs. Pauling Brumus, Swedish writer and producer. . . . Then Garbo had her present Metro contract to fulfill. . . . "The Painted Veil" will complete that contract. . . . Mrs. Brumus is now in Hollywood discussing the theatrical venture with Garbo and she seems more willing than ever.

After the preview of Grace Moore's excellent flicker, "One Night of Love," Gloria Swanson left Miss Moore and hurried to a limousine, the door of which was held open by Herbert Marshall. . . . Allen Jenkins and Lonnie D'Orsay, the director, had a Baer-Carnera. . . . A visitor on the set meeting Gladys George, the Broadway actress making her flicker début, said: "You're a regular person. You're not a picture star." . . . "You're telling me," quickly answered Miss George.

Francis Lederer, now at Paramount, insisted on an office in the writer's buildings instead of a dressing room. . . . His contract also calls for him to have his say over everything, including the props. . . . Jack Durant is now trying to impress Joan Marsh. . . . Seymour Felix started rehersing a dance number Wednesday. . . . That afternoon the supervisor of the flicker went to him and told him to be ready to shoot the number on Saturday. . . . Felix protested: "I can't shoot it so soon. It will take the girls a week to reherse. They have some big steps to learn." . . . "I don't care," said the supervisor. "Teach them little steps and shoot it Saturday."

Teen Age Girls Should Not Use Aids for Women

Strong Astringents Aren't for Young Skins.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I wish you girls in your 'teens wouldn't try to imitate mom in every dressing table detail. For instance, mom is within her rights in using astringents, but you girls in the 'teens don't need them, and on the confidential word of beauticians selling astringents they are not recommended for young girl use.

I ran into a beautiful young miss the other day and found on inquiry that she is using the same astringent her mother does. Which naturally is not one of the milder forms. Usually the older woman uses double strength astringents and it is just too bad if the young girl helps herself to any of it.

If you feel you just have to buy something at the cosmetic counter let it be powder or rouge or cleansing creams or something of this sort that will wash off and have no drying effect on the skin. The astringents have that quality often.

But it was of the quality of the young girl skin I set out to speak. How ravishingly lovely it is when it is clear and free of blemish. The young miss of whom I speak above just has everything in the way of complexion, softness, warmth of tone, clarity, and fine texture.

Young girls hear so much conversation about complexion care they're apt to go to extremes, when all they really need is a good cleansing cream, a cake of good soap, clean wash cloths for every washing, tissues for removing the cleansing cream, and a lot of cold water. The latter is their perfect astringent. Astringent it is although it does not cost a nickel. Baths, of course, play an important part in the beauty of complexion, particularly the young girl's. If she can get the cold shower habit and keep it up winter and summer, I'll guarantee the maximum of complexion beauty for her on into the late years. This is what sets the blood to stirring richly in the veins and what contributes to clean pores in the face as well as the body. What I want to emphasize is the greater need of a warm, sudsy bath a day, with the cold shower following, for the young girl, then the use of cosmetics.

Acting Offers Annoy Chinese Movie Photog

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—James Wong Howe, Chinese cameraman, is having a hard time dodging assignments to turn actor.

George Hill, recently back from China with background and atmosphere shots for "The Good Earth," wanted to shoot screen tests of Jimmy for one of the principals in the Pearl Buck story.

While Jimmy, who got his upbringing and education in this country, was trying to talk himself out of that assignment, Richard Boleslavsky, another director friend, demanded that Jimmy play the Chinese physician in "The Painted Veil," Greta Garbo's next movie.

"I don't want to; I'm afraid," Jimmy said. "I have no business getting on the wrong side of the camera." Any way, Jimmy probably will find himself an actor; those things have a way of happening. As a cameraman, he rates as one of the best in the business; his most recent productions were "Hollywood Party" and "Stamboul Quest."

John Wexley, playwright who did "The Lost Mile," is signed to do an original horror story for Columbia, which intends to use it for Boris Karloff or Peter Lorre. Lorre is a European actor and is due here in three weeks.

One of the articles her fiancé, Bob Richie, brought from Europe that pleased Jeanette MacDonald most was a photograph of Franz Lehar, taken when a boy, and autographed by the composer last month.

Simple Sauces Are Glamorous on Fish Dishes

They Provide Overtones of Marvelous Flavor.

BY MARY MEADE.

Whether papa catches them with a hook or a fly, or a kitchen skimmer, it's long odds that he'll come prancing in some night, just when the roast is getting nicely brown in the oven, and announce triumphantly it's fish you're having for dinner. Whereupon, if you are a well mannered wife with a sense of humor, you will chill the roast for slices tomorrow, and set about the business of fish.

If, likewise, you are wise in the ways of sauces, long ago you will have discovered the importance of coaxing forth all the bland, delicate overtones of flavor with just the appropriate accompanying sauce or stuffing. Nothing elaborate, you know, such as our great greats of the seventeenth century used to struggle over when they concocted such a recipe as this:

"Take a little boiling fish liquor and a little white wine, a sprig, more or less, of large mace, lemon peel, shelot, anchovies, and a clove or two, and boil them together. Then put in your butter, and let it just boil up very quick; and having placed sippets on your dish and your fish on the sippets, pour on your sauce, garnish with prawns, stewed oysters, and horse radish."

Instead, we know very simple ways nowadays of flattering fishes. One is to bake them and serve them with tartar sauce. Other baked fishes prefer being blanketed with a mustard creation. First, introducing—

BAKED FISH WITH TARTAR SAUCE.

Wash and dry the cleaned trout or other fish carefully. Sprinkle the surfaces with salt and dredge lightly with flour. Place in a greased baking dish and lay 6 strips of bacon over the top. Pour around the fish ½ cup of water. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for about 60 minutes, basting frequently with a blend of 1 tablespoon of butter and 1 cup of hot water. And for a time saving tartar sauce, simply blend ¾ cup of pickle sandwich spread with 1-3 cup of mayonnaise.

BAKED FISH WITH MUSTARD SAUCE.

For 6 servings, you will need about 1½ pounds of fillet of haddock or other fish. Cut it into pieces for serving and season sparingly with salt and pepper. Place in a shallow, well greased baking pan. Now prepare the sauce. It calls for 1 tablespoon of flour blended with 1 tablespoon of melted butter. Stir in slowy 1 cup of hot water, 1 tablespoon of prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon of lemon juice. Cook with constant stirring until the sauce is thickened. Pour over the fish in its pan and sprinkle with ½ cup of dried bread crums blended with 1½ tablespoons of butter. Bake in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] for 20 minutes.

Then a quick trick, which even the most particular fishes appreciate, is tomato sauce. It's done with the aid of a can opener, a container of cream of tomato soup, and a little flour. Heat the soup, stir in enough blended flour and water mixture the give the proper thickness when simmered, and serve over stuffed baked white fish or haddock. Or another tomato sauce turns up with a still greater nip and tingle in it.

TOMATO SAUCE FOR BAKED STUFFED FISH.

2 tablespoons flour.
Dashes of pepper and paprika.
½ teaspoon salt.
5 drops onion juice.
1 cup milk.
1-3 cup tomato catsup.

Blend the flour with the melted butter and stir in the seasonings and milk. Cook in a double boiler until thick, then stir in the tomato catsup and serve.

Harbor Point Claims Usual Chicago Group

will be there for the Fourth. The family will return after Labor day.

Another well known Chicago family that summers at the Thousand Islands is the Frank O. Lowden one. Mr. and Mrs. Lowden are going north in July.

The Rosencrans Baldwins have taken a cottage at Murray Bay in Quebec for the summer, and the James B. Forgan family is going to Desbarats on July 1.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham already is at her summer place in the Keene valley, a beautiful spot in the Adirondacks, to remain until autumn.

John Jay Bryants Will Go East.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jay Bryant and their attractive young daughter, Anne, who won't be making a debut for at least two more years, are planning to leave their Wheaton home and go east for August. They think they will go to Jamestown, R. I., where they have been for several years and then take a motor trip to Canada.

Mrs. Edward F. Swift and her son-in-law and daughter and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry and Annie May Henry left Sunday for New York to sail today for a North Cape cruise.

The bug which infects one with the desire to become a commuter has bitten the young Arthur Farwells and they are planning to join the year 'round colony in Geneva. They have bought the Charles A. Browns' house on River street and they will move sometime this summer or in the early fall. The house is one of the loveliest in Geneva and is noted for its gardens, especially a rock one. The Browns have moved to California.

A wire from Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick from Bar Horbor sets Sept. 8 as the date for the marriage of her daughter, Patty, to H. Warren Buckler Jr. of Baltimore. The wedding is to take place in Bar Harbor, where both families have summer homes and where Eleanor McCormick and Sargent Collier are being married on Saturday of this week.

If it is pleasant tonight Dr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Pollock will entertain the members of the Italy America society, whom they have invited to hear Mrs. Mary E. Raiola of Naples lecture on "Pompeii and the New Excavations," on the roof garden of their State parkway home, instead of indoors. Mrs. Raiola's lecture will be illustrated.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Cordell Hull presided at the luncheon given by the governing board of the Pan-American Union for the president-elect of Colombia, Señor Alfonso Lopez. The company included the members of the board, members of the visitors' party, and the Colombia legation staf. This afternoon Mrs. Hull entertained Señora de Lopez at tea.

The ambassador of Germany, Herr Hans Luther, has sailed to spend the summer in his native country.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 25.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Davison and their three sons, who have been at Appledore, Oyster Bay, have gone to their ranch near Entrance, Alberta, for the remainder of the summer. With them are Mr. Davison's sister, Mrs. Ward Chemey, and her two daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Marshall of Woodmere will sail on the Berengaria on July 5 for a two months' motor trip through England and Scotland.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Silk alpaca is making good as a smart material in Paris this summer. It is so cool, so impervious to wrinkles, and it looks so beautiful in its new, soft and sheer incarnation, women love it, particularly for the suits that are worn here even in the hottest weather.

Marcel Rochas made a whole group of alpaca suits in his midseason collection, usually combining plain and plaid alpaca. His youthful and extra chic clientele have each got one of these suits and are wearing them wherever fashionable folks go this season.

The illustration shows one of the most attractive of these Rochas plaid and plain silk alpaca suits. It has the Rochas cutaway skirt that dips from the center front like a cutaway coat at the hem. This skirt is made of black alpaca, and it is trimmed with narrow plaited ruffles down the front and around the bottom. The jacket of black and red and white plaid silk alpaca is also trimmed with narrow plaited ruffles all around the closing and the neck and bottom. The three-quarters length sleeves have big cuffs that are also bordered with plaited ruffles.

BRITISH PREMIER HONORS MOTHER OF ROOSEVELT

MacDonald and Daughter Hosts at Luncheon.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—The deadlock in the Anglo-American naval conversations was loosened today under the influence of food, wine, and good society.

Prime Minister MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, were hosts at a luncheon at No. 10 Downing street at which Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of President Roosevelt, and the American naval delegates and their wives were guests of honor.

MacDonald also invited Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer; Sir John Simon, foreign secretary; Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty; Sir A. Ernle M. Chatfield, first sea lord; Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary of the cabinet: Earl Elgin, and J. H. Thomas, secretary of dominions, and their wives.

May Resume Talk Today.

After the luncheon it was stated that the Anglo-American conversations might be resumed tomorrow or Wednesday with the understanding that the two nations might as well talk things over because no agreement can be reached before France and Italy settle their naval controversy.

The news from France is pessimistic. It is said that Francois Pietri, French minister of marine, says he will never agree to German equality while the Italians are reported to be insisting that Germany be given at least something like a fair deal. Moreover, France is upset about Italy's declared intention to lay down two 35,000 ton battleships, and is likely to insist on a navy equal to the Italian and German combined.

On the military side of the European arms situation the results of the visit of Gen. Maxime Weygand, commandant of the French armies, in Britain, which he spent at Aldershot in company with the chief of the British general staf, are interesting.

Claims Nazis Ready for War.

He laid before the British what he claimed was evidence of a detailed German plan for swift rearmament of Germany by Italian munitions firms in the event of war.

He also showed them what purported to be evidence that the so-called concentration camps of the Nazis are not punishment camps at all, but training camps for soldiers and are filled with engineers who are construting fortifications.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

Corn Shows Class.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.
June 25, 1934.

SPECIAL strains of corn planted on THE TRIBUNE Experimental farm already are showing their superior qualities in resisting the various handicaps resulting from dry weather, insects and disease.

"What corn!"

That remark is commonly made by visitors at the farm as they pass the plots where these special strains are growing. Average plants on these plots are now approximately 40 inches high. Plants in a nearby field of 90 day yellow Dent average about 29 inches from the ground to the tips of the longest leaves. The special strains are a third taller. The test plots were planted on May 14, while the large field was planted only two days later.

There are approximately forty acres of corn in the various test plots. The careful records being kept will make it possible to determine how these special strains compare with the 203 acres of corn in the main fields. The records of the test corn will be kept at the information house on the farm by Paul Sleezer, guide, who will assist Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, in making daily observations.

From time to time special inspections will be made by Dr. Earl G. Sieveking and Dr. J. R. Holbert, crop specialists of the Funk farms near Bloomington, Ill. They plan to make their first inspection within the next two weeks.

Dr. Holbert says they are eager to see the plots after the adult chinch bugs begin to fly and to lay eggs on the corn. "We are very anxious," he explained, "to determine whether or not they make any choice in the strains of corn and whether or not some strains appear to have repellant properties.

"Last year we thought we observed some very significant differences. The procurement of accurate data on this problem is a rather difficult undertaking. According to the present predictions, the peak flight will take place during the very last of June and the first ten days in July.

"It is during this time that I should like to inspect the corn plot on THE TRIBUNE Farm. The comparative resistance of different strains, however, will not be evident until the middle of September, and later."

At the time the corn is inspected these two experts will make careful observations of the rare crops that are being grown on the farm. Dr. Sieveking has been responsible for collecting the seed and much of the information on the experimental crops other than corn that are being grown on THE TRIBUNE Farm.

The ground has been so dry where the rare crop seeds were planted that the stand is poor in a few of the rows. Dr. Sieveking says that replantings can be made even this late in some cases, or new crops may be planted where some of the rare crops have apparently failed.

General observations of the test plots made today reveal that the superior corn, put in about the time the main fields were planted, is living up to its reputation. The special test corn is much taller than plants in the main fields. This is true of all of the test corn growing immediately across the road from Clarence's home.

FRANCE EXPELS AMERICAN YOUTH, FOE OF FASCISM

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 25.—Patrick Connolly Waldberg, 21 year old American, who has been an active anti-Fascist agitator in France since the February riots, has been given until tomorrow to leave the country.

Arrested without explanation and held incommunicado for two days, Waldberg was served with the expulsion order immediately following his release.

Blames Agitation for Action.

The case apparently is regarded with considerable importance since the expulsion order was given directly by the ministry of interior. Although given no explanation of his expulsion, Waldberg believes it is directly due to his anti-Fascist activities. Although the American embassy has been informed of the affair, Waldberg for some reason refuses to make a formal plea and apparently will get no help from that quarter.

Waldberg is secretary of the "common front," the left coalition organized by former Deuty Gaston Bergery to fight fascism. Although still loosely organized, this body has been behind frequent attempts in recent weeks to break up meetings of right wing elements in various parts of France, invariably causing riots.

Formerly a Communist.

Despite his youth, Waldberg has had a career of several years writing editorials for left papers. At present he is one of the editors of the Common Front organ. He was formerly a communist, but was expelled from the party here last year.

He is a native of Santa Monica, Cal., and was educated in France. He faced expulsion last February when he was arrested during the rioting, but he was able to obtain his release and was allowed to remain in France. Shortly afterward he joined Bergery in organizing the anti-Fascist group

FOES OF FASCISM FIGHT RIGHTISTS IN PARIS RIOTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 25.—Several hundred members of the anti-Fascist "common front" clashed with nationalists here tonight. At the same time, a mob of left sympathizers fought police at the naval base of Lorient.

Repeated charges by the police of Lorient failed to disperse the mob. Two persons were injured as the crowd, hurling stones and bottles, tried to wreck a rightist newspaper. With the arrival of police reinforcements the rioters were scattered.

The riots in Paris occurred when about 4,000 of anti-Fascists emerged from a meeting at the Salle Wigram. The first clash with the nationalists broke out in a café. It was badly damaged in the fight in which chairs, tables, and beer glasses were used as weapons.

Another clash occurred at the Arc de Triomphe when left extremists laid seige to a subway station. Twenty were injured.

GRAFT CHARGES REPLY TO SUIT TO GET PENSION

Ex-Official Quizzed on $465,666.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Charges that James J. Browne, former park commissioner in Brooklyn, had failed to account properly for $465,666 contained in his bank accounts were made today. They were filed by Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanshard with Supreme Court Justice James J. Dunne in Brooklyn to support an affidavit opposing Browne's application for an order of mandamus compelling the city to pay him an annual pension of $2,663.

Blanchard charged Browne had made bank deposits of $1,071,713.89 between 1920 and 1934 in 9 accounts, 4 in Browne's name and 5 in the name of Catherine L. Browne.

Costly Club Called Unsafe.

Blanshard charged Browne was guilty of culpable negligence and waste in permitting construction of the Dyker Beach Gold clubhouse, built at a cost of $1,500,000. It has been condemned as defective and dangerous to life and limb. The piles, Blanshard said, were improperly set and many of them were not under the club foundation. Various other charges were also listed.

Sues to Get Pension.

Fixation of Browne's retirement allowance was held up by the board of estimate after Blanshard had begun an investigation. Browne then brought suit for pension.

The Blanshard affidavit asserted that Joseph A. Donnelly, a friend of Browne's, received a permit for construction of a temporary structure in Leif Erikson park for a refreshment stand. Donnelly was to pay the city only $10 annual rental.

"Used Relief Cash, Labor."

Browne, the affidavit continued, "authorized construction of an ornate log cabin with city owned material, surreptitiously purchased for emergency relief purposes and clandestinely diverted from relief purposes." Mr. Blanshard added that Browne "authorized the use of CWA labor on that job."

Blanshard said further that the city was put to an expense of $30,000 for construction of a building which originally was planned to cost only a few hundred dollars. Donnelly since has been ordered to vacate the "ornate structure," which was built despite the protests of the architect, the late Julian V. Buigevin, and the city has taken steps to demolish it.

ONTARIO INTENDS TO "STARVE OUT" THE KING'S AGENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 25.—Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario's 37 year old premier elect, intends to "starve out" the king's representative in the province of Ontario.

Hepburn today expressed the wish Lieut. Gov. Herbert A. Bruce would resign and thus save $30,000 to $40,000 a year for the upkeep of his official residence. Lieut. Gov. Bruce declared he has "nothing to say" on the subject.

The dominion government pays provincial lieutenant governors $10,000 a year, but the provincial governments pay for the upkeep of the official residence. Premier Elect Hepburn has announced he will cut off the lieutenant government's living expenses if he does not resign.

WED FOR 43 YEARS, BATAVIA BANKER DIVORCED BY WIFE

Mrs. Julia Windsor was granted a divorce yesterday from Herbert T. Windsor, president of the Batavia National bank, by Judge Frank W. Shepherd in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva on the grounds of desertion. The Windsors had been married for forty-three years.

The decree was granted after Mrs. Windsor had filed a supplemental bill with the desertion charge. On last Feb. 7 she had filed a bill charging her husband with unfaithfulness and naming one "Jessie Doe."

That bill also asked an accounting of a $200,000 estate which Mrs. Windsor inherited from her mother and of which Mr. Windsor had control. However, after the filing of the supplemental bill both these matters were dropped, apparently by agreement.

ARLINGTON PARK OPENS; INDIAN RUNNER WINS

LONDOS RISES TRIUMPHANT IN HIS HOUR OF PAIN

Browning Lasts an Extra 10 Minutes.

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Jimmy Londos, idol of the Greeks, came back to the heavyweight wrestling throne amid some of the finest groaning, gurgling, and cackling in years as he downed burly Jim Browning, recognized as champion in New York, in 1 hour 10 minutes and 10 seconds tonight before a crowd of 20,000.

JIM LONDOS.

The world series of wrestling, a match that has been in the making four years, wasn't the financial success expected, as it lured only $40,000 into Jack Curley's treasury, but it was an artistic success from start to finish.

It opened with the usual grimaces and strutting, pulling of faces, and cuffing. And it ended as all blood tingling matches should end—in the old reliable triumph of virtue against all but insurmountable odds.

Browning Tortures Greek.

Just before the finish Browning, 233½ pounds of brawny farmer boy from Verona, Mo., was submitting the handsome Greek veteran to all the mayhem that even the wrestling ring will stand. He caught Londos, weighing only 195½ pounds and standing 5 feet 8 inches, a little fellow by comparison, in a torturous leg split, then a body scissors, and finally trapped him in the hold that won the title here from Strangler Ed Lewis two years ago—the celebrated airplane whirl.

Londos, looking as though he'd just slipped the shackles on an old fashioned Spanish inquisition rack, finally rolled under the ropes and got away. His limbs appeared numb from punishment. His pants were torn.

Get Your Hats, Boys.

He walked about the ring to get the circulation back in his legs, braced himself, threw back his head and gulped in great draughts of air. The will to do or die was written all over his classic features as he turned and faced his tormentor. The veteran spectators who had seen most of this in the past reached for their hats.

Sure enough, Londos hurled himself across the ring, picked Browning up in a crotch hold and smashed him head first to the canvas covered scaffold. Browning lay there dazed, and groaning. Londos picked Browning up again, slammed him down, and then kept doing that until it looked as if he would wear himself completely out.

Well, Well, Virtue Triumphs!

Then, with the crowd howling frantically, he picked Browning up for the last time and hurled him down again with a crotch hold and body slam and flattened his numb shoulders with a double arm hold. Referee George Bothner peered in there for a sign of light, found none, and lifted Londos' arm, living symbol once more of virtue triumphant.

Tonight's thrilling climax brought to a close the wrestling war that has been going on here for five years and finally cut the number of title claimers to one—Londos.

Londos first won his title claims by defeating Dick Shikat, winner of the Pennsylvania heavyweight title tournament in 1929. But he wouldn't wrestle Stranger Ed Lewis for the title in New York, so the local commission dethroned him and accepted Browning when the latter defeated Lewis. In the meantime other title claimants, such as Gus Sonnenberg and Don George, have come into the fold and relinquished their claims.

Marshall Throws Coleman.

In a preliminary match Everett Marshall of California, 214, threw Abe Coleman of New York, 205, with an arm and body slam in 6 minutes 8 seconds. George Zaharias of Greece, 233, and Hans Kampfer of Germany, 218, went 15 minutes to a draw. Dick Shikat of Germany, 221, won a 15 minute decision over Mahmout Youssouf of Turkey, 207.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

ELMER LAYDEN, athletic director and football coach at Notre Dame, will confer with officials of the University of California regarding a gridiron series before he leaves Los Angeles. . . . Notre Dame is under contract to Southern California through the season of 1936, but there is a possibility it may carry both California and Southern California for a year or two and then discontinue the series with the Trojans. . . . This was attempted a couple of years ago but fell through because of a conflict in dates. . . . One hundred and twenty-five guests assembled at a municipal banquet in Saginaw, Mich., the other night to pay tribute to Willis Ward, Michigan's great colored track athlete. . . . Ward forgot to show up. . . John D. Shibe, vice president of the Athletics, has become such an outboard motor enthusiast that he predicts the national regatta on the Schuylkill river in September will draw more than the world series. . . .

Art Meier Jr., son of the old Pittsburgh ball player who was a teammate of Honus Wagner, was graduated from West Point with the 1934 class. . . . His father runs a bowling alley and billiard parlor on the north side. . . . The older Meier played baseball at Princeton before joining the Pirates. . . . Gypsies had their own celebration at the last Epsom Downs Derby. . . . Gypsy Lee many years ago predicted no horse with a "w" in its name would win in her lifetime. . . . She died in April and Windsor Lad came down the winner. . . . Blue Gown was the last Derby winner with a "w" in its name. . . . That was 66 years ago. . . . George Holden, who has tried several times to win a Golden Glove, plans to box professionally in the fall. . . . Ted Kleinhans, Cincinnati pitcher, studied for the ministry at the Fort Wayne Lutheran Theological seminary. . . .

Reggie McNamara has competed in 106 six day bike races. . . He started 28 years ago. . . . New York university last week graduated its most widely known athlete, Miss Lisa Lindstrom, international swimmer and record holder. . . . The committee selected by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association to assemble the ballots on players to take part in the All Star game July 10 says that at least five playing managers will be in the cast. . . . These include Jimmy Dykes, Bill Terry, Pie Traynor, Frankie Frisch, and Joe Cronin. . . . Mickey Cochrane has been running surprisingly weak at the polls. . . . Floyd Fitzsimmons is booking a tour for Referee Jack Dempsey through the middle west. . . .

Ed Lewis says the reasons wrestlers last much longer at their trade than boxers is because there is little strain on vital organs on the mat. . . Wrestlers are not required to absorb hard punches under the heart, on the head, kidneys, and liver, he states. . . . The great sprint field in the national intercollegiates will be augmented in the National A. A. U. meet this week-end at Milwaukee by Jesse Owens, Ohio State's colored freshman; George Anderson, California yearling, and others who were ineligible for the event at Los Angeles. . . . There are no comeback players—men who have been sent to other major league clubs and then repurchased—on the Cubs or Sox. . . . This year's round trip travelers include Bob Seeds, back with Cleveland after sojourns with the White Sox and Red Sox, and George Davis, who has returned to the Phillies after stopovers with the Giants and Cardinals. . . .

Don't make the mistake of calling Don Hurst of the Cubs Donald. . . . That Don stands for O'Donnell and is preceded in his official signature by Frank. . . Randy Moore, now a regular with the Braves, played six games as a White Sox in 1927. . . . He was up 15 times and his batting average was .000. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Five Americans qualified in the British open. . . . The St. Louis Browns knocked the Detroit Tigers out of first place by beating them twice. . . . Washington moved into first place by beating the Yankees, 4 to 3. . . . Babe Ruth hit his eighteenth home run. . . . The United States Olympic team arrived in France. . . . Umpire Ducky Holmes of the American league was slugged by irate St. Louis fans as he was leaving the park.

Sox Go Collegiate, But They Lose to Yanks, 13-2, Anyway

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The unfortunate White Sox today set down another sad chapter in their morose memoirs, "Fourteen Years in the Second Division." They absorbed their 14th licking of the current road trip, losing to the New York Yankees, 13 to 2.

On the theory that they might be better and certainly as good as his so-called regulars, Manager Jimmy Dykes shoved in his collegian battery in the seventh innning. Harry Kinzy, late of Texas Christian, did the pitching and Dutch Fehring, 1933 football captain at Purdue, did the catching.

Collegians In Debut.

Kinzy was brusied for a homer by Earl Combs to start the eighth, but the pair later had the satisfaction of coöperating in a nice play to get Gehrig at the plate when he tried to score a home run on a drive inside the park. Lou was out, Simmons to Chamberlin to Kinzy to Fehring.

The collegian note also was injected by the Yankees. Johnny Broaca, late of Yale, pitched all the way for the New Yorkers. He was a good pitcher, but struck out five straight times, possibly in sympathy for the Sox.

Gehrig took a ticket on everything in the Yank's 18 hit attack. He struck out once and had a single, double, triple, and a homer, the homer being his No. 19 of the season.

Sox Get Lead.

The Sox made a run in the first inning and held the lead until there were two out in the Yankees' half of the inning. After Uhalt had been called out on strikes Haas tripled to right center and scored on Simmons' tap to Heffner. Saltzgaver then threw out Bonura.

Earnshaw walked Saltzgaver with one out in the Yankees' half. Chapman supplied the second out with a foul to Bonura, then Gehrig stepped up and smacked Earnshaw's first pitch for that No. 19, scoring behind Saltzgaver. Chamberlin threw out Hoag.

Boken's well known inability to play second base resulted in the production of the Yanks' third run in the second inning. With one out Crossetti singled to left and Heffner walked. Broaca fanned, then Combs hit a grounder which called for Boken to move three feet to his left. Bob could negotiate but two feet, so it went for a single, Crossetti scoring. Saltzgaver

COTTON'S RECORD 66 LEADS FIELD IN BRITISH OPEN

Americans Trail by Nine Strokes.

SANDWICH, England, June 25.—(AP)—The four invaders from the United States today yielded honors in the first half of the 36 hole qualifying round for the British open golf tournament to tall Henry Cotton, a native pro. Cotton burned up the Royal St. George's course with a record breaking 66 to run up a four stroke lead on the field of 300. The 72 hole tournament proper begins Wednesday over St. George's.

Nine shots behind Cotton came Gene Sarazen, winner in 1932, and the bookmakers' favorite, Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot artist, and MacDonald Smith, the transplanted Scot now living in Nashville, Tenn., all with 75s, which observers calculated would put them safely within the qualifying limit.

144 May Qualify.

Denny Shute of Philadelphia, who won the title last year after a playoff with Craig Wood, and Robert Sweeney, a New Yorker attending Oxford, posted 76s, which also figured to get them by the first obstacle.

The first day's scores carded over the Royal Cinque Ports course in nearby Deal and at St. George's indicated that a pair of 77s would suffice. One hundred and eight players out of the record qualifying field of more than 300 shot 77 or better.

Cotton, the tall former Ryder Cup player, was out in 31 and home in 35 to shatter the previous record of 69 held jointly by two amateurs, Douglas Grant, a former Californian now living in London, and Eric Smith of Great Britain.

Two Tie for Second.

Cotton's great round gave the Briton a four stroke lead on his closest pursuers—D. H. R. Martin, a native amateur, and C. W. Thomson, a British pro, who posted 70s—and stamped him as England's chief hope to recapture the crown which has been won by Americans for the last decade.

There was nothing flukey about Cotton's 66. He had shot St. George's 11 times under 74 during the last week.

Cotton, however, had the benefit of ideal conditions. He was among the early starters and escaped a strong sea wind that swept the course shortly before noon.

Six were tied with 71s, Angel la Torre of Madrid, five times former Spanish open champion; S. B. Roberts, a British amateur; Cecil Denny, Aubrey Boomer, John Burton, former north of England titleholder, and Bert Gadd.

Yanks Take It Easy.

Syd Easterbrook of Bristol and Harry Padgham of Bromley, who with Cotton are regarded by British experts as having the best chance of breaking up America's monopoly on the title, and Percy Alliss had 74s.

Sarazen, Kirkwood, and Smith, who are held as an even bet against the field, made no particular efforts to shoot low scores. Sarazen and Smith at Royal Cinque and Kirkwood at St. George's, played almost casually, causing a spectator following Kirkwood to remark:

"Cotton and the others will throw their weight about today and tomorrow, but watch these Americans when they start shooting for keeps."

Shute Has Trouble.

Galleryites who followed Shute, however, gave the Philadelphian no more than an outside chance of repeating his triumph of 1933. He had all manner of trouble, particularly with his wood shots.

The other trio of American professionals charged up their scores to the fast and tricky greens. They all indulged in three-putting, Sarazen partaking of this costly luxury six times. Kirkwood had to roll up his trousers to wade in a muddy creek to play a recovery shot at the 14th, where he took a 6.

Politics to Keep Guest Out of East-West Game

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The eastern team which meets a side from the west in a renewal of intersectional polo rivalry this summer will be without the services of Winston Guest, eight goal Long Island player, the United States Polo association announced today. Guest recently launched into politics as a candidate for the New York state senate.

WHAT'S A LITTLE MUD TO A WINNER?

Stuhley and Dundee Meet in Mills Ring

Vince Dundee, world middleweight boxing champion, will meet Hayden [Young] Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., in a 10 round nontitle bout tonight at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick avenue and Lake street. Promoter Billy Cepak has arranged five supporting matches, one at eight rounds, one at six and three at four.

The Dundee-Stuhley contest may develop into one of the best in Chicago this year. Stuhley, who will receive only 10 per cent of the net gate receipts, is confident of winning. He is expected to extend the champion to the limit. A triumph will enable him to obtain bigger purses from future encounters, with a title match in the offing.

Dundee hopes to keep clean his record since winning the title from Lou Brouillard last October. He whipped Ben Jeby at the Stadium in an overweight battle Feb. 16. Other victims are Joe Kaminski, Al McCoy, and Al Diamond. The bout with Diamond was in defense of the crown.

Preliminary matches:
Adolph Wister vs. Jess Akers, heavyweights [6].
Al Soukop vs. Gene Connolly, 130 [4].
Billy Breedlove vs. Johnny Gould, 135 [4].
Frank Genovese vs. Booseveit Raines, 145 [4].

RAIN POSTPONES FINAL MATCH IN WESTERN TENNIS

The final match for the men's singles western tennis championship at the River Forest Tennis club between Bryan Grant, Atlanta, Ga., and Johnny McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Tex., was postponed yesterday because of rain. The match may be played next week, probably at the Chicago Town and Tennis club during the national clay court tennis tournament.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TRACK MEET SCORING.

WHILE not vehement on the subject nor feeling that major wrongs are being perpetrated, The Wake for some time has been at variance with the system of scoring prevailing in college track and field meets.

Our objection is that there is not enough differentiation in the team point total between first and second places. In the Big Ten the first five places are rated 5, 4, 3, 2, and 1 points. In the National Collegiate six places count at 10, 8, 6, 4, 2, and 1. In the Big Ten we'd prefer to rate them 10, 5, 3, 2, 1. In the National, 15, 8, 6, 4, 2, 1.

These points are an arbitrary method for determining team honors. Team rivalry, as well as individual rivalries, contribute to public interest in meets, although naturally the races themselves are more important, with team totals secondary and contributary.

So we maintain that winning of first place is the prime objective, that second or any lower place is minor to the main purpose. Perhaps we are only theoretical, but isn't it worth considering?

In the Big Ten, for instance, why should a team which places a winner for 5 points, the highest honor, be eclipsed by a team which places two men second and third for 7 points, two secondary honors? This frequently happens.

The argument most advanced is that the present system prevents a college with a small squad of highly specialized performers from rolling up a point total exceeding that of a well balanced aggregation. Our reply would be that if a smaller college happens now and then to have specialists, let it have the team championship. The big fellows get their share any way in other sports.

In prep school meets, where competition is close between many entrants, a team with even a pair of first flight performers in two events each often wins the meet with, say, 18 or 20 points, even under the present scoring system.

Perhaps we are influenced somewhat by turf measure of values. In the Arlington Classic, to be run July 14, the added money is $35,000. Of this amount $6,000 goes to second, $3,000 to third, and $1,000 to fourth. Nomination and starting fees also go to the winner, so his net is around $30,000, compared to $10,000 for combined second, third, and fourth.

In professional golf, on the other hand, there is no such wide disparity. If first money is $1,500, second money likely will be $1,000 or $1,200, graded down. The object is to attract competitors with more prizes so a greater number of entrants may earn their traveling expenses.

In baseball the players' pool is split 60 per cent to the winners, 40 per cent to the losers. Pugilism operates on a standard by which the champion, whether winner or loser, takes 37½ per cent of the purse and the challenger 12½ per cent.

THUNDER ROARS AS HE REPEATS VICTORY OF 1933

7,000 Watch Race in Rainstorm.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A blinding rainstorm beat down, lightning flashed and buried its forked electric charges in nearby fields, and thunder roared until it shook the huge grandstand at Arlington Park yesterday afternoon, yet in the face of it all Indian Runner came up from behind, ran down the stretch like a horse in a cavalry charge, and won the Inaugural handicap of the Arlington Park Jocky club's racing season.

A crowd of 7,000, most of them with their eyes closed because the lightning flashed so dangerously near, gave the five year old from down in southern Illinois, which races for D. A. Wood, a mighty cheer when they discovered that he had been victorious. It was his second straight triumph in Arlington's Inaugural. This one, in the midst of the severe storm, was one of the most spectacular ever scored on any race track.

Fights His Way Through.

Away seventh in the 15 horse field, Indian Runner fought his way up into the jaws of the storm until he was second rounding the turn into the stretch. Then with the full force of the elements beating into his face he came up and up until his nose was showing in front 20 strides from the line of finish. There was no stopping him then. He went on to win by half a length.

Dartle, from the Evergreen stable owned by Fred Burton of Chicago, fought just as gamely trying to get up on the inside, and finished second. He was a length and a half ahead of Some Pomp, from Warren Wright's Calumet stable, which got third money. Anarchy, from Brookmeade stable, finished fourth.

Favorite Runs 14th.

The favorite, Advising Anna, owned by Jack Howard of Kentucky, raced far back all the way. While Advising Anna was performing, Howard was in Federal court in Chicago before Judge Sullivan facing a charge of alleged doping of horses which came out of a series of raids at the end of the Arlington Park Jocky club season a year ago. Advising Anna finished fourteenth, next to last in the big race.

Indian Runner earned $3,575 when he finished in front. Dartle's share of the prize money was $500 and Some Pomp added $250 to Warren Wright's bank roll when he finished third. Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's share of the purse when Anarchy ran fourth was $125.

Indian Runner Pays $9.72.

After running the six furlongs under the difficult conditions in the fast time of 1:13 1-5, Indian Runner paid $9.72 to win, $4.38 to place and $3.88 to show. Dartle, which had been grouped in the field for the betting, paid $10.12 to place and $6.90 to show. Some Pomp's show price was $7.68.

Despite the storm that was sweeping the track, Starter Dickerson sent the big field away in good alignment after a delay of three minutes at the post. Miss Patience, from the Audley Farm stable, was the first to show in front, and Black Queen, carrying the silks of W. R. Coe of New York, was second, with Indian Runner third.

Catches Some Pomp.

The latter immediately was shuffled back to seventh place in the run down the back stretch, but recovered quickly, and as the field wheeled around the lower bend he was up fighting it out with the leaders and headed into the stretch in second place. Some Pomp was leading. Then Indian Runner moved to the front, with Dartle right with him. They ran that way down to the finish line, with Some Pomp faltering near the end and Dartle improving his position.

There have been few more disagreeable racing days in Chicago. At daybreak yesterday morning the track was lightning fast. Two hours later the rain hit the course and there was a steady downfall until after Indian Runner scored his victory while the storm was in its most severe stages.

Betting Is Heavy.

The "no pass" rule to all appearances had no effect on the attendance at Arlington. Officials were well pleased with the crowd which braved the stormy weather to see the opening card of the season. The betting handle was also reported to have run beyond expectations.

Neither the society folk in the crowd nor the race regulars seemed to have minded the drenching they got. They wagered with great enthusiasm all afternoon. This might have been due to the fact that favorites were romping home one after another from the time the program opened until it closed.

The favorites to win were Watersplash, Tophorn, Straight Jacket, Good Goods, Dusky Devil, and Our Admiral. The track handicapper was one of the great heroes of the day. He picked all six.

The paid attendance was more than it was on opening day a year ago although no official figures were announced. The betting was reported to have been in excess of the betting at any opening in Chicago so far this season. Considering the weather these were unmistakable signs that Arlington's meeting may reach a new peak this season.

ARLINGTON HOLDS FIRST FLAT RACE OVER TURF TODAY

Switch to Regular Track if More Rain Falls.

Unless there is more rainfall this morning, Arlington Park patrons this afternoon will see the first flat race ever run over the turf in Chicago.

The race over the turf is the sixth on the program and will be run over the old steeplechase course with the jumps and the hazards removed. It will be at about a mile and a sixteenth. Overnight it attracted Pot au Brooms, Trevallion, Glynson, Repaid, Northgalis, and Battling Girl.

This will be the first the Australian horse Trevallion has been asked to run over the turf in this country. He never ran over anything else before he left Australian two years ago. In the event of more rain the race will be run over the main course and will be at a mile out of the chute.

Gallant Mac, 3-year-old full brother of Gallant Knight, in the Audley farm stable, engaged in a sensational workout at Arlington yesterday morning. He stepped a mile through the sloppy going in 1:40 2-5 after running the three-quarters in 1:12 3-5.

Five candidates for the Hyde Park stakes, Saturday's feature at Arlington Park, are included in the entries for the Maywood purse, to be run this afternoon. Two of the colts are late arrivals from New York. They are Mrs. John Hertz's Our Reigh and Katherine Elkins Hitts' Sunned. Our Reigh, a son of Reigh Count and Anita Peabody, displayed an exceptional performance in graduating from the maiden ranks at Jamaica in May.

The other Hyde Park eligibles in the Maywood are Hal Price Headley's Fort Spring, C. C. Van Meter's Racecraft, and Bubbling Mate, property of J. and H. Scheitler. Great Haste will complete the field.

Tom Smith, Brookmeade stable trainer, decided yesterday that he would not send the budding 3 year old champion Cavalcade after the Latonia Derby to be run on Saturday. Cavalcade is to remain at Arlington Park with the $45,000 Classic stakes as his next objective. Time Clock will represent the Brookmeade stable in the Latonia Derby.

Col. Edward R. Bradley was an early arrival and after lunching in the Post and Paddock club appeared in the big betting ring in the club house enclosure.

Don Meade, who is the contract rider for Col. Bradley's stable, was also very much in the limelight. He celebrated the opening of the Arlington season by sending three horses first past the winning post.

SENATORS, 6; BROWNS, 4.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—Three St. Louis pitchers were sent to the showers today as Washington scored a 6 to 4 triumph over the Browns at Griffith stadium. Whitehill went the distance for the Senators, yielding ten hits. Clift, St. Louis third baseman, hit a home run. Kress played first for Washington in place of Joe Kuhel who is in the hospital with a broken ankle.

Manager Hornsby appeared today for the first time in the Browns' outfield. The rajah went to right field in an effort to add to the team's batting. He handled one fielding chance and made one hit. Score:

RIGHTMEIER WINS FROM BARRY IN WHITE CITY BOUT

Everett [Young] Rightmeier, Sioux City, Ia., made a successful Chicago début last night by winning an eight round decision from Davey Barry, Springfield, Ill., at White City. Rightmeier, who weighed 125, was floored in the first round, and Barry, 126¾, was knocked down in the fourth. Each jumped up without taking a count.

VANCE RETURNS TO ST. LOUIS VIA. WAIVER ROUTE

Cincinnati, O., June 25.—(AP)—Dazzy Vance, veteran hurler, has been sold to the St. Louis Cardinals at a waiver price of $7,500. Larry MacPhail, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, announced tonight. At the same time MacPhail announced acquisition of George McCurdy, catcher of the Houston club of the Texas league, for an undisclosed amount.

GIANTS, 10; CARDS, 7.

St. Louis, Mo., June 25.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell finally conquered the Cardinal jinx which has been pursuing him this year and registered his first victory over St. Louis today. He staggered through to a 10 to 7 triumph.

The Giants, led by Mel Ott with two singles, fell on Wild Bill Hallahan and Jim Lindsey for seven runs in the second inning. Hubbell needed all of them and more as Jack Rothrock hit a home run to score two ahead of him in the seventh. Poor fielding by Ott, Hughie Critz and George Watkins enabled the Cardinals to score two more in the eighth.

KUHEL TO BE OUT OF THE SENATORS' LINEUP 6 WEEKS

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Joe Kuhel, Washington first baseman, who broke his leg while stealing second base in the first game of a double header yesterday with Detroit, must spend a week in the hospital and possibly six weeks on the side lines, examination today showed. The ankle was so badly swollen that surgeons decided to postpone putting on a cast until the swelling goes down. Splints are being used in the meantime.

Ralph Kress has been assigned by Manager Joe Cronin to play first base until Kuhel returns to the lineup.

Cubs Dream of Pennant Again; Warneke Faces Dodgers Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Five victories in a row doesn't make a full season, but it does revive thoughts of getting in on the world series loot in October. Such ideas now are flitting through the heads of the Cubs as the result of taking three in succession from the top place Giants and then a pair from the Brooklyn Dodgers. It has made them forget all about their floundering in which, prior to their current winning streak, they dropped eight out of 12 on their own lot where in the past they have been invincible.

There's no harm in the superenthusiasts thinking the pennant is a cinch, or in the Cubs contemplating shiny new autos and southern winter vacations, but it will take more than that to bring about a successful conclusion. In the case of the Cubs it will take pitching. They had it the first seven days of the season and again for the last several days. But in between was a seven weeks spasm that makes the "show me" critics think the present splurge is merely a flash.

Picks Four Regular Starters.

As a result of the recent mound performances Manager Grimm thinks he has a quartet of regular starters made up of Lon Warneke, Guy Bush, Bill Lee, and Pat Malone.

Warneke has won in his last three appearances, two as a relief worker and the other a four hit shutout of the Giants. This makes it appear as if the young man finally has recovered his fast ball which mysteriously vanished after he had started the season with a pair of one hit victories.

Lee has won his last two starts, allowing two runs in each. His two other victories of the season were shutouts, also at Wrigley field. In between he encountered trouble on the road, thus creating a belief that he might prove to be the same as some other Cub pitchers in recent years. They lose their effectiveness as soon as they quit their own park.

Warneke Starts Today.

Warneke will make a bid for his fourth straight and his tenth of the season this afternoon in the third of the set with the Brooklyn boys. The Cubs probably will have to look at Ray Benge, although there is a possibility that Manager Casey Stengel will start Tom Zachary, the ancient southpaw recently obtained from the Braves.

Shields, Wood Win Matches at Wimbledon

The most decisive American victory was that of Frank Shields of New York, No. 1 in the United States ranking, over Daniel Prenn, former German Davis cup star, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

There were indications of a close tussle at the start of the match when each broke through service to tie the score at 3 all in the first set. Dropping his service in the seventh game, however, Prenn's opposition faded rapidly as Shields made his own delivery good at love. Then, after games twice went to deuce, the American took another service break and the set.

Shields had the German much at his mercy in the second set after taking advantage of an early service break. Down 1-4 in the third, Prenn rallied to win three straight games. He could not match the American pace, however, and dropped the next two and the match.

Sidney B. Wood of New York in another feature match eliminated Vivian McGrath, Australian star, 10-8, 6-4, 6-4. Wood had plenty of trouble in the first set as he sought to solve the Australian's two-handed backhand style, but he regained his equilibrium and made up for a slow start with a rousing rally in the last two sets.

Jack Crawford, defending his singles title, encountered unlooked for opposition from Ignacy Tloczyski of Poland, but finally prevailed, 6-2, 7-5, 8-6, in an exciting match that attracted a large crowd on the center court.

AMERICAN LEAGUE SENDS FONSECA ON MOVIE TOUR

Lew Fonseca, former White Sox manager, has been appointed by President William Harridge to handle a program endorsed by the American league for the promoting of baseball through the showing of motion pictures, accompanied by lectures. Fonseca will show the pictures and appear personally before business men's clubs, at luncheons, banquets, athletic clubs, and boys' clubs.

The movie and lectures also will be made with the compliments of the American league before high schools and colleges. At the same time Fonseca will offer any other possible assistance the coaches at these schools may desire. The pictures will include demonstrations by many of the star players of the American league.

All requests for these showings should be made to Lew Fonseca in care of the American League of Professional Baseball Clubs, room 2410, Straus building, Chicago, Ill.

GARDEN SHAKEUP DRAWS NEAR AS VACATIONS BEGIN

New York, June 28.—(AP)—Reports that Madison Square garden would skeletonize its staf and resume operations in the fall with an entirely new set of department heads gained credence today.

From reliable sources it was learned that within the next ten days Col. John S. Hammond, new chairman of the board of directors who recently gained control of the $7,000,000 corporation, would notify his staf of the layoff for the remainder of the summer.

Those affected are said to include Col. John R. Kilpatrick, president; Jimmy Johnston, head of boxing; Sam McQuade, matchmaker, and L. Porter Moore, publicity director. In the fall it is expected that others will take their places.

The Yankees did a little bearing down in the third and added a pair of runs. Gehrig led off with a single to center and rode home on Hoag's homer into the right field stands. Dickey doubled to left, but Earnshaw tightened and disposed of Crossetti, Heffner, and Broaca without difficulty.

Would They Were Ours!

Gallivan took over the pitching in the fourth. Combs opened with a single, but never got around, the inning ending when Gehrig was called out on strikes. Phil wasn't so fortunate in the next round. Hoag led off with a triple to left center and continued home when Chamberlin threw away the relay. Chamberlin threw out Dickey, but Crossetti walked and went to third when Heffner singled past Boken. Broaca struck out for the third time and Combs grounded out to Chamberlin.

A single by Saltzgaver, Gehrig's third hit, a double; Hoag's third hit, a single; a single by Crossetti; a double by Heffner, which Uhalt dropped after a great run, gave the Yankees four runs in the sixth.

MAX BAER the Fighting Clown

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

AND so we come to the last of our series of pieces about Max Adelbert Baer, heavyweight champion. A dozen days after his ascendancy to the championship we leave him, good to his mother, spurning all crashing cuties, popping off infinitely less than he did when he was just a contender.

We end our narrative while the champ is spending much of his time rehersing his part in a musical revue which will open Friday in a New York theater, a revue in which he will sing, play the uke, dance, act, talk and display the magnificent physique of which he himself is an enthusiastic admirer. The physical treat will be effected by means of athletic routines with his very large brother, Buddy.

Gets Real Dough on the Air.

Max also must find time in his studios intervals to reherse his radio talks, for his appearance before the mike is even a sweeter touch financially than the theatrical appearance, although the radio gives him a chance to show off nothing but his voice whereas in the stage performances he has the opportunity to display his myriad talents. It is reported that Max gets $3,000 for each of his radio talks, whereas on the stage he must do four a day for a week to draw down $6,000.

Max's tailor has begun delivery of the 35 suits that the champ ordered the first thing the morning after he won the title from Primo Carnera. It has been discovered that the additions to Max's already elegant wardrobe are in such good taste that the writers of the fashion columns of New York are pursuing him. Sartorially he has become something of a prince of Wales as leader of fashions.

It develops that the young man's favorite color is brown and it is expected that the tailoring industry soon will be out with a Baer brown. Max also is helping popularize the fad which calls for a white coat with dark trousers.

Likes Gray Slacks with Polo Shirts.

Gray slacks hold a conspicuous place in the champ's informal attire, worn either with polo shirts or slipover sweaters of various pastel shades, none too gaudy. Baer has given his O. K. to the "etonish" white coats which haven't got much beyond the members of the orchestra in Chicago's swank night life centers. Max has three or four of these bob tailed jackets.

Baer has had little to say about his fighting plans. But it becomes increasingly probable that he will make his first appearance in defense of his title this fall. Oct. 4 is the date most frequently mentioned. Steve Hamas seems the hottest for the first shot at the title, but he may be saved for next summer under Jack Dempsey's promotion proving he in the meantime can sustain the prestige he gained by beating Schmeling.

When Max goes to California late in July it will not be to plunge immediately into movie acting, according to present plans. He is bent on having a good California vacation with no cares whatsoever the first few weeks after he returns to his adopted state.

Baer has been invited to stop off in Chicago on his way to the coast. The champion has many friends in Chicago and is being urged by his trainer, Mike Cantwell, to linger a few days. Mike's home is in Wheaton, you know.

A theatrical engagement in Chicago is a possibility. And some of Max's admirers think they ought to have a Baer day at A Century of Progress.

But he's a busy champ and Chicago may have to wait for some time to view this wonderful man.

SIGILIO AND NEBO READY FOR CLASH IN SPARTA RING

Higgins, Joy Meet Tonight in Western Stadium.

Both fighters finished sparring yesterday without injury, and will do only light exercises this afternoon. Nebo expects to weigh 137, one pound less than Sigilio, who is undefeated in 17 professional starts. The poundage is important for the Cicero fighter, and it probably will be the difference between defeat and victory.

Since his defeat of Danny Neenan at the Stadium, Sigilio has scaled around the 138 pound mark and this aided him in starting a string of knockouts that ended when he was held to a draw by Tommy Corbett at Mills stadium June 1. He was at 133½ for Corbett, and his handlers say the low weight weakened him. Nebo's most prominent accomplishments are a draw with Tony Canzoneri and a knockout of Al Singer.

Gene Higgins and Mickey Joy, Chicago junior welterweights, will meet in an eight round main event tonight at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. There is ill feeling between the pair since their previous fight, which was awarded to Higgins. Joe Roman, Joliet, Ill., featherweight, is paired against Jimmy Richards of the C. Y. O. in a four round fight. The balance of the program:

Joe Serlelic vs. Angelo Garlow, 150 [5].
Patrick Henry vs. George Taylor, 150 [4].
Hank Bueker vs. Joe Esposito, 149 [4].
Pete Sofis vs. Steve Zene, 160 [4].

PRIZE STUDENTS OF SCHOOL PLAY TOURNEY JULY 14

Mission Hills Course Site of Event.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The sites of the graduation exercises of THE TRIBUNE'S second annual free golf school were named last night at a meeting of officials of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association at the Indian Head club in Western Springs. The 18 hole medal play tournament for prize students of the 19 member courses of the association will be played Saturday, July 14, at Mission Hills, located at Sanders and Techny roads, near Northbrook. The same pupils will come together in the final form competition Thursday, July 19, at Mid-City, Grace street and Western avenue.

The form contest originally was scheduled for July 12, but was changed when the dates of the $5,000 St. Paul open tournament, July 12 to 15, were made known. A number of the leading Chicago professionals who will judge the form final will compete in that event, and as a result would be unable to be present at the Mid-City exercises.

Start 4th Lesson Tonight.

THE TRIBUNE school, with constantly increasing attendance at classes, enters its fourth week tonight with the fourth lesson for the men's division.

The school, now recognized as the largest system of group instruction in the history of the game, with dozens of imitators throughout the country, attracted more than 15,000 pupils at the first general lesson June 4. Although 20,000 had registered for the course prior to this lesson, the 15,000 who did appear constituted a remarkable tribute. The district was drenched by rain that afternoon, and threatening clouds lingered on after dusk. As soon as the lessons proper got under way, however, the enrolment each week was more than 20,000. The number has jumped week by week until it is estimated that an average of 25,000 pupils weekly have attended classes.

Women Meet Tomorrow.

The class for women will be held tomorrow night, for couples Thursday night, and for juniors, boys and girls under 18, on Friday night. Classes at the six inner courses, Harlem, Mid-City, Evergreen, Chicago Meadows, Golfmoor, and Big Oaks, begin promptly at 7:30 p. m., and at the 13 outlying courses, Mission Hills, Big Run, Hickory Hills, Vernon, Oak Hills, Northbrook, Cog-Hill, Techny Fields, Walnut Hills, Twin Orchard, Indian Head, Elmgate, and Westgate Valley, at 8 p. m.

Officials of Elmgate announced last night that Helen Hicks, former national women's champion who recently became the first business woman golfer in American golf, will appear at the course tomorrow night for the regular women's class to give a demonstration and lecture.

Every golfer in the district is invited to attend to this week's classes, in which such phases as choice of clubs for particular situations and other fine points of the game will be discussed.

Next Week's Schedule.

All pupils in the school again are reminded of the abbreviated schedule next week, occasioned by the Independence day holiday. Tuesday and Wednesday will be omitted from the course. The couples' lesson will be skipped entirely. On Thursday a class for men and junior boys will be held and on Friday for women and junior girls.

The 28th annual tournament of the Lumbermen's Golf association of Chicago will be held today at the Bob o' Link Golf club in Highland Park. A number of events are on the program, the principal one being 36 holes of medal play from scratch for the Herman H. Hettler trophy, emblematic of the association championship. Other prizes include the Edward Hines trophy, the Chicago Lumber institute cup, the Chicago Retail Lumber Dealers' association trophy, the American Lumberman cup, and the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company trophy.

The Junior Traffic club of Chicago will hold its second monthly golf outing this afternoon at the Calumet Country club. A field of 200 golfers is expected to outdo the 175 who played in the initial event at Nordic.

The Chicago Warner club will hold its third annual golf tournament at Olympia Fields tomorrow, with a field of 200 in prospect. Players will tee off at 10 a. m. with nine holes in the forenoon and 18 more in the afternoon. Ben Cohn, L. F. Gran, and Bud Lewy are in charge of arrangements.

Olympia Fields also will be the scene of the annual championship of the Chicago Bar association on July 13. Among the entries are several former titleholders, including Fred A. Garlepy, Jesse Brown, Earle F. Tilley, Chuck McGuire, and Emmett J. McCarthy.

The Glee club and the Fellowship Forum of the Chicago Association of Commerce will conduct a joint tournament this afternoon at the Wilmette Golf club. Jack Brodt and S. L. Workman will be in charge of the event.

JACK TIERNEY NAMED COACH AT ST. GEORGE HIGH

Jack Tierney has been engaged as basketball and track coach at St. George High school in Evanston, it was announced yesterday by school authorities. Tierney was a member of the famous Illinois Athletic club team of 20 years ago, which lost only one game in four years. He attended grade and high school in Chicago and received his degree in physical education at George Washington university. He has played in the Eastern league, with the Chicago Bruins in the National Professional league, Barry Council in the Knights of Columbus league, and managed and coached the Majestics.

He formerly coached at Marshall in the Public High School league and more recently has been athletic director of Grigsby-Grunow company.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Glenn Cunningham's defeat last week by Bill Bonthron in the national collegiate mile race at Los Angeles was just the tonic needed to create real interest in the 1,500 meter race in the National A. A. U. meet at Milwaukee Saturday afternoon. Until this defeat the world of track and field apparently had no choice except to name Cunningham as the greatest middle distance runner ever developed in America.

BILL BONTHRON.

Bonthron's victory, of course, does not detract from the Kansan's world record performance in the Princeton university invitational games when he raced one mile in 4 minutes 6 7-10 seconds. That mark will stand at least until another year. But Bonthron has proved that Cunningham can be beaten. The proof came in time to attract more customers to Marquette university's stadium Saturday, customers who might not have been interested in seeing Bonthron trail Cunningham around the last lap, which has been his lot on all save two occasions.

Glenn Still Appears Best.

Throughout the winter indoor campaign in the east and the current outdoor races much has been written of the Cunningham-Bonthron-Venzke races. By special arrangement Gene Venzke of the University of Pennsylvania was guest artist at the Kansas relays and in return Cunningham appeared at Philadelphia in the Penn relays. On neither occasion was Venzke able to cause Cunningham annoyance. Then when Cunningham ran his record mile at Princeton, with Bonthron 40 yards to the rear at the finish, it appeared no worlds remained for the native Jayhawker to conquer.

Bonthron deserves the thanks of the officials of the A. A. U. While the preponderance of evidence tends to the belief that Cunningham still is a better miler, the score in the outdoor races between the two is even and Saturday's 1,500 meter test looms important.

Kansan Is Champion.

Cunningham is the defending champion in the National A. A. U. 1,500 meters. Last year he was timed in 3:52.3, more than a second slower than Luigi Beccali's Olympic record of 1932. Generally speaking, the mile is approximately 20 seconds longer than 1,500 meters. The metric system never has been used by National Collegiate A. A. and was discarded after a brief test by the eastern colleges. But if Cunningham and Bonthron have ambitions to win in the 1936 Olympics at Berlin this race Saturday and the 1935 A. A. U. meet will be about the only creditable qualifying tests until Olympic year.

Cunningham ran 1,500 meters in 1932 in 3:51.1. The time was taken in the national collegiate as he sped to a new meet record for the mile of 4:11.1. Possibly that afternoon at Stagg field, had he sprinted to finish 1,500 meters instead of continuing for the mile, the Kansan would have broken the world mark. Certainly Bonthron never has done as well, but after all this is not important. It is important that Bonthron has shown he is not outclassed by Cunningham and that, whether records are broken or not, Milwaukee will see a race.

For those who would shed tears for Cunningham and hope for him to whip Bonthron Saturday, let them remember that Bonthron now holds the N. C. A. A. mile record and that Cunningham, who changed the all time figures in 1932 and 1933, now has finished his term of college competition and can do nothing about it.

Armour Sets Record; Leads Pro Tourney

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—Establishing a new record for the Illini Country club course with 66 strokes, Tommy Armour, of Chicago, led the field at the conclusion of first 18 holes in the Illinois State Professional golf tournament today. The final 18 holes will be played tomorrow.

Armour, who lost to Harry Cooper by six strokes in the 36 hole playoff for the title last year, was in exceptional stroke. The Medinah Country club professional, apparently unmindful of the terrific heat, cut two strokes off par on his first nine, which he made in 34, and three on the incoming nine, which he negotiated in 32 strokes. His 66, five strokes under par, was one better than the old record, made by Alex Ayton, former Illini club pro.

Tommy's Putter Is Right.

Armour did not take more than four strokes on any hole today. He followed the card from the fifth on after having scored birdies on the first five holes. Armour's putter was under full control. His outstanding work in this respect came on the 570 yard seventh, where he dropped a 15 foot putt and again on the short 11th where he holed out from 20 feet. He missed a 65 on the 18th green when a seven foot putt failed to drop.

Cooper got off to a shaky start in defense of his title. The new Western Open champion complained of the heat, which was near the 100 mark, and a lame back. He required 38 strokes on the outgoing nine and 35 coming home for a 73, two over par. Harry Hampton, Chicago, paired with Cooper, took a 74.

Four Better Par.

Only four of the 43 starters were able to better par today. Pat [Sonny] Rouse and Frank Garrity, both of Chicago, had 69s, and until Armour came home with his record card, these two held first place. Jack MacDonald of Springfield turned in the other sub par scoring, pairing 35s for a 70.

Six equaled par 71. Those were Frank Walsh, Abe Espinosa and Joe Paletti, Chicago; Burt Montressor of Decatur; Al Huske, of Elgin, and Frank More of Duquoin.

Following the final 18 holes tomorrow morning, special matches between professionals and amateurs will be played in the afternoon.

Armour's card:

Par—Out	434	445	543—36
Par—In	434	544	434—35—71
Armour—Out	434	444	443—34

C. B. Herschberger, Old Maroon Star, in Hospital

Clarence B. Herschberger, great football star at the University of Chicago from 1895 to 1898 and first player outside of the east to be chosen on an All-American team, was taken to the psychopathic hospital for observation last night. He will be arraigned in Psychopathic court on Thursday. Herschberger, now 57, was considered one of the greatest place kickers ever developed. He is married and has four children.

Wisconsin Black Bass Offer Real Sport in Evening

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Crivitz, Wis., June 25.—The small mouth black bass up here certainly are smacking fly rod lures. This fact may be learned on a hot, still evening when the water is without a ripple. Start your fishing in the famous High Falls reservoir around 6 o'clock when the wind is going down. Flip the floating, dry fly type of lure around snags and against the small grassy islands in this big body of water, which has been stocked with small mouthed bass, and then watch the action.

Until around 8:30 or 8:45 o'clock we have found that bronze backs go for dancing cork bugs, floating flies, imitation mice, fake frogs made of hair, and similar floating lures.

It's amazing how many fish you can land during the course of an evening of black bass fly fishing. On our first after dinner bout with the small mouths we fished nothing but surface lures with a fly rod. It seemed as if a bronze back either was boiling the water beneath our lure or else hooked and fighting.

This first night on the big reservoir was perfect for fishing. After a bright, hot day the wind died down between 6 and 7 o'clock. [We had eaten dinner at 5, so we were ready for a full evening with the bass.] It was the kind of evening that you expect fish to come to the surface around sundown and stay there, waiting to hit lures. They did just that.

We shot most of our lures against the grassy banks of the small islands which dot this expanse of water in the High Falls reservoir. As a rule the bass were close to the islands, instead of being around the numerous old sawed off tree trunks and ugly snags in the reservoir.

DUKELSKY WINS FROM GIBBS IN 8 ROUND FIGHT

Solly Dukelsky, although knocked down for a two count in the second round, came back to win an eight round decision over Jack Gibbs of Orange, Tex., last night at the Marigold Gardens. Gibbs weighed 162 pounds and had a seven pound advantage over his west side opponent. Maurice Rickin, promoter, announced an attendance of 900 and $600 in receipts.

Dukelsky traded rights with Gibbs in the seventh round and Gibbs went down, but bounced up before the count was started.

Mickey Beal, Chicago bantamweight, who recently began fighting professionally, stopped Bud Dempsey of Davenport, Ia., in three rounds. Beal dropped Dempsey twice in the first round and again in the second. Dempsey was out on his feet when Referee Dave Miller stepped between the boxers in a corner.

Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, an International Golden Gloves champion in 1931, met Willie Davies and won a four round decision. Davies was knocked down in the first round and Kranz went down in the second.

YALE COXSWAIN LEADS PRINCETON IN THAMES DRILLS

HENLEY, England, June 25.—(AP)—Chalk up one good deed for Yale—the loan of one regulation coxswain, Bing Meyers. A spare part in Yale's rowing camp, Meyers now is bellowing Princeton oarsmen up and down the placid Thames during the final training period for the classic Henley regatta.

Princeton arrived on the upper Thames minus its coxswain, Roger Farstone, who was taken ill and sent to a London hospital. He won't be out until Thursday and in the meantime Meyers is piloting the Princeton crew.

TEXAS GOLFER'S PAR 72 LEADS IN COLLEGIATE GOLF

Yale and Michigan Tie in Team Race.

Cleveland, O., June 25.—[Special.]—Ed White of the University of Texas shot a par 72 today to take a two stroke lead over the field as the 36th annual intercollegiate golf tournament opened on the Cleveland Country club course. Five tied for second with 74.

Yale, whose captain, Oliver Transue, scored a 75 to take sixth position in the individual competition, was steady enough to tie with Michigan for the team lead at 309 strokes. Two strokes back, with 311, came Notre Dame and Georgia Tech. Texas was fifth with 313. The team championship will be decided at the end of tomorrow's 18 hole qualifying round when the low four scores on each six man team will be totaled. The championship has never left the east. Yale holds it now.

White's lead was accomplished with a 37, one over par, on the first nine, and 35, one under perfect figures, on the incoming nine. He had three birdies, the results of 5, 10 and 15 foot putts, and slipped one over par on three other holes.

Banks, Kocsis Tie.

Only 32 entries were able to break 80, making it probable that cards of 160 will qualify tomorrow. The strangle hold the east has had on the tournament was loosened today when four sections of the country were represented among the first six low scorers.

Texas had White. The middle west was little satisfied by the outcome of the duel between Charlie Kocsis of Michigan, Big Ten champion, and Johnny Banks of Notre Dame and La Grange, Ill., Indiana state champion. The long awaited match ended even when both shot 74s, two over par. They tied with A. F. Kemmer Jr. of Princeton, and William Ward of Syracuse, representing the east, and Roy Warren Ryden Jr. of U. C. L. A., present southern California intercollegiate champion. His home is in Memphis, Tenn.

Transue of Yale scored the only 75 of the day. Charley Yates and Berrien Moore of Georgia Tech and Maurice Hankinson of Oklahoma tied at 76.

Day Shoots 77.

Walter Emery of Oklahoma, the defending champion, who matched par in the recent Western Open at Peoria, was tied with six others at 77. One of these was Winfield S. Day Jr. of Notre Dame, who recently won his second consecutive Chicago district title. Woodrow Malloy of Michigan, Dick Stewart of Colgate, Frederick Newton of Rollins, Walter Ramsey of Texas, and Law Weatherwax of Yale also had 77s.

FOLEY GOES EAST TO SIGN THREE TITLE MATCHES

Joe Foley, general manager of the Stadium Operating company, left last night by airplane for New York to negotiate for three of the most sought after championship matches in the country. It is said to be one of the most ambitious programs ever attempted by a Chicago promoter. It is:

Barney Ross, welterweight champion, vs. Jimmy McLarnin [boxing].

Jim Londos vs. Ed [Strangler] Lewis [wrestling].

Although the groundwork for return bouts between Ross and McLarnin and Baer and Carnera already has been laid by New York promoters, they may be arranged for Chicago if Foley can convince representatives of the principals that the matches will draw as much if held in Chicago.

Foley will witness the Tony Canzoneri-Frank Klick fight, scheduled for tomorrow, and then return home. He is confident he will have signed at least one of the encounters, if not all three, by that time.

RAIL LOADINGS SHOW INCREASE OVER LAST WEEK

May Earnings Make a Moderate Gain.

Substantial gains in loadings and earnings during the last week over a year ago were reported yesterday by a number of railroads.

The Atchinson, Topeka, and Santa Fé last week handled freight amounting to 28,985 cars, the best for any week since that ended Oct 31, 1932, when there were 30,348 cars moved. The total for the week compares with 25,535 cars for the preceding week, and 24,348 during the corresponding week of 1933. The increase was attributed to the early movement of southwest winter wheat.

Northeastern Loadings Up.

With 26,494 cars, including ore, loaded during the last week the Chicago and North Western showed an increase of 786 cars over the preceding week, and 3,211 cars above the week of June 17-23 in 1933. Excluding ore loadings, there were 24,143 cars moved last week, compared with 23,587 during the preceding week and 22,789 cars a year ago. This is an increase of 556 cars over the preceding week and 1,354 cars ahead of the corresponding week of 1933.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific reported a total of 24,027 cars loaded last week, which is 822 cars above the preceding week, but 72 cars below a year ago.

Other loadings reported for the last week compared with those of a year ago were Chesapeake and Ohio, 30,457 and 29,855 cars; and Gulf Coast Lines, 195,498 and 97,414 cars.

Wabash Income Higher.

Operating revenues of the Wabash for May amounted to $3,477,909, compared with $3,171,839 for May, 1933. Net operating income was $501,542, while that of May, 1933, was $311,389. For the five months ended May 31 there were operating revenues of $16,272,393, against $13,800,366 for the corresponding period a year ago.

The Missouri Pacific reported May net operating income of $799,837 as compared to $676,907 in the same period a year ago. Total operating revenue for May totaled $6,333,306 compared to $5,845,329 in 1933. In the first five months of 1934 net operating income amounted to $3,272,720. This compares with $1,315,881 in the same period last year.

Other net operating incomes for May, with comparative figures of a year ago, follow: St. Louis Southwestern, $274,016 and $273,121; New York, Ontario, and Western, $127,754 and $101,028; St. Louis-San Francisco, $184,075 and $352,774; Norfolk and Southern, $14,110 and 6,245; and the Seaboard Air Line, $259,460 and $251,928.

EXPECT STOCK MARGIN TO BE HELD AT 45 PCT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—Governors and board chairmen of the twelve federal reserve banks met today to work out a policy for the making of direct loans to industry under the law passed recently by congress and to determine the reserve board's policy on margin requirements under the national securities and exchange act.

Meanwhile, the Reconstruction Finance corporation which is also empowered to make direct loans to industry and which already has promulgated its regulations, considered the advisability of loans to school boards for payment of the arrears in teachers' salaries. Of immediate consideration was the application of the Chicago school board for a loan of from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000, Chairman Jones said.

No Loans to Receiverships.

The RFC also had before it applications for many loans from strictly industrial applicants, notably automobile manufacturers. Among them were Willys Overland, $2,000,000; Pierce-Arrow, $1,500,000, and Continental Motors, $2,000,000. In this connection, Chairman Jones announced that no loans would be made to companies in receivership.

Large industrial loans will not be made hereafter by the Reconstruction corporation, Jones told reporters today. He said the corporation would conform to the spirit as well as the letter of the new law which limits direct loans to a maximum of $500,000 to one borrower.

The reserve bank officers probably will continue in session tomorrow, Gov. Black of the reserve board said. No indication was given as to the character of regulations to be issued by the board governing loans to industry, but in the matter of stock exchange margin requirements, it was believed that the 45 per cent requirement would not be changed.

Has Power to Alter Margin.

The reserve board has been given the power to move this requirement up or down at its discretion, but President Roosevelt has expressed himself in favor of the 45 per cent limitation written into the law as an original declaration of policy.

The board today issued an order holding that it is not incompatible with the public interest to grant permits authorizing correspondent relationship between member banks and dealers in securities in connection with underwriting and dealing in the securities exempt from restrictions contained in Section 5136 of the revised statues.

DOLLAR UNEVEN; GOLD IS STEADY; IMPORTS, $585,800

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The dollar gained slightly against the French gold franc today but showed a more substantial upturn in relation to the British pound. Other principal currencies with the exception of the Canadian dollar were strong against the American dollar.

The franc closed ¼ point lower, indicating a dollar worth 59.41 cents as compared with 59.39 on Saturday. The pound closed at $5.03, down ⅝ cent for the day, and the Canadian dollar eased ⅛ cent at $1.01.

The price of bar held unchanged in London at 138 shillings one penny a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.77]. Metal valued at $1,445,103 was sold.

The daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed imports of $585,800 from England. There were no exports nor change in earmarked stocks.

PERKINS' DEPUTY, UNION HEAD PLAY A GAME OF TAG

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 25.—(AP)—A government investigator came to Pittsburgh today to hear the views on the steel situation of E. Pat Cush, head of the Steel and Metal Workers' Industrial union, but found upon arrival that Cush had gone to Washington.

Turner W. Battle, executive assistant to Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, immediately took a plane back to the capital to hear Cush there.

Cush had sought an interview with the labor secretary, and she delegated Battle to see him.

Exports of Buick Autos Reported in Sharp Gain

Detroit, June 25.—(AP)—Exports of Buick automobiles during the first five months of 1934 totaled 3,823, against 1,244 in the first five months last year, Harlow H. Curtice, president of the Buick Motor company, reports. The June export schedule calls for 1,010 cars and the July schedule for 1,127, or more in the two months than were exported altogether last year.

Bank Reports to Show Gains in Condition

BY HOWARD WOOD.

State and national bank calls, which are expected some time during the next week, will show further improvement in the condition of Chicago banks, although increases in deposits for the second quarter, it is believed, will be smaller than during the first quarter and much smaller than during the second quarter of last year.

The figures for the period from March 5, the date of the last call, to the end of June will probably show a continuation of the increases in deposits that Chicago banks have been enjoying ever since the moratorium.

Loans, on the other hand, will show little expansion since March. Increased deposits with no expansion of loans and investments means that Chicago banks are still working in the direction of increased liquidity, despite exhortations of administration leaders in Washington.

Reserve Banks Show Trend.

Indicative of the trend for all Chicago banks are the figures shown by those Chicago banks which belong to the federal reserve system. The latter comprise all the larger banks and most of the outlying banks and they make weekly reports on their condition.

From March 7 to June 20 these reserve system members enjoyed an increase of nearly 150 million dollars in deposits, but they expanded their total outstanding credit only 66 million dollars, and more than half of this small increase represented the purchase of additional government bonds.

Borrowers other than the federal government got only 32 millions of the 150 millions increase in deposits. Even this meager 32 million dollar credit expansion was in investments in securities and loans against securities.

Stockholder Lists Shrink.

Announcement by General Motors corporation that its total number of stockholders during the second quarter has further receded to 348,230 calls attention to the fact that stockholder lists of other big corporations have also been shrinking.

During the lean years of declining stock prices, from 1929 to 1932, stockholder lists of leading corporations swelled enormously. Optimists kept pointing to this as an indication that the American public still had great faith in the future of the corporations.

The facts, however, indicate that increasing stockholder lists mean deepening depression and decreasing lists mean a turn toward better times. When prices are going down more people acquire stocks but average much smaller holdings. As the business outlook improves the big investors begin to accumulate again and as stock prices begin to rise the small stockholders sell and the bigger stockholders buy.

How Holdings Shifted.

In the final quarter of 1929 General Motors had 198,000 stockholders. The number steadily increased until in the first quarter of 1933 there were 372,000 G. M. stockholders. Since then there has been a decerase each quarter.

The number of Pennsylvania railroad stockholders rose steadily from 154,000 on Dec. 31, 1928, to 250,000 at the close of 1932. In 1933 the tide turned and the number dropped to 238,000 and two months later had receded still further to 236,000.

U. S. Steel stockholders increased steadily from 103,000 in 1928 to 191,000 at the end of 1932, dropping to 187,798 at the close of 1933 and to 187,019 three months later. A. T. & T. had 454,000 stockholders in 1928, 700,000 at the close of 1932 and 681,000 a year later.

There have been some exceptions. General Electric, for example, had more stockholders at the end of 1933 than a year earlier. In general, however, late 1932 and early 1933 saw the turn. Since then the process of concentrating stockholdings in fewer hands has been under way.

TWO BANKS GET LOANS; PAYMENT FOR DEPOSITORS

Depositors of the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank will receive a 20 per cent payment and those of the West Side Trust and Savings bank will obtain 30 per cent early in August, Receiver William L. O'Connell announced last night.

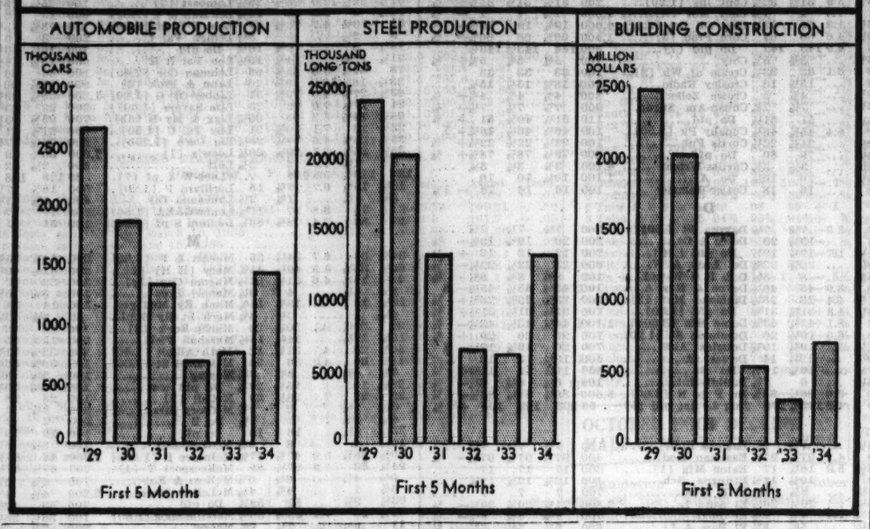
Mr. O'Connell returned from Washington yesterday after obtaining loans of $2,500,000 and $1,650,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation on securities of the respective institutions.

The loan for the West Side Trust leaves the way open for completion of reorganization plans contemplating a new national bank. Waivers of 70 per cent of deposits have been obtained under the proposal. Action was held up awaiting the RFC loan.

John R. Thompson Estate Given $32,962 Tax Refund

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—The Bureau of internal revenue announced today that because of an overassessment in the estate of John R. Thompson of Chicago between June 18 and Dec. 31, 1927, it had ordered a $32,962 refund.

Activity in Three Leading Industries for First 5 Months of Each Year Compared



Predicts Drop of 11.4 Points in Steel Rate

A plunge of 11.4 points in steel operations this week was predicted yesterday by the American Iron and Steel instatute. Its estimates place production at 44.7 per cent, against the 56.1 per cent of capacity anticipated for last week. The week's average was 59 per cent, according to the magazine Steel.

Amounting to curtailment of one-fifth of current operations, the drop is the sharpest reported by the institute since it began publishing estimates last October.

Decrease in Fall Orders.

The slackening of the industry was taken to reflect the heavy decrease in buying for fall delivery, following the most active quarterly period for the steelmakers since 1930. This production stepup was, in turn, laid to anticipated price advances.

Another factor in the heavy second quarter also used to explain the present decline was buying up for future needs against the possibility of a strike tieup. This activity has ceased with the apparent dissipation of the walkout threat.

The anticipated rate of 44.7 per cent is the lowest forecast since February, with the sole exception of the week of April 2, when the prediction was 43.3. Average ingot production for July probably will be less than in any month since January or February, the institute said.

Orders at Low Ebb.

Last week's decline of 3 points was less than expected, but the current six day period will make up for that deficiency in seasonal decline, it was thought.

With orders at a low ebb, said to be near a record for the opening of a quarter, there are several factors which tend to relieve the gloomy outlook. These are listed as depletion of inventories, which will result in replacement activity, and the healthy condition of the automobile industry. Some hope also is held in anticipation of approval of certain construction projects, federally subsidized and otherwise.

NEW TREASURY BILLS SOLD AT 0.7 PER CENT RATE

The treasury's latest offering of 182 bills was heavily oversubscribed, Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday. The issue was sold at an average price of 99.966, or a rate of 0.7 per cent, equaling the previous low mark set last week.

Of the total applied for, $251,941,000, $75,353,000 was accepted. The bills are dated June 27 and mature Dec. 26. Accepted bids ranged in price from 99.976, a rate of .05 per cent, to 99.958, or .08 per cent on a bank discount basis. Only part of the amount sought on the latter basis was accepted.

CHICAGO HOME LOAN BANK PROFIT SECOND HIGHEST IN COUNTRY

For the five months ending May 31 of this year the Federal Home Loan bank of Chicago stood second of all 12 regional units in the system in dollar volume of net profits, according to Morton Bodfish, vice chairman of the board of directors. It was surpassed only by the Federal Home Loan bank of Cincinnati, which has resources more than one and a half times as great.

The net earnings of the Chicago bank for the first six months of 1934 on credit rervices to building and loan associations in Illinois and Wisconsin will reach $215,752, it was reported yesterday at a meeting of the bank's board of directors, over which Mr. Bodfish presided.

"Operations of the bank are not only paying for themselves but are earning a profit for the government and for the member institutions," said Mr. Bodfish. "A reserve to cover dividends for the period at 2 per cent per annum on both government and association stock will be set up on July 1. Free surplus for the period, above legal reserve and these dividend requirements, will come to $58,500. Added to the $17,394 on the Dec. 31 balance sheet, this sum will bring the free surplus to $75,894 as of June 30."

ROADS TO FIGHT PENSION LAW IF IT IS SIGNED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The railroads are planning to test the constitutionality of the railroad pension act in the event it becomes law, it was learned today. Passed almost at the close of the last congressional session, the act awaits the signature of Roosevelt.

Railroad men who think President Roosevelt will disapprove the bill base their belief on the fact that Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator, who opposes it, has been preparing a railway pension plan of his own.

It was pointed out that the President could suppress the bill by "pocket veto," that is, by failing to sign it within ten days after the adjournment of congress on June 18. The American Railway association estimates that the provisions of the law would cost the railroads $60,000,000 annually compared with $33,520,000 paid for pensions in 1933 and $31,969,000 in 1932.

MAKER OF AUTO PARTS DECLARES YEAR'S DIVIDEND

Thomson Products, Inc., yesterday declared a full year's dividend of $7 on the 7 per cent preferred stock, of which 3,654 shares are outstanding. The last previous payment was the regular quarterly disbursement of $1.75 a share on March 1, 1932.

An extra dividend of 20 cents, payable July 15 to stock of record July 1, was declared yesterday by the Rapid Electrotype company.

U. S. Signs for Processing 23,000 Cattle and Calves

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—The Federal Surplus Relief corporation today announced the signing of contracts with 11 packing firms for the processing of approximately 14,870 cattle and 8,300 calves from the drouth region. The contracts, contingent on the availability of live stock, call for daily slaughtering of 1,356 cattle and 756 calves purchased under the drouth relief program.

340,000 Get Fiscal Advice from Tribune

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Investors' Guide celebrated its twentieth year of service yesterday with the receipt of its 340,000th inquiry. The department was founded in 1914, the first such department ever sponsored by a newspaper to furnish free, unbiased, accurate information on investments to its readers.

Its history is a history of the investment consciousness of middle west newspaper readers. Mail receipts showed a steady increase from 1914 through 1920, during which year 20,104 letters were received.

Market-Shy for Time .

After the 1921-'22 market slump investors were market-shy for a while. Volume of Investors' Guide mail declined, reaching a low of 13,253 in 1926. Then began the long, steady rise—14,512 in 1927, 16,377 in 1928, 20,571 in 1929, 21,449 in 1930 and 23,928, the high water mark, in 1931.

In 1932 there was a slight drop to 23,869. Bank moratoria, insurance trouble, and the general air of pessimism cut receipts in 1933 to 20,571. For the first five months of 1934, despite the stock exchange control act, record low volume of trading and absence of new issues, receipts aggregrated 8,104, against 8,929 in the first five months of 1933. This represents a drop of only 5.8 per cent from the first five months of 1929, when speculation was at its peak.

Serves in All Fields.

The favorable record is the direct result of Investors' Guide aim to serve investors, not especially in any one specific field, but in those fields where the public interest lies.

When holders of real estate bonds were unable to obtain information, Investors' Guide established a special division to help them. When rumors about insurance companies filled the air, Investors' Guide put more and more emphasis on life insurance companies, providing an easy source for worried policyholders to obtain facts.

GEORGE H. DAVIS IS NAMED HEAD OF GRAIN AUTHORITY

George H. Davis, grain elevator operator and former president of the Kansas City Board of Trade, was named permanent chairman of the code authority for grain exchanges at a meeting yesterday in the Chicago Board of Trade building. Edgar B. Black, Buffalo, N. Y., was named secretary. Executive offices of authority will be established in Washington, D. C., it was announced.

Yesterday's meeting was attended by representatives of all grain exchanges as well as by Samuel R. Arnot, former president of the Chicago board, who represented the National Recovery administration, and J. M. Mehl, acting for the secretary of agriculture.

Estimates Europe's Wheat Cut 260 Million Bushels

ROME, June 25.—(AP)—The International Institute of Agriculture estimated today that the European wheat harvest this year will fall short of 1933 by 260,000,000 bushels. The 1934 harvest is expected to total 1,470,000,000 bushels, an amount which approximates the 1932 crop. This year's decline is due to the drouth.

Rains Throughout France.

PARIS, June 25.—(AP)—Widespread rains throughout France today brought relief to crops, particularly wheat, which is expected to reduce materially the losses predicted as a result of the drought.

HEAVY SELLING SENDS WHEAT DOWN 2 CENTS

Declines in Other Grains Smaller.

Lightning Hits Pit

Grain brokers who have seen their business dwindle steadily through governmental restrictions were momentarily speechless shortly after noon yesterday when lightning, which was followed almost immediately by a blast of thunder, struck the Board of Trade building.

"The department of agriculture," one wag shouted.

Fire apparatus was soon on the scene, but needlessly. No damage was done.

Wheat prices dropped two cents a bushel here yesterday as hedging pressure from the movement of new grain, augmented by selling of local professionals and liquidation of disappointed investors, proved too heavy a weight for the market to carry. Considerable buying by milling interests offered only temporary respite.

Prices opened slightly lower and continued to drift downward in listless trading. Final levels were near their lows for the day, 2 to 2¼ cents lower, with the September delivery now the most active option, finishing at 91⅞ cents.

Other Grains Decline.

Other grains also declined, but losses were confined to fractions in most instances. Corn eased ¼ to ½ cent, oats ½ to ¾ cent, rye ⅝ to ¾ cent and barley was unchanged to 1¼ cents off. September deliveries of the four cereals were quoted at the close at 53¾, 41¾, 66¼ and 52 cents respectively.

The movement of new wheat to terminal markets reached its highest level of the year yesterday with 3,366 cars received at ten markets. This approximated 5,034,000 bushels. Primary markets reported receipt of 2,523,000 bushels.

While this accounted for hedging the markets were forced to absorb the fact that no apparent increase in the movement was evidenced—yesterday's total included two days Sunday and Monday—led many commentators to believe the peak of the movement has been reached.

If this is true hedging will start declining, which traders fervently desire, for restrictions have so curtailed speculative operations that sales against the new wheat are absorbed only with great difficulty and usually with concessions in prices.

First New Wheat Here.

Chicago received five cars of new wheat yesterday, the first of the season. Cash markets have steadily bought new offerings and premiums over the futures price are being maintained with little effort.

Crop comments were spotted. Rains were received in parts of Europe and Australia, which adversely affected Liverpool futures. Considerable moisture fell in portions of the American grain belt needing precipitation, while weather in the areas being harvested was good. Crop comments from the northwest were mixed. R. O. Cromwell, Lamson Bros. expert, reported little improvement in parts of North Dakota which he is now touring.

Corn resisted pressure yesterday in strong fashion. The effect of week-end reports of crop experts describing further inroads of chinch bugs was partially offset by rains in the belt. Corn yet has to face its greatest test for July weather will determine the outlook. A resumption of extremely hot weather and lack of moisture will increase the number of chinch bugs and increase drouth damage. Traders are bullish on the long term outlook but feel too many uncertainties exist now to follow any advance far.

PLAN TO MAKE NEWSPRINT IN SOUTH STUDIED

Savannah, Ga., June 25.—(AP)—The feasibility of establishing a slash pine paper making industry in the south was the topic of discussion today at a meeting of the newsprint committee of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association.

During its sessions today and tomorrow the committee will inspect the experimental plant in which Dr. Charles H. Herty has developed a process for using slash pine in making newsprint.

Report Wilson Plan to Pay Stock Arrears

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Wilson & Co., Inc., third largest corporation in the meat packing industry, is considering a plan of recapitalization that is expected to lead to the liquidation of all accumulations on the preferred issue, amounting to $24.50 a share, it was learend today.

Whether directors will act on this program at their next meeting is uncertain, but it is reported that both T. E. Wilson, chairman of the board, and E. F. Wilson, president, favor an adjustment that eventually will pave the way for dividends on the class "A" shares, on which arrears of approximately $17.50 a share are outstanding.

The report was deemed as entirely logical and the opinion was given that the matter would be decided before the end of the year. In all probability preferred stockholders will be offered part cash and part stock in payment of back dividends.

Funded Debt $15,488,000.

Present outstanding capitalization of Wilson & Co. consists of $15,488,000 in funded debt, which, with the exception of $1,048,000 of subsidiary obligations, consists of first mortgage 6 per cent bonds, due April 1, 1941, 227,248 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, 313,236 shares of class "A" $5 cumulative stock, and 534,983 shares of no par common.

The last balance sheet showed that the company had $5,658,000 in cash and equivalent, $7,356,000 receivables, and $16,232,000 inventories. The last mentioned item, it is said, shows the corporation a substantial profit.

Sufficient capital already is authorized to permit the consummation of any program that will include the largest part of the payment on account of accumulations in stock. Nearly 200,000 shares of class "A" stock are authorized above the amount outstanding, while the common stock authorization exceeds by almost 1,000,000 shares the amount outstanding. The "A" issue is selling around $23.50 a share, while the common sells at about $7.

Several Payments Made.

Directors have made a number of preferred payments on account of arrears. A dividend of $1.75 a share has been declared, payable July 2. The same amount was paid on April 2 and Jan. 2, 1934, the latter representing the first disbursement since a similar dividend on Jan. 2, 1931.

Earnings in the current fiscal year are showing a substantial increase over those for the twelve months ended Oct. 28, 1933, when net income of $3,056,000 was equal to $13.45 on the preferred and $4.68 on the class A. This compares with a net profit of only $51,000 in 1932 and with a loss of more than $2,000,000 in 1931.

For the first five months of the current fiscal year, or up to March 28, it is estimated Wilson earned about $2,000,000. After provision for six months' requirements on the preferred, these earnings were equal to about $3.80 a share on the class A. However, in unofficial circles it is asserted the corporation is showing an even greater amount of profit.

WILSON DENIES REPORT.

Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board, said last night that no recapitalization or reorganization plan has been "formulated or promulgated" by the company. The directors will meet today, but Mr. Wilson said that nothing other than routine matters will come to their attention.

He refused to state whether or not any plan was under consideration to pay off accumulated dividends on either preferred or class A issues, merely denying the New York report that recapitalization was imminent.

BANK PAYS 4% FOR 81 YEARS, STATE STOPS IT

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—The Westchester County Savings bank in a statement issued today criticized the state banking department for "forcing" it to break an 81 year old record of paying continuous dividends at 4 per cent. Beginning July 1 the bank will reduce the rate to 3 per cent.

"Had we been permitted to continue our 4 per cent rate," the statement declared, "the dividend would have been $135,969, leaving a sum of $33,557 to be transferred to undivided profits. This sum would have been the largest amount over and above our dividend and expense requirements in our history.

DROUTH HAVOC CALLED LESSON FOR WALLACE

AAA May Drop Crop Curtailment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—Circumstances beyond control, it appeared today, may force the agricultural adjustment administration to revise, if not to reverse, its crop restriction policy with respect to wheat. The tremendous damage to wheat crops caused by the farm belt drouth this summer, coupled with a continued refusal on the part of Argentina to abide by the terms of the London international wheat agreement, are understood to have turned the serious attention of federal farm planners to the necessity of drastic action to maintain wheat carryover stocks next year.

Because of the threatened shortage Secretary Wallace and his aides are understood to be considering plans for a federal system of grain storage to provide a cushion for bad crop years. The uncertainties of climate have brought Wallace to the realization, it was reported, that controled production must be counterbalanced by a safeguard against the uncontrolable forces of nature.

Argentina Won't Curb Crop.

Further reason for dispensing with the program of federal crop reduction as it applies to wheat is seen by certain observers in Argentina's continued refusal to abide by the terms of the international wheat agreement, recently signed at London. It is the position of the AAA, according to reports, that the United States can not and will not continue its effort to cut down the American wheat crop unless this country's foreign competitors in world markets agree to take similar steps in accordance with the London agreement.

Latest word from Argentina indicated today that the government of the great South American wheat country has little intention of curbing either the export or the production of wheat. Already, according to dispatches reaching the AAA, Argentina has exceeded by some 15 million bushels the 110 million bushel export limit to which she had agreed at London.

While no definite plans for the government storage system have been devised, the AAA is understood to be flirting with the idea of placing wheat under government seal on the farm in return for federal loans to the farmer.

Wheat Parley Collapses.

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—In despair over the situation developed by Argentina's continued exportation of wheat beyond her quota, the international wheat commission today abandoned a session scheduled to open Wednesday, and the action was regarded in some quarters as the end of the commission's life.

While no formal announcement was made, members of the international group, which was formed last August in an effort to improve grain prices, were informed that no progress had been made with Argentina.

A final effort will be made to patch up differences, and the American delegates—John Van Antwerp MacMurray, minister to Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, and Loyd V. Steele, agricultural attaché at Berlin—will remain here for another week.

SUSENS TO LEAD U. S. CROP AND FEED LOAN WORK

Minneapolis, Minn., June 25.—(AP)—George Susens, president of the Production Credit corporation of the federad farm credit administration for the northwest, today was appointed national director of the emergency crop and feed loan section in the government's drouth relief program.

Susens, who until last winter was secretary of the Minnesota Bankers' association, will have supervision of loans to farmers for purchase of stock feed and seed in all sections of the country in which the government is carrying on its relief program. He also will continue in his office as president of the District Production Credit corporation.

GARY ELECTRIC AND GAS COMPANY

Over fifty per cent of the bonds of the Gary Electric and Gas Company, due July 1, 1934, have been deposited under the plan of extension adopted May 5, 1934, and modified June 14, 1934.

Holders of over 18 per cent more of the bonds have promised to deposit at once.

Certain modifications have been made in the plan, strengthening the sinking fund provisions, and otherwise further protecting interests of bondholders. All of the original underwriting institutions are now actively supporting the modified plan.

We recommend that all bonds be deposited immediately. Immediate deposit will enable the plan to become operative at an early date, putting into operation the sinking fund provisions for the protection of bondholders and will keep to a minimum the expense in connection with the Plan.

First National Bank of Chicago is the Depositary. Sub-depositaries are: Bankers Trust Company of New York and the Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities, Philadelphia.

Please write to the company, 122 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, for any further information.

PACKERS' STOCKS ADVANCE; MOST OTHERS DECLINE

Trading in General List Continues Dull.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Stocks for the most part refused to budge out of their old groove of declining prices in sluggish trading today.

The opening was fairly firm as professionals tried to extend Saturday's improvement, but popular enthusiasm was lacking and the market soon reverted to a narrow trading affair, with buyers demanding concessions among leading issues.

Some recovery in late dealings indicated that the market was receiving better support than has been in evidence in recent sessions. Nevertheless, losses were in heavy majority at the close, ranging from fractions to more than a point. The turnover was only 495,000 shares.

Absence of News.

The market's feeble performance was traceable to the absence of stimulating news over the weekend and continued uncertainty as to whom President Roosevelt would name to the market regulation board. Recessions in grain prices after Saturday's advance were no help. Week end trade news was mixed and on the whole of no great consequence.

The trend was not unanimously on the downside. An outstanding counter-movement was furnished by American Can, which was bid up early for a gain of nearly two points, most of which was held to the close.

Best group strength was found in the packing shares, with Armour, Cudahy, and Wilson issues all finding good support for gains of 1 to 2 points, the buying being based on a strong livestock market.

Steel Issues Weak.

The abrupt decline in steel operations dragged steel stocks down. United States Steel finishing off more than a point. Most other shares of heavy industry chose to follow the rest of the market downward.

Air Reduction finished almost 2 points to the good, but du Pont, Columbian Carbon, and most of the other chemicals were weak.

The seasonal sales reduction factor was probably behind pressure on motors, especially on General Motors. Hudson and Chrysler were relatively steady.

Silver stocks failed to maintain their recent following, despite a rise in futures, and after early firmness the group turned dull around previous finals.

Uncertainty over the fate of the pension bill, awaiting President Roosevelt's decision as to signature, weighted down railroad stocks. Utilities were as much neglected as others, but generally steady. Foods did little, the sugars failing to reflect the reported friendly feeling toward them.

New York, June 25.—Trading in bonds on the New York Stock exchange was dull today and turnover fell to only $7,880,000, the lowest level since last September. Transactions in United States government bonds totaled only $850,000, against $3,307,000 on Friday.

The market held about steady with price changes slight and irregular. Rails and industrials as a group were slightly higher. Public utilities and foreign issues were fractionally lower.

Federal List Uneven.

United States governments were irregular. The federal group closed 6-32 point higher to 7-32 lower, with the maximum gain scored in Liberty first convertible 4¼s and the maximum loss in treasury 4s of 1944-'54.

Despite the dullness of the season, new highs for the last year or longer were recorded on small turnovers by both American Telephone debenture 5s, Santa Fé convertible 4s, Atlantic Refining 5s, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s, Carolina Clinchfield and Ohio 6s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s of 1995, Chicago and Erie first 5s, Chicago Union Stations 5s, Edison Electric of N. Y. 5s, Illinois Central first 4s, Ohio River first 5s, and Virginian railway 5s. Most of these loans, however, established their peaks only by small fractional advances.

Market News Scarce.

News of the day that might exert an influence on the market was scarce and traders found little to stir enthusiasm.

Foreign issues were more active than many other parts of the list. German governments received in good buying, while Australian, South American, and Rumanian bonds were strong and active. Cuban public works 5½s were also strong. French republic issues were quiet and slightly easy, and there was little activity in United Kingdom issues which were irregular.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 25.—Tom Reid, British Columbia liberal and bimetallist, professed in the house of commons today to find in Canada's new central bank legislation "a slap in the face for the United States."

He declared he found Canada's "insult" to America in a clause providing that the Central bank should never buy more silver than Canada's allotment under the world silver agreement. Reid interpreted it to mean Canada would never adopt partial silver currency coverage and aid the United States in redistributing gold. Premier Bennett declared that the government, irrespective of the bank, could buy silver if silver currency backing were determined upon as a Canadian policy.

Premier Bennett, justifying recent Canadian currency inflation, declared that American economic policies had aided the Canadian dollar.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

A syndicate headed by the Chase National bank yesterday was awarded an issue of $5,000,000 state of Missouri road bonds, bearing 3 per cent interest, on a bid of 101.169, a premium of $58,450. This is the first 3 per cent Missouri road issue which has sold at a level above par.

Others in the successful group included Kidder, Peabody & Co., Lehman Bros., F. S. Moseley, Arthur Perry & Co., Stranahan, Harris & Co., Inc., Whitaker & Co., Hemphill, Noyes & Co., and the Manufacturers and Traders Trust company. A second bid of 101.156 was made by a group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co.

The town of Brookline, Mass., yesterday awarded $500,000 of revenue anticipation notes, dated June 25, 1934, and due Nov. 27, 1934, at a discount of .24 per cent. One-half of the issue was sold to the Bankers Trust company of New York and one-half to the Merchants National bank of Boston.

A new issue of $300,000 Kings county, Washington, 5% and 6 per cent bonds is being offered to the public by E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., Wells-Dickey company, and Stranahan, Harris & Co., Inc. The bonds are dated July 1, 1934. The 6s, which mature July 1, 1936 to 1949 inclusive, are priced to yield from 4.25 per cent to 5.30 per cent. The 5½s mature from July 1, 1950 to 1954, inclusive, and are priced to yield 5.25 per cent. The bonds were issued for relief purposes.

An issue of $100,000 3¼ per cent refunding bonds of the Cedar Rapids, Ia., Independent school district, will be offered for award on July 5. The bonds will be dated July 15, 1934, and will mature July 15, 1935 to 1942.

Allegheny county [Pa.] has called for bids on an issue of $2,250,000 road and voting machine bonds to be awarded July 3. The bonds, which are to carry a rate of interest not exceeding 3¾ per cent, are to be dated July 1, 1934, and mature serially in thirty years.

Summit county, Ohio, will offer on July 9, $200,000 poor relief bonds, dated July 1, 1934, and due Sept. 1, 1934, and Nov. 1, 1938. The bonds will carry a rate of not exceeding 6 per cent.

PRICES OF HOGS STEADY DESPITE LARGER RECEIPTS

Drought Cattle Slaughter Reaches New High.

The hog market yesterday held up well under pressure of somewhat heavier supplies from the country. Receipts were below normal for the time of year, but they were a little larger than the starvation offerings which have been on the market the last ten days. Prices were steady to 10 cents lower than the average of last Friday, but they showed gains of 5 to 10 cents compared with the close of Saturday.

All interests were aggressive buyers and only a small holdover remained unsold at the close, the high point of the day. Large local houses were among the first bidders and they paid upwards of $5 for the better grades of medium and weighty butchers, while a few lots to smaller buyers reached $5.05 to $5.10 tops for the day. The top is 15 cents under the high point of last week, however.

The general average price yesterday at $4.70 was steady with the average of Saturday and compared with $4.75 last Friday.

Cattle Slaughter at Peak.

Slaughtering of "drouth cattle" for the FSRC by Chicago packers reached a new high yesterday, and the quality of the stock coming from the drouth areas indicates that most of the extremely poor kinds are about bought up, according to members of the trade here.

While all of the cattle being bought for the account of the FSRC by its agents in the country are inferior and fit only for canning, there are fewer of the emaciated kinds that are likely to be condemned by government meat inspectors at the plants, it was said. These were plentiful when the killing program began.

The 17,000 farmer owned cattle on the market about equaled the trade requirements and prices in most instances were about in line with the close of last week. A few instances of 15 to 25 cents decline were found in the medium and plainer classes of steers and decline were quoted in all but the best grades of butcher stock.

Prime Steers Reach $10.25.

Prime steers and yearlings were near the highest point of the season. Some steers averaging 1,400 pounds topped the price list at $10.25, within 10 cents of the highest paid for steers this year. Light cattle averaging 1,120 pounds sold at $10, a new high for this weight. A big share of the steers sold within a range of $6 to $9, while common kinds ranged down to $5 and a few inferior kinds in small lots were reported sold as low as $2.75 to $3.50.

Combined receipts of cattle yesterday were heaviest in four weeks and 40 per cent larger than on the preceding Monday's market.

Offerings of sheep and lambs also were slightly heavier, but prices held firm in all classes, with the close the best time of the day. Action was best in the better grades. City butcher buyers paid upwards to $9.50 for selected new crop natives, while packers bought the best of their selections at $9.25, obtaining a number of fairly good kinds around the $9 line. Yearling wethers sold at $7, with the 2 year olds in this shipment at $5.85. Old ewes sold at $2.25 and under.

WESTERN SUBURBAN MEN —TUESDAY, 11 TO 1.

My company wired me from New York to meet a few interested Oak Park, Austin and Western suburban Coast to Coast institutions, and who would like to solve permanently the question of income and security, without investment on their part.

Our corporation is known world-wide as a builder of men—provided those men wish to succeed and are workers and not simply wishers. We demand and must have character, and prefer married men—at all times men living at home. It is necessary to have use of a car and be within age-limits that insure business experience and vigor.

It is highly important that men have confidence enough in themselves to enter this work with the determination to soon equal the income of many others who have no more right to succeed than these new men have. This outstanding electrical unit business has expanded throughout the period of the depression and is now ahead at unprecedented rate at this time, and so will continue—yet it is never in any danger of a saturation point. It will be better year by year in the future as it has improved year by year in the past.

I shall interview interested men only between 11:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m., Tuesday, June 26, in the Empire Room of the Oak Park Arms Hotel, 408 S. Oak Park-blvd., Oak Park. Ask for Mr. Eckman.
